He is opposed to the re-election of a man whose former closest advisers and even personal friends have turned away in deep resentment or in disillusionment for a course of public action that has brought trouble to the national government and slighted many of the best and most important interests of the State.

Santa Monica Bay District Business Men to Support C. C. Moore for Senate

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, June 22.—Seven business men of the Santa Monica Bay District today announced their support of Charles C. Moore, president of the 1915 Panama-Pacific Exposition, who has announced his candidacy for United States Senator.

Words of praise for Mr. Moore as a citizen and a public leader included special mention of his work in connection with the Panama-Pacific Exposition, his advocacy of the Roosevelt policies and support of Herbert Hoover when he ran for President.

LA FOLLETTE GAME SEEN

Destruction Aim of Senator

Radical Republican Seeks to Head Party That is Enemy to Everything

Using Soldiers' Bonus Bill to Cover Up Tarnished War Record

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, June 22.—What is Senator La Follette trying to do now? The question is on many tongues since the belligerent Senator from Wisconsin began recently to thrust himself into public notice again.

There is no difficulty in finding the answer. It is well known to Senator La Follette's colleagues. Briefly stated, he is seeking to obtain the leadership of the radical and destructive political forces of the country. He would gather to himself that semirespectable element that Theodore Roosevelt once described so aptly as "the lunatic fringe," and also would call to his banner the radical farmer and the radical union elements. Not confining himself merely to Socialism, he would make himself a leader of infinitely greater forces than Eugene Debs ever led.

SEEK RADICAL PARTY

Senator La Follette is moving to consolidate all these elements into a radical bloc. The time for such merger, in his opinion, is ripe. The country is disturbed economically as a result of the World War. The process of readjustment and deflation induces political unrest and dissatisfaction, manifestations of which have already been observed. The coal strike is on and a railroad strike is threatened. Party obligations lie loosely on the shoulders, not only of the rank and file in both great parties, but of some leaders as well.

It is the time, as Senator La Follette sees it, to build up a great political organization with himself as its master by fanning the flames of dissatisfaction and political unrest. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, in his speech to the New Jersey State Bar Association last Friday, realized all this when he said:

"Surely it is not fitting that in preaching doctrines so anti-American and so inimical to liberty and to justice, Senator La Follette should continue to wear the livery of either of the historic political parties." He declared that Senator La Follette should "take both the name and the uniform of a destructionist and revolutionary. Let him stop boring from within and be compelled to attack from without."

SHAFT HIT MARK

The shaft struck home, as was indicated in the Senate today when Senator LaFollette called upon his resources of vituperation to denounce Dr. Butler.

La Follette is not yet ready to cast off the livery of the Republican party. Its majority of 7,000,000 votes in 1920 renders it the great political organism. Within its structure Senator La Follette would build, if he can, a radical organization far more revolutionary than any that either major party has housed heretofore. But his goal is a real radical bloc which he hopes in time may become a great political party.

Already La Follette has one follower in the Senate in the person of Senator Norris of Nebraska. The nomination of Smith D. Brookhart as the Republican candidate for the Senate in Iowa promises another La Follette vote in the Senate, for the Brookhart platform in all its phases had the blessing of La Follette. The former Nonpartisan League Governor of North Dakota, Frazier, is contending in that State for the Republican nomination for Senator, and should he come to the Senate another vote will be added to the La Follette group.

USES BONUS AS FOIL

La Follette has elected to make his re-entry into public life on two vehicles, one his championship of the soldiers' bonus, and the other an attack on the Supreme Court and the Federal judicial system. In championing the soldiers' bonus, La Follette, like the many others whose record for loyalty during the war was, to say the least, dubious, is trying to glid his tarnished patriotism at the expense of the public treasury. His attack on the Federal judiciary is but a part of his old revolutionary creed, a creed which passed into eclipse in 1917.

A Socialistic state, with transportation and instruments of production, State-owned and State-operated, is the La Follette idea. Hence his friendliness to the Plumb plan and to Senator Norris's project for government operation of Muscle Shoals as a fertilizer factory. But primarily La Follette is against the American government as it now is constituted, and upon the preaching of destruction of existing methods of government, he depends to build up his bloc. Brookhart in Iowa made his appeal to the same elements. He successfully bid for the support of the radical union labor and the radical farmer groups, for through the Middle West these two heretofore opposed radical groups have been coming together. In fact, in Nebraska the farm labor party actually is in being. In Minnesota the farm labor party also is in existence, but here the situation is unique.

BUBONIC PLAGUE DIMINISHING

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

SYDNEY (N. S. W.) May 17.—The period of maximum prevalence of bubonic plague, which originated in Queensland last year, has passed without an extensive epidemic, according to the report of the Federal Director of Health. The report states that since March 8, last, no cases of human infection have been discovered and only one infected rat has been found.

It was announced, however, that an assumption that all danger had ended would be premature as there still were infected rats in Sydney.

CHINESE IN ATTACKS ON FOREIGNERS

Missionaries Bearing the Brunt of Rebel Soldiers Intent on Murder

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

SHANGHAI, June 22.—Lives of missionaries in the Catholic Lazarist mission at Taiho are endangered by the mutinous troops of the Peking government in Kiangsi Province, according to a telegram received here today from the mission. The church school was burned and 600 Christian converts who took refuge in the mission compound have appealed for assistance against the mutineers.

The report from Taiho, which is twenty miles south of Kianfu in Kiangsi Province, says all the buildings at Kianfu were razed and women and children slaughtered. Although reports to mission stations here tell of thousands of Chinese being slaughtered and great property damage wrought by the mutineers, there have no authentic reports as yet of loss of life among foreigners.

Great anxiety is felt, however, for the Christians in the Lazarist mission as the telegram said the refugee converts were besieged in the compound by the Chinese soldiers.

Three British and two American gunboats are speeding up the Kan River to the zone of terror which extends over a considerable area of Central Kiangsi. It is believed more than a hundred missionaries in this region are in peril. Admiral Joseph Strauss, commander of the American Asiatic squadron, who arrived here recently, is in constant communication with Rear-Admiral William H. G. Bullard, commander of the Yangtse patrol force stationed at Hankow. No naval reinforcements have as yet been dispatched.

REPORT ON ARMY BILL ACCEPTED

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The Senate late today adopted the conference report on the Army appropriation bill fixing the size of the Army for the coming fiscal year at 12,000 officers and 125,000 enlisted men. The House has yet to act on the report, which includes an appropriation of $7,500,000 for continuation of work on the Muscle Shoals power project on which no agreement was reached in conference.

GEN. WILSON MURDERED

Shot to Death in Street

Sinn Feing Slayers Captured in Battle That Costs Life of Policeman

Field Marshal Hit Three Times by Assassins; One Tries Suicide

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, June 22.—Irish gunmen brought their campaign of terrorism to the heart of London this afternoon when two former Irish soldiers from Dublin shot dead Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson as he was entering his home at 36 Eaton Place in the Victoria section, within a stone's throw of the embassy in Grosvernor Gardens and within sound of Buckingham Palace.

Sir Henry was returning home in full uniform after having unveiled a monument to railway war dead at the Liverpool-street railway station. He drew his dress sword from his scabbard and attempted to defend himself from the gunmen when bullets from big army revolvers struck him in the forehead and one ankle, and he fell into the gutter. He died ten minutes later without regaining consciousness.

POLICEMAN IS SLAIN

One policeman was killed and two wounded and a taxicab driver was shot seriously in a half mile chase resulting in the arrest of the assassins.

A milkman, leaping from his cart, struck one of the gunmen over the head with a milk bottle, knocking him down, as the couple attempted to commandeer a taxi. A policeman threw his club at the other, who was aiming his revolver, knocking the weapon from the murderer's hand. Policemen then closed in and arrested the pair. They gave their names as James Connelly and James MacBrien.

The crowd beat up the gunmen before the police piled them into a cab and took them to the police station. It was stated one attempted suicide, seriously wounding himself. A dozen bullets were exchanged during the chase, bystanders and the crowd escaping miraculously.

ROUND UP SUSPECTS

Scotland Yard tonight is preparing to throw out a dragnet to round up or place under surveillance all known southern Irish refugees from Belfast, fearing wholesale repetitions of this afternoon's shooting. The guards around Prime Minister Lloyd George, Winston Churchill, Minister of Colonies; Sir Laming Worthington Evans; Minister of War, and other Cabinet ministers, have been doubled. This afternoon swarms of detectives were sent out to protect public officials and to search the haunts of the Irish and to arrest any one concerning whom there was the slightest suspicion.

The House of Commons adjourned immediately after the crime this afternoon as a mark of respect to the general. Former Premier Asquith delivered a moving eulogy on the martyred soldier, while Mr. Lloyd George, who recently disagreed with Sir Henry so seriously that he replaced him as chief of the general imperial staff with Lord Cavan, listened sympathetically.

The late field marshal, who had been the military adviser of the Unionist government, just arrived in London from Belfast last night. It was under his command that the British forces reinforced the Unionist troops in the operations against the Republicans on the Ulster border resulting in the recapture of Pettigo and Belleek.

BACKED CRAIG

During the Irish conference during the last two weeks Sir Henry supported Sir James Craig in demanding full employment of British forces in Ireland to aid the Unionists in putting down the disorders and mopping up the southern Irish Sinn Fein leaders and followers.

After the dedication today, Sir Henry took a taxi for home. The

WOMEN SEEK GLANDS NOW

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, June 22.—One immediate result of the successful gland transplantation to which Harold F. McCormick submitted, and the wide publicity given his case, has been numerous applications from wealthy men whose vitality is waning and who desire rejuvenation, and from obese women, wealthy dowagers who fear the loss of social position because of their increasing avoirdupois.

Inquiries from women past middle age have been eager and as numerous as those from men. Surgeons say it is possible to rejuvenate these women, but the operation is far more complicated than for men, and has not been attended with the same success.

It was said today that since operating on Mr. McCormick, Dr. Victor Lespinasse has performed similar operations on at least six other men, all of them wealthy and prominent, but in these cases he and his patients have been able to keep the operations secret.

WOULD RAISE BARS

Thomas C. O'Grady and Laurence C. OBrien, State Representatives, leaped into the limelight today with bills to prevent the selling or transferring of glands.

It is pointed out in this proposed legislative action that the authors of the bills are "grievously shocked" over the case of a penniless, but husky youth who sells his glands to a wealthy old steer. They propose stiff fines and imprisonment for both parties to such transactions.

Meanwhile McCormick is rapidly recovering and it is said he will quit the hospital Friday and start East perhaps a day or so later. It is understood he will sail shortly for Europe.

HORNBLOWER ANGRY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—Assemblyman William Hornblower announced today that he would start work soon on the draft of a bill forbidding traffic in human glands.

Hornblower said he favored punishing the purchaser of life-giving glands rather than the seller.

Hornblower said that he had no objection to the goat-gland experiments as performed on ailing prisoners at San Quentin prison by Dr. Leo L. Stanley, the prison physician.

CATHOLICS FLEE FROM REPRISALS

Uprising in Ulster Feared Over Sinn Fein Murder of Gen. Wilson

BY S. FRED HOGUE,
"Times" Staff Correspondent
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BELFAST, June 22.—Ulster is so stirred by indignation over the assassination of Gen. Sir Henry Wilson that it is almost certain to take form of violent action. He represented County Down in the British Parliament and was the leading champion of the rights of Ulster. The city is comparatively quiet, but it is a calm before the storm.

Many Catholic families are fleeing to Southern Ireland and Scotland, fearing reprisals by furious Ulsterites. Sterner methods of repression are certain to follow.

Members of the Ulster Parliament say the Lloyd George administration will be attacked for too much leniency toward Sinn Feiners and a crisis will be precipitated which likely will lead to the fall of the coalition government.

Ulster members of Parliament will lead the attack on the coalition government and expect the support of all conservatives.

Actual reprisals are not likely to take place until after the funeral of Gen. Wilson. That is one of the curious customs in Ireland. Reprisals do not begin until the victim is laid away. The night after the funeral will be the most critical.

Conservative Ulsterites are counseling moderation. They are seeking to avoid a modern night of St. Bartholomew, but the indignation of young Ulsterites threatens to get beyond control. Religion and politics are so mixed here they seem inseparable. Back of the campaign for an Irish republic in an embittered feud between Presbyterians and Catholics. Both act on the false principle that murder justifies murder.

Gov. Small Takes Action in Mine War; Demands Explanation of Sheriff

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WAUKEGAN (Ill.) June 22.—At midnight the Governor telegraphed Brig.-Gen. Carlos E. Black, Adjutant-General of the State, to assemble the One Hundred and Thirty-second Infantry and the machine-gun companies of the One Hundred and Thirtieth and One Hundred and Thirty-first Infantry, with such other companies as are necessary to make a force of at least 1000 men, and hold them at the One Hundred and Thirty-second Infantry Armory in West Madison street, Chicago, to be moved under further orders from him.

At 1 o'clock the Governor telegraphed Sheriff Melvin Thaxton demanding an immediate reply to his telegram asking for information about the situation, insisting upon prompt action for the apprehension of the men who are reported to have killed twenty-six or more nonunion workers, and notified the Sheriff that troops are being held in readiness.

TEXAN CALLS LASKER "GREATEST SCHEMER"

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Representative Hardy (Tex.) ranking Democrat of the Merchant Marine Committee, declared in the House tonight that letters sent this week by President Harding to Representative Mondell, the Republican leader, urging action at this session on the subsidy was "not in the literary style of the President" but "had all the earmarks" of Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board.

Referring to Mr. Lasker as "the greatest schemer in the country," Mr. Hardy charged that he was "working hand in glove under the direction and supervision of the American Shipowners' Association."

MINERS HERD NON UNION MEN UP FOR MASSACRE

Drink Crazed Strikers Shoot Down Those Found at Wrecked Mine Who Had Surrendered

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CARBONDALE (Ill.) June 22.—Bloody Williamson county, heart of the Southern Illinois coal mining district, has smeared another red splotch over the name that has clung to it since its vendettas of the early '80's. At least twenty-nine nonunion miners, perhaps forty, have met horrible deaths at the hands of a striking union mob that started yesterday afternoon.

The strip mine of the Southern Illinois Coal Company, eight miles northwest of Marion and scene of the grimmest industrial clash in the history of the State is in ruins. Tracks, buildings and hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of equipment were dynamited as today's battle closed shortly before noon, amid the hilarious whoops of 2000 blood drunk miners and the admiring plaudits of their women folk.

QUIET PREVAILING

But reports tonight from Herrin, from which the deadly assault was directed, indicated that soberness was setting in. Worn by twenty-four hours of fighting the victors had stacked their arms, but within easy reaching distance.

Col. Samuel N. Hunter, returning to Marion from Herrin as the representative of Adjt.-Gen. Carlos E. Black, said State troops had not been ordered out and would not be unless requested by local authorities. He was to submit a report to his chief tonight.

Col. Hunter said his investigation indicated there were seventeen dead in a Herrin undertaking establishment and seven still were lying on the field in which six of them were shot down in cold blood as, presumably, they were being marched under armed guard to Herrin from the coal mine upon which they had struck the white flag of unconditional surrender. The seventh was a union man, no doubt the victim of wild firing.

Three wounded were in a hospital at Herrin, he said, and a like number in hospital at Carbondale. One of the latter, an ex-soldier and a Chicago man, will die.

REPORTS ARE VARIED

Other casualty reports were at wide variance with that received by Col. Hunter, the death toll, in most instances, mounting considerably higher.

Before noon today thirteen bullet-riddled bodies were counted in the timber field two miles southeast of Herrin, where the vanquished workers, already battered and bleeding, had been herded into a clearing like cattle in a round-up and shot in their tracks.

Squatted near this group of thirteen was a lucky fourteenth. He breathed, sitting bolt upright, he surveyed approaching newspapermen with unseeing eyes. He was sobbing softly, his clothing was torn to shreds, matted in blood. So he sat for minutes, then he toppled back, dead. Many union men who witnessed the massacre, but who were sickened by the awful spectacle, talked freely tonight, seeming thus to gain relief for overwrought nerves. But they talked only in the belief that these outbursts would not be reported to "headquarters."

Some of these were authority for the charge that the non-unionists were deliberately run into a field by their armed captors, and then made the targets of potshots.

BATTLE IS RESUMED

The battle that had started yesterday afternoon when John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, wrote the men working at the strip mine should be regarded as "common strikebreakers," resulted in fourteen dead and missing before sunset. Firing, which had been intermittent throughout the night, was resumed heavily at daybreak this morning.

During the night the attackers had crept up on the mine and set off a fuse under the car in which two guards were doing sentinel duty. Guards and car were blown to atoms.

This and other incidents of the night and day battle were recounted by one of three mine defenders, known to have escaped after being disarmed and lined up for what was to prove a death march. This man is Fred Bernard, 36 years old, Jefferson Hotel, Chicago. The password of a fraternal order of which three of his assailants are members saved him. "I was engaged," said Bernard, an overseas veteran, "by the George T. Bertrand employment agency, 561 West Madison street, Chicago, as a cook on what I was told was steam shovelers union job. I reported at the strip mine Tuesday, just twenty-four hours before the trouble started.

"When I got out on the job I found many other men had come under the same representations which induced me to skip out. I haven't a very clear idea of what happened after we were attacked yesterday afternoon.

TELLS OF BATTLE

"I know that inside our barricate of heaped-up slack there were three tracks, on each of which there was a line of gondolas. When the shooting started, the mine guards—there were about thirty of these, I believe—wanted me and my kitchen crew of six men to take arms.

"But we ducked and crouched down in one of the gondolas of the second line. Bullets struck all around us throughout the afternoon, and even during the night, but we never budged.

"This morning the first attack was made about 4 o'clock. But the strikers did not get over the huge pile of slack on the particular side they selected. They withdrew. But in less than two hours they were back with reinforcements.

"About a dozen colored men led the renewed assault. I don't know what came over the guards, because they had lots of ammunition, rifles and a machine gun, but some one raised a white flag.

"Then the enemy, yelling like Indians, swarmed over the top and down on us. We were helpless.

PRISONERS SEARCHED

"First, we were 'frisked' for firearms and then lined up outside the mine. Perhaps some of our men did not suspect what was in store for them, but I felt it was all over just as soon as I got a look into the bloodshot eyes of some of our captors.

"Many of them were reeling drunk. First they struck us with their fists, and then, as they tasted blood, they started in to hammer some with the butts of revolvers. I was not beaten.

"McDowell, superintendent of the mine, who, crippled, walked with a distinct limp, headed our line. It seemed to me everybody took a crack at him."

Bernard then described the spectacle of fifty-two men whipped into line by clouts and curses, forced more dead than alive into a march between flanks of armed, enraged and moonshine-crazed men.

Two correspondents driving over from Carbondale, fifteen miles southwest of Herrin, met this formidable army. Their automobile, pulled to the edge of the narrow road, barely left room for captors and captives to pass. The newspaper men tactfully responded in kind to the exultant greetings of the hundreds who hailed them as the marchers trudged through.

"THEY'RE COMING"

The advance guard, rattling by in scores of flivvers, had screeched the news, "We got 'em; they're coming!"

And they came, the limping mine

FILM CRITICISM INVITED

Chairman Hays Meets Representatives of Fifty Organizations and Both Sides Are Presented

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, June 22.—Will Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers of America, showed the earnestness of his determination to "establish and maintain the highest possible moral standards" in screen entertainment by asking representatives of fifty federated civic, business and welfare organizations to a meeting of criticism at the Waldorf Astoria today.

Spokesmen for the producers, actors, authors and exhibitors also were there but the discussions were confessions of bewilderment. Nothing definite was suggested for altering methods of acting or directing. Censorship was generally attacked. The opinion was unanimous, however, that the improvement of pictures did not lie in revision after they are produced but "at the source" in the scenario.

COMMITTEE SUGGESTED

Mr. Hays having declared the producers were anxious to have the co-operation of the public in raising the cinema standards, Roy E. West, chief scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America, proposed that the representatives name a committee of three to work with Mr. Hays in the naming of a larger committee to study the screen from the viewpoint of the public and make studio regulations that will not hinder the artistic inspiration of the makers of pictures.

"I have the welfare of the corporations that have millions of dollars at stake in the motion picture industry at heart," said Mr. Hays, "but I also equally respect the rights of the fathers and mothers who have millions of children. I will assist these committees and work with them to the limit so that there will be no complaint that the motion-picture industry is not doing its fullest."

OFFICE FOR CRITICISM

H. S. Brauchner, representing the community service, made the first recommendation—that there be an office to which criticisms of pictures from all over America might be sent. Mr. Hays responded with the assurance that such a department would be immediately created in his office.

Rex Beach, author, said in part: "The pictures are sick because there are too many doctors. They is a meddlesome age and we have got to the point where meddling is a paid profession. People are not content to let motion pictures remain what they should be, entertainment, but must make of them soul-saving devices, toys for children.

"As an author, I say that it is bunk that you want more and better authors contributing to the films. What you want is more mush and slush, predigested pap, stories from Rolly's wonderbooks and about God's curious wonderland. Authors writing for the screen today are handcuffed with ball and chain."

EYE WITNESS TO MINERS' MASSACRE TELLS STORY

Leaderless Mob Ruthlessly Kills Nonunion Men Who Were Told When Hired "All's Well"

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HERRIN (Ill.) June 22.—Half a dozen wounded men, some of them lying on deathbeds tonight gave an Associated Press correspondent the first actual eyewitness accounts of the mine fight last night and this morning. There were dozens of casualties when 5000 armed striking miners attacked the Lester strip mine near here, which was being operated by imported workers and guards.

The substance of the statements by the wounded, who were among the besieged, was that not a mine worker was injured during the fighting. The numerous killed were shot down in cold blood after they had surrendered themselves and their arms.

CHARGES NOT DENIED

There was nothing from the union miners to contradict these claims. Several of the men imported to work the mine absolved the strikers from blame, saying that the ones responsible were those who sent us here under false promises that there would be no trouble," and that "the miners would not object."

Some of the wounded interviewed were in the hospital here. Others were located in their homes through secret channels.

Joseph O'Rourke of Chicago, commissary clerk at the mine, gave the most vivid account of the fight. His story was related as he tossed in pain from half a dozen bullet holes through his body.

ONE VICTIM'S STORY

"I was sent down here by the Bertrand Commissary Company in Chicago," he said. "I had no idea what I was running into. We were given arms when we arrived and a machine gun was set up at one corner of the mine. Guards were with us all the time, and most of the guards were tough fellows sent by a Chicago detective agency. I understand the miners sent us warnings to leave town or we would be run out. We never got them. When we saw the miners approachig yesterday afternoon we did not know what to do. The guards prepared for fight; most of us workers wanted to surrender."

"Through the night the bullets rained in on us. We sought shelter as we could. The miners climbed upon the coal piles and earth embankments and we were unable to see them. The guards kept firing, but most of us hid. Then the miners blew up our pumping station. We had no water and our food supplies were in a freight car in the hands of the miners. About sunrise we put up the white flag. The miners poured in and we surrendered our arms."

"Up to this time not one of us had been injured that I know of, although I understand that several of the miners had been shot. The miners spread around us quickly and tied us together in groups of three and six. The tied men then were rushed off in different directions. Some of them tried to run, but they were shot down as fast as they moved.

"One miner asked who was the machine gun operator. Some one pointed him out and he was shot in his tracks and his body laid over the machine gun. They tied five man with me, took us out on the road and told us to run. We ran and hundreds of bullets followed us. We staggered on, but finally three of our group fell, pulling the others with us. There were several bullet holes in me already.

"I laid there while men came up and fired more shots into us from three or four feet. Then everything went blank. I woke up later and begged for water but there was not any. I remember being dragged along the road, but I don't know how. Then they brought us to the hospital."

AID REFUSED TO WOUNDED

O'Rourke's story was confirmed by S. P. Williams and Ed Green of Chicago, two of the men tied with him who are still alive. The other three were killed. These were the six found by the Associated Press correspondent this morning. When he tried to take water to the wounded men permission to help them was denied.

James E. Morris of Johnstown City, Ill., a young miner in the attack forces, told the correspondent the attack had been spontaneous and that when the men went to the mine they did not really stop to think of the bloodshed that might follow.

THE MINERS' SIDE

"He was wounded early in the fight. I was on my way to Herrin," he said, "when I met a gang of fellows. They said they were on their way to run out the nonunion men at the strip mine. I joined them and others kept joining us until these must have been 5000. Most of us were armed and those that were not soon got guns. When we got to the mine we spread out around it. We had no real leaders, everyone was working for himself. It was just one big mob out to get the men who were running that mine. I am not sure who fired the first shot, but after it was fired there was real war. The fire kept up for hours, I guess, and several of our men were hit. Late in the evening I was shot in the arm. The wound was not serious and I walked back to where a group of our men were standing nad they sent me here in a car. I wasn't there, but I understand most of the killing was done after the mine surrendered. It was terrible, I know, and I'm sure some of those men really were innocent. It's just the old story of a mob getting started."

Other miners confirmed Morris's statements.

O'Rourke is not expected to live. He is one of nine men in the hospital. Morris is the only miner. Seven of the imported miners are expected to die, physicians said.

The hospital was carefully guarded, all doors being locked to prevent any possible attack on the wounded men. Only persons who could prove they had business in the hospital were admitted.

Solid Mahogany for every man's money

These days, when so much period furniture has a Queen Anne front and a Mary Ann back, it seems good to stumble onto a piece of good old solid mahogany — even in the dark.

Solid Mahogany—that's the word. We like to liken it to our values, for both are hewed out of the solid timber — not glued up with veneer.

Every price ticket in this store can be turned bottom side up and reviewed. They are not like the false back Davenports that must be cornered to be correct.

LA FOLLETTE'S GAME IS SEEN

North Dakota, took control of the machinery of the Republican party and handled it so efficiently as to drive out the "borers from within." They made it impossible for radicals to pose as Republicans. The result was the election of Frank B. Kellogg in 1916 as Senator, and the election of conservative Republicans in State offices. Two years ago, the radicals again made an assault on the Republican party in Minnesota in an endeavor to secure control, but failed. As a result the Minnesota radicals have been obliged to flock by themselves and form their own party, namely the Farm-Labor party, which has as its candidate for the United States Senate, Andrew J. Shipstead, a dentist, who professes to be representative of the honest farmers. This fact of the radical forces being driven out of the Republican ranks is responsible for the ease with which Senator Kellogg in the Republican primary of this week was renominated.

But elsewhere throughout the Middle West the different radical groups are extremely active within and without the Republican party. Senator La Follette is out to solidify their strength in one single organization. He has no doubt as to the identity of the head. That is what the disturbance he has been making in the Senate these last few days is all about.

Fatal Attacks Made After the Surrender

superintendent, blinking blindly from his swollen eyes, trying to ward off other blows. Others were about as much battered. All now apparently realized their plight to some extent, although it is doubtful whether they sensed death.

In fact, it is equally doubtful whether such was the plan of the striking miners at the outset of the march. But blows brought blood and the sight worked the men into a frenzy that swept away all self-control.

The line of marchers, followed by still other flivvers, prevented the newspaper men from turning in the narrow road. They waited until the line had passed, turned and then took a short cut into Herrin, planning to intercept the miners. But they swept through the town and back out again without sighting the army. On every street corner were men and women and scores of small children eagerly awaiting the triumphant entry of the conquering heroes.

MEN SHOT DOWN

But they did not enter; instead, men in cars that had originally brought up the rear of the line dashed into the town. To favored acquaintances who lined the roadway on the outskirts, they shouted the tidings: "They're not coming in; they broke away." Maybe they did, Bernard, and as already related, some of the miners maintain they did not. Instead, they were called up in groups, and ordered to "run into that field" on the roadside. And as they ran rifles cracked and the driven men pitched forward, one by one.

Supt. McDowell, according to some accounts, was the first man shot. This was just a few hundred yards beyond the point at which the line passed the newspaper men.

Bernard said that, when told to run, he did so, but as he saw or instinctively felt the rifles leveled at his back, he pitched forward, face down. Joseph Williams, 4144 Lake Park avenue, Chicago, a waiter at the mine, followed suit.

That Williams was playing "possum" was discovered first, and Bernard was yanked to his feet a moment later. Then it was he asked if there was a "brother in the crowd." One man responded and Bernard gave the countersign. Two others stepped to his side. One of these fellow lodge members escorted him to safety while the attention of the band was engaged in winging two other men, hounded like hares, who were seeking shelter in the underbrush.

There were cries of "There he goes" and "There he is," followed by yells and shots. After losing track of the line that was headed for Herrin the newspaper men did not encounter any action again until they saw wild groups of the strikers, now completely transformed from reasonably legitimate guards of prisoners to man hunters, beating the brush for human quarry.

Then they saw two men, clothes torn and blood-soaked, driven out from the timber. The prisoners pleaded, but with hope obviously abandoned. They had their hands raised high.

Whether these were two of six men who were later walked out to the South Side School and onto the cemetery at Herrin has not been established. It is known that at the cemetery these six had their shoes and stockings torn from their feet and they were pounded forward. An old woman, stepped out in the roadway with arms extended, pleaded, "Oh, what are you going to do?" A strong arm felled her and the marchers went on. But the elderly woman was an exception. Young matrons and even maidens, egged on their men folk.

"Let's make soap of them," one of them suggested, as the six, banded together with a three-quarter-inch rope, were shot down with one volley. An examination showed that one of the six still breathed. An executioner, with ready knife, completed what the bullets had left unfinished.

ONE IS HANGED

One of the four men found under a tree in Harrison woods, where the body of a fifth was suspended from a branch, had offered a gold watch and $25 to his tormentors when he saw all was about over.

"You're a good scout," taunted one of his tormentors. "Make a run for it." The "good scout" was shot down by the man who jeered at him.

"Be one of us, keep moving and ask no questions," seemed to be the order of the day in the theater of operations, which centered about Herrin. A few women sought to take kodak snapshots. The kodaks were trampled under foot and the women were roughly handled.

Six small mines known as slope mines were shut down today upon the request of county authorities, who feared outbreaks in the vicinity of Carbondale. The union men had not objected to the operation of these mines in putting out supply for local consumption.

One of the three men known to have escaped from the mob today staggered into Cartersville, a few miles from Herrin, where he dropped in front of the First National Bank. Police officers took him to Carbondale, where he was given refuge in the City Jail for thirty minutes. Chief of Police Anderson, fearing mob violence, shipped him out on the first freight.

DISCUSS MINE MASSACRE

Murray Says Lewis's Telegram Could Not Have Brought on Murders at Illinois Mine

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CINCINNATI, June 22.—Phillip Murray, vice-president of the United Mine Workers of America, commenting today on the mine troubles at Herrin, Ill., said: "In so far as President Lewis's message is concerned, it positively could not have had any bearing on the occurrence at Herrin. The organization denies any responsibility for the trouble. We must await more definite reports from Herin before saying more."

President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor said that as he understood from press reports from Herrin the firing first came from within the mine stockade, and it was then that the miners returned the fire.

GOMPERS'S STATEMENT

"Organised labor," said Gompers, "does not countenance any such acts from either side. The strike is on far too high a plane for violence to have any place in it."

Commenting on reports that a message from President Lewis of the miners had been received at Herrin terming the miners at work there as "common strikebreakers," Mr. Gompers said he was "confident that the letter did not start the trouble," and he added, "there was something else behind it."

Lewis's telegram was in reply to one from State Senator Sneed, a subdistrict official of the miners' union, asking the status of the shovelmen's union.

MESSAGE TO LEWIS

Sneed's telegram to Lewis follows:

"Is there an agreement by the American Federation of Labor that the steam shovelmen's union has the right to man shovels, strip and load coal. Some men here claim they have jurisdiction granted by the mining department of the American Federation of Labor. J. W. Tracy of Chicago, district representative of the steam shovelmen, is furnishing men to load coal in this district. We do not believe such an agreement exists. Wire answer after investigation if agreement exists and have the proper authorities stop the steam shovelmen scabbing on union coal miners."

LEWIS'S ANSWER

Lewis's reply said: "In reply to your wire of the 18th, the steam shovelmen's union was suspended from affiliation with the American Federation of Labor some years ago. It was also ordered suspended from the mining department of the American Federation of Labor at the Atlantic City convention.

"We now find that this outlaw organization is permitting its membership to act as strike-breakers in strip mines in Ohio.

"This organization is furnishing steam shovel engineers to work under armed guard with strike-breakers.

"It is not true that any agreement exists by and between this organization and the mining department or any other branch of the American Federation of Labor permitting it to work under such circumstances.

"Two of our representatives have taken this question up with officers of the steam shovelmen's union, but have failed to secure any satisfaction.

"Representatives of our organization are justified in treating this crowd as an outlaw organization and in viewing its members in the same light as they would view any other common strike-breakers."

Publication of Lewis's telegram was followed by the formation of a large mob of union miners and sympathizers just outside of Herrin yesterday. As the day wore on the mob increased and late in the afternoon the attack on the strip mine was made after three hardware stores here had been ransacked and stripped of all arms and ammunition.

NO REASON TO ACT IN MINE RIOT

Sheriff Believed No Help Was Needed and No One Asked Colonel for Aid

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HERRIN (Ill.) June 22.—Sheriff Melvin Thaxton tonight said that he did not ask for troops to quell the rioting here because he "did not see any need of it." Col. Samuel Hunter, of the Adjutant-General's office, stated he did not ask for the militia as he was here on his own initiative and was without authority to ask for State aid unless requested to make such a request by county officials.

Col. Hunter declared that at one of the conferences he called in an effort to prevent the outbreaks W. J. Lasker, owner of the strip mine where the rioting occurred, when asked if he would close the mine, replied: "I will be damned if I will."

Mr. Lasker is reported to be in Herrin tonight, but could not be found.

SHRINERS IN HONOLULU

Business Is at Standstill and Characteristic Welcome Given to the Visitors of the Red Fez

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

HONOLULU, June 22.—"Liquid sunshine," the gentle, lazy rain that always heralds the coming of "big chiefs," according to Hawaiian legend, greeted the Mystic Shrine pilgrimage to Hawaii as it arrived here today with the new Imperial Potentate, James S. McCandless of Honolulu at its head.

With the glare of a tropical sun shining through the veil of rain, sirens shrieking, bands playing and Shriners and their friends cheering, the pilgrimage ships, Matsonia, and H. F. Alexander, came to their docks, the former at 7 o'clock and the latter at 10.

WELCOMED FROM AIR

Overhead a squadron of airplanes, each bearing the legend, "Welcome Shriners," flew back and forth as the Alexander made quarantine. As each of the liners swung to for medical inspection tugs laden with flower leis or garlands borne by young girls, came alongside. Soon these were transferred to the ships' decks and each visitor landed with a fragrant lei about his shoulders.

Business in Honolulu practically came to a standstill as a parade was formed and visitors and escorts marched to the Capitol to be greeted by Gov. Wallace R. Farrington, himself a wearer of the red fez.

AIRPLANE FALLS

The incoming Shriners were given an unexpected thrill in entering the harbor when one of the Army airplanes which had been flying overhead was forced to land in the water owing to engine trouble, skimming the H. F. Alexander's bow as it did so. The officer-pilot and his observer were rescued unhurt, while the plane was slightly damaged.

In the parade to the Capitol, Imperial Potentate McCandless rode one of three camels which helped make up the caravan, Harry Denison, Potentate of Aloha Temple, Honolulu, mounted another and two members of Islam Temple, San Francisco, created a sensation by appearing on the back of Daisy, the elephant from the Kaptolani Park zoo and the only member of her race in the islands.

WHOLE STATE BACKS MOORE

enter the Senatorial fight, but once in, he characteristically announced that he was "in to win," and that he will neglect no effort calculated to assure his nomination.

Wires to various parts of California announcing his decision were scarcely received before a remarkable reaction in his favor became everywhere evident — in San Diego, Los Angeles, Bakersfield, Fresno, Stockton, Sacramento, San Francisco, Oakland—not a single community, big or little, failed to evince hearty approval of the candidate and to guarantee him full support.

As the candidate, under a deluge of expressions of good will and congratulations, prepared to retire into the country for a few days to prepare a formal announcement of his candidacy, Republicans throughout the State conferred on the matter of organizing for the campaign.

Moore -for -Senator committees are already forming and immediate steps will be taken to weld the individual groups into one comprehensive, State-wide organization, it is announced.

Henry M. Robinson, Los Angeles banker and a Republican party leader in California, who went to San Francisco with a group of other Southern Californians in a successful effort to bring Moore into the Senatorial race, returned here yesterday expressing the deepest gratification with the outcome of his visit.

"To my mind the Republican party in this State is to be congratulated," said Mr. Robinson, "on having as a candidate for nomination as United States Senator a man of such outstanding abilities, such breadth of view and actual experience in the many activities that come to the lot of a Californian.

PROVED WORKER

"Mr. Moore is a thorough Californian, who knows the State as well as any man in it; experienced in agriculture and engineering; in business and in service to the State and nation, service done without hope of compensation, direct or indirect; work for the State as the head of the Panama-Pacific Exposition that is without parallel; work for the government during the war the equal of any work done; a man who can be counted on to study the questions thoroughly and act after full consideration and with the best motives.

"It would seem as though the people generally would appreciate the opportunity to return to the Senate—which in the next few years will be called upon to consider questions of such tremendous import, and where unnecessary mistakes and unwise judgments will be paid for by years of trouble—a man who is most thoroughly equipped by education, experience and tradition to act wisely on such problems.

"That Southern California appreciates and knows him and will show its knowledge and faith by a tremendously heavy vote goes without saying. We believe we have a right to expect Northern California to do as well."

W. W. Mines, prominent Los Angeles realtor, who also was a member of the Southern California delegation that, with delegations from other parts of California, waited on Moore in San Francisco, returned optimistic that Moore will defeat Johnson by a heavy majority.

"There never was a more opportune time," said Mr. Mines, "to put into effect the words of President Harding when he said, 'There should be more business in politics and less politics in business.'

"The people of California now have that opportunity and it is hoped they will rally to it.

"Charles C. Moore is a true blue Republican. He is a man of means and is now desirous of giving to the State and the nation the service that has made him a success in his own business. Mr. Moore is constructive and as to his ability, nothing could be better demonstrated than the way he handled the World's Fair in San Francisco."

John D. Spreckels in San Diego wired Moore heartily approving of his candidacy and pledging the candidate every possible support.

Frank Miller of Riverside wired the candidate saying that "man who can put over the greatest and most successful World's Fair in the face of a great World War should be the one to best serve the people in their great need."

Like messages were sent from prominent Republicans and from men and women throughout the State who consider themselves neither prominent nor party leaders, but as individuals supporting true Republican principles and real Republican spokesmen.

Perhaps the most striking phase of the popular response to Moore's candidacy is the State-wide and remarkably comprehensive rallying to his support of former Progressives, many of them intimately identified with former Johnson campaigns.

In Southern California a notable instance of this weakening in the Johnson forces—a dwindling in his following that has been progressing for three or four years—is the appearance among Moore's supporters of Marshal Stimson, former Johnson campaign manager, and of E. A. Dickson, newspaper publisher.

Stimson went to San Francisco to pledge his personal support to Moore and, following announcement by Moore that he had consented to become a candidate, Stimson said in Los Angeles that he felt Moore "has given the voters of California an opportunity to voice their disapproval of Senator Johnson's candidacy."

No greater evidence of the repudiation of Johnson by his former supporters is found than in the appearance of his former counsellor and defender, Chester H. Rowell, at the head of the San Francisco delegation urging Moore to become a candidate. Scores of others less prominent in the Johnson forces in former years added their request for a candidate to defeat the man in whom they once had the fullest confidence, but against whose further public career they take the most active part.

Moore is expected to come to Southern California soon after returning to San Francisco from a brief rest. He will campaign throughout the State and mass meetings will be held in the cities and rural districts where he will appear for the purpose of declaring his views and meeting the people who are expected to elect him.

HIRAM'S DREAM IS SHATTERED

millionaire who had been drafted to make the fight against Johnson.

Official Washington followed the attitude of President Harding and refrained from speaking for publication on the primary fight in California though several members of the California delegation and other stalwart Republicans admitted that they were delighted that so able a campaigner and organizer as Charles C. Moore was to oppose Johnson.

Chairman John T. Adams of the Republican National Committee was not in Washington, nor was Secretary Lockwood available, but it is known that the Republican managers are glad that a contest is to be made in California for the sake of the party, and while no one would talk for publication there were unmistakable signs that the candidacy of Mr. Moore was more than welcome.

Johnson and his friends have been attempting for months to get Senator Shortridge to indorse the candidacy of Senator Johnson and pressure has been used through his family and other connections to get him to approve the efforts of the senior Senator to come back for another six years. In spite of this urging Senator Shortridge has kept silent and today declined to comment on the contest which comes through the challenge of Moore for the nomination. He merely said that he was following the example of President Harding and would make no comment on the Republican candidates for the California Senatorship until the verdict of the primaries was rendered.

HIRAM NOT CONSOLED

Other Republican Senators while they declined to comment were anxious for all the details and so far as can be learned tonight not one of the Republican Senators offered any consolation to Hiram.

His attitude in opposing all the administration measures has alienated him from all other Republicans and even Borah has been cold ever since he failed to toe the line in the Newberry case. Even this week when the Republicans voted to sustain President Harding in keeping the tariff to the fore ahead of the bonus measure Hiram was missing when the Republican noses were counted and the roll call shows that he declined to support the leader of the Republican party and the President of the United States.

Hiram is in a bad, at that, for Norris and the other insurgent publican Senators have often about all the radical policies were available and Hiram issues to espouse enough to administration offers offers just as he fought the Power Pacific Treaty. If not openly oppose the administration he withholds his sulks. He is in no humor of mind now that he is opposition for the nomination.

SHIPPING BOARD HEARING HERE

Subcommittee Expected to Arrive July 19

Seeking Information on Tonnage Facilities

Important Section Matters to be Considered

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, June 22. — A subcommittee of the United States Shipping Board will leave Washington for the last of a series of hearings on the question of whether or not adequate American flag tonnage facilities exist to warrant the enforcement of section 28 of the merchant marine act of 1920.

The committee will consist of Commissioners Chamberlain, Benson and Lissner, Mr. Lissner replacing Commissioner Thompson who has participated in the previous hearings on this question as chairman of the subcommittee, and who has been relieved of duty on the subcommittee for the remainder of the hearings at his own request because of other duties. Mr. Chamberlain has been appointed chairman of the subcommittee.

WILL MEET HERE

Hearings will be held as follows: Chicago, July 8; Portland, Or., July 10 (and July 11 if necessary;) Seattle, July 12 (and July 13 if necessary;) San Francisco, July 17 (and July 18, if necessary;) Los Angeles, July 19 (and July 20 if necessary.)

The committee will be accompanied by Clifford W. Smith, secretary of the Shipping Board, and Charles P. Gerry, attorney-examiner of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

While on the Pacific coast the committee will also take up a number of important matters pending before the board concerning that section of the country.

INFORMATION DESIRED

The committee has advised interstate parties in the sections where hearings will be held that information is particularly desired bearing directly on the question of adequacy of American flag service. At previous hearings the committee found that many of those who appeared were not prepared with facts and figures bearing on the direct question at issue, but rather desired to make general statements on the Legislative merits of the section or on abstract and non-related subjects. This situation the committee desires to avoid as much as possible.

Section 28 provides in effect that where commodities moving to the seaboard may take either a domestic or an export "or so-called preferential rate" only those commodities moving overseas that are moved in American vessels shall take the export or preferential rail rate, and that commodities moving overseas in foreign vessels shall take the domestic rail rate. The section further provides that it shall not be made operative by the Interstate Commerce Commission until the Shipping Board certifies to the commission that adequate American facilities exist to warrant the enforcement of the section.

Se Canceló la Huelga Ferrocarrilera

CIUDAD DE MEXICO, junio 22.—La huelga ferrocarrilera del Distrito Federal fué cancelada hoy. Fracasó dicha huelga por las exageradas demandas de los huelguistas y por disgustos entre éstos. La unión quedó debilitada y desacreditada por esta derrota, y le amenaza una completa disolución.

NOTAS LOCALES

Las Construcciones Están en su Apogeo en la Ciudad

A causa del tremendo incremento del número de permisos de construcción expedidos, ayer determinó la comisión de presupuesto aumentar el número de empleados en el departamento de construcciones de la ciudad durante el próximo año fiscal, agregando cuatro escribientes, un estenógrafo, ocho inspectores de edificios y ocho inspectores plomeros a dicho departamento, lo que significa una erogación anual de $40,000. Manifestó el Jefe Interino de Inspectores de Edificios, Welch, que los permisos están ascendiendo ahora a unos 4000 al mes.

Al Ingeniero de Ciudad Griffin se le dieron veintinueve empleados más en su departamento, para hacer frente al gran incremento de mejoras en las calles, las que se han atrasado mucho, según manifestó.

Necesitan a Coburn en Bakersfield

Ayer dió órdenes el Sheriff Traeger de que se buscara al Capitán W. S. Coburn, Gran Goblin destituido de los Caballeros del Ku Klux Klan, por haberse recibido un exhorto para que comparezca dicho miembro del Klan ante el Gran Jurado del condado de Kern, la mañana de hoy en Bakersfield. El exhorto fué enviado aquí por el Agente del Ministerio Público J. R. Dorsey, encargado de la investigación del Ku Klux Klan en el condado de Kern, y ésto revela que el cuerpo inquisitorial de Bakersfield ha abierto de nuevo la encuesta de las actividades de la encapuchada en Bakersfield y Taft. Hasta anoche, ya tarde, todavía no había sido encontrado el Capitán Coburn por los oficiales.

No Conoce a la Esposa Legítima

"¿Con quién estoy casado legítimamente? He ahí una pregunta a la que no puedo responder. Yo mismo no lo sé. Lo que sí es que, antes de que mi primera esposa, la Sra. Browne, se divorciara de mí, me casé con una mujer, y después del divorcio, hubo ceremonias de matrimonio entre otras dos mujeres y yo." Tal fué la declaración dada ayer por Donald Duncan Stewart, ex-ministro y reformador social, en la cárcel del condado, donde está esperando su extradición a Boston por acusaciones de bigamia, poligamia y conspiración. Y ésto a pesar de la afirmación hecha por la Sra. Mary Mitchell en Chicago, de que ella es su esposa legítima.

Stewart admitió con factilidad que se había casado con las cuatro mujeres mencionadas en la demanda interpuesta contra él por la Agencia de Detectives Pinkerton.

SAN GABRIEL WATER BOND ISSUE WINS

Irrigationists Vote to Expend $250,000 on New Improvements

By a majority of six to one, the $250,000 bond issue for the improvement of the San Gabriel Valley water system was carried in the election held yesterday. In all, 512 votes were cast, 432 of these favoring the proposition. This is reported to be the heaviest vote ever cast in this district.

The San Gabriel Valley irrigation district of 21,000 acres has been short of water for years.

The bonds, which will be issued at once, will make possible a unification of all of the water systems in the valley, including the Van Nuys system. The work of joining and improving the greater valley water system is expected to begin at once. The bonds which were voted yesterday will pay a 5½ per cent rate of interest. It is expected that their sale will be immediate.

The directors of the district are Fred R. Richardson, George Dake, Daniel C. Mullock, Robert Kaestner and Leonard Luy. K. A. Bell is the general manager and engineer for the district. The heavy vote polled for the bonds, it is said, indicates that the work of the board of directors is approved. The plans for the new system have been passed upon favorably by a consulting engineer.

Today is the 1934th performance of the Mission Play at old San Gabriel.—[Advertisement.

GOV. SMALL'S CASE CLOSING

Defense Says Half Truths Indicate Persecution

State Should Make Final Speech Tomorrow

Acquittal or Disagreement is General Prophecy

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WAUKEGAN (Ill.) June 22.—Gov. Len Small is the victim of a persecution on a flimsy structure of circumstantial evidence. Witnesses were not in a position to know the facts, and the "experts did not expert," Alexander F. Beaubien declared today in the defense's final argument to the jury.

He pictured the State's case as a tissue of half truths and misinterpreted facts and closed with an appeal to the jurors not to convict the Governor, who last week celebrated his sixtieth birthday, because such conviction and disgrace would shorten his life.

While Mr. Beaubien argued his case before the jury, Mrs. Small and her small grandson entered the courtroom and took their seats beside the Governor at the lawyers' table. Other members of the immediate family, and a party of friends occupied a bench within the bar.

Mr. Beaubien took only two of the three hours allotted to him. Tomorrow morning he will be followed by Werner W. Schroeder and in the afternoon Charles C. LeForgee will close for the defense.

The final argument will be made Saturday morning by C. Fred Mortimer State's attorney of Sangamon county, in whose jurisdiction the Governor was indicted. The State has two and a half hours left of its ten, and if Mr. Mortimer takes all the time he will close just at noon.

Reading of instructions and charging of the jury is expected to take an hour so that present indications are the case will go to the jurors about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Members of the Governor's party today declared they were confident the jury would return a verdict acquitting the Governor before Saturday night. Speculation in Waukegan ranges between acquittal and a disagreement, with few people looking for a verdict of guilty.

GERMS FREED IN COLLEGE FIRE

Innoculated Animals Also Freed When Berkeley Building Burned

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BERKELEY, June 22.—Scientists were attempting today to recapture the numerous millions of microscopic monsters called germs which spread to the unoffending campus of the University of California here when Hearst Hall burned Tuesday night. Not only were bottles filled with the most deadly of known germs broken and washed hither and yon by the streams of water, but goats, rabbits and guinea pigs, innoculated with other germs, were released. Many of the animals were still at large today and an effort was being made to round them up. A professor of bacteriology said he did not think the germs would harm anyone.

EUROPEAN RUMORS TRUE

Reports Are Verified That Kaiser Seeks Old Throne and France Asks Debt Cancellation

BY HENRY WALES
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, June 22.—Two rumors prevalent recently in diplomatic circles, but carefully hushed up, received official cognizance today. They were brought up in the House of Commons by Col. Wedgwood, who asked what action had been taken regarding the imminent attempt at restoration of the Hohenzollerns in Germany and whether France had again raised the question of cancellation of their war debts in exchange for a reduction in their reparations claims.

Cecil Harmsworth, parliamentary Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs, replying in behalf of the government, admitted that information had been received concerning a coup d'etat to restore the former Kaiser or Crown Prince to the throne but said nothing definite was known.

UNFRIENDLY ACT?

"Will the Prime Minister make it clear that such a restoration would be regarded as an unfriendly act?" asked Col. Wedgwood.

Mr. Harmsworth replied: "Nothing would be gained by a discussion of any policy which might be adopted by the allied and associated powers after such an event."

Regarding the debt Col. Wedgwood insisted that France had been told that Great Britain could not consider cancellation of the French indebtedness unless cancellation of Great Britain's debts to America occurred simultaneously.

Prime Minister Lloyd George admitted that he and Premier Poincare had discussed the subject of cancellation but he added that the English taxpayers could not afford to remit sums due Great Britain, warning creditor nations that Great Britain intended to ask for payment of the interest due from October next.

Despite the ambiguity of the government's reply, a belief held that negotiations are under way between France and Great Britain for drafting a comprehensive and detailed plan for writing off a bulk of the international debts. It would include America's advances to the Allies during the war, and will be presented at a future conference if the United States accepts an invitation to participate.

DENY INDEPENDENCE TO THE PHILIPPINES

PRESIDENT HARDING ADVISES COMMISSION THAT TIME HAS NOT YET ARRIVED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Although commending the Philippine aspirations to independence and complete self-sovereignty, President Harding today replied to the Philippine parliamentary mission "that the time is not yet for independence."

The President's statement was made to the members of the mission, who last week presented to him the Filipinos' argument and plea for a separate political existence. The policy of the administration, Mr. Harding stated, would follow along the lines laid down by his predecessors in the White House, notably President McKinley, under whom the Filipinos were freed from Spain.

"With every mindfulness for your aspirations, with shared pride in your achievements, with gratitude for your loyalty, with reiterated assurance that we mean to hold no people under the flag, who do not rejoice in that relationship, I must say to you that the time is not yet for independence," said the President. "I can imagine a continued progress which will make our bonds either easy to sever, or rivet them more firmly because you will it to be so. We must await that development . . . At this time it is not for me to suggest the day, distant or near.

"Meanwhile, I can only renew the proven assurances of our good intentions, our desire to be helpful without being exacting in our private or public purposes, or restricting the freedom from which men and peoples aspire and achieve. No backward step is contemplated. No diminution of your domestic control is to be sought. Our relation to your domestic affairs is that of an unselfish devotion which is born of our faith in opening to you the way of liberty of which you dream.

"Our sponsorship in international affairs is related in the common flag, which is unfuried to you as it is unfurled for us and security is your seal of American relationship."

CHICAGO IS FILLED WITH "PANHANDLERS"

MEN ARE BADLY NEEDED FOR WORK BUT THEY PREFER TO BEG

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, June 22.—Chicago is harboring thousands of husky, able-bodied men, who simply will not work. "Panhandlers" are multiplying and street corners are infested with beggars of all sorts. Thousands are needed in the country to save the enormous crops, to make repairs on railroads and for other work, but labor agencies say they are unable to fill the orders.

This is the situation as outlined at the principal agencies on West Madison street. The managers pointed to the streets outside, where there was a mass of men milling indolently back and forth. Some of them stopped to read the signs calling for men; many of them appeared to be badly in need, yet they did not apply for work.

"Got any jobs paying $10 a day?" they demanded. When told those jobs passed when the armistice was signed, they spat upon the signs and announced they would continue panhandling, representing themselves to be "shell shocked" or otherwise incapacitated by service, although a very small percentage of them ever got within 3000 miles of the war.

SLAYER NOT KOREAN, BUT JAP, STATEMENT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The Korean mission today issued a statement pointing out that the assassin of former Premier Hara of Japan, who was sentenced to indefinite imprisonment in Tokio on June 12, was not a Korean.

The statement declares that the assassin is a Japanese and a member of the Japanese organization opposed to the Hara policies.

UNOFFICIAL POLICY ON MUSCLE SHOALS TOLD

WAR DEPARTMENT EXECUTIVE OUTLINES PLANS TO SENATE BODY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 22.—A policy to be forwarded by Congress with reference to the question of developing the government's projects at Muscle Shoals, Ala., was outlined today to the Senate Agricultural Committee by Maj. J. H. Burns, Ordnance Bureau, War Department. In making the statement, Maj. Burns explained that it was based on his personal belief and opinion and did not reflect officially the attitude of the War Department.

Maj. Burns, formerly was chief of the nitrate section of the War Department and has been assigned as the department's expert to assist the Senate committee in its examination of the Muscle Shoals question. His recommendations were submitted at the request of Chairman Norris.

Anti-Saloon League Accused of Bribery

Massachusetts Member in House Attack

Wheeler Called Legislative Corruptionist

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The Anti-Saloon League was accused of "legislative bribery" and the Department of Justice was criticised for not prosecuting it by Representative Tinkham, Massachusetts, in a speech in the House today.

Mr. Tinkham assailed the political activities of the Anti-Saloon League and asserted that it had announced its intention of continuing its "illegal practices." He charged that Representative Volstead, Minnesota, author of the Volstead Act, is again to be the beneficiary of these illegal practices. He offered a bill to curb the participation of the Anti-Saloon League and some organizations in political campaigns.

VIOLATIONS CONDONED

The Massachusetts member said that more than two months ago he had called the attention of the Department of Justice to the Anti-Saloon League's alleged violation of the Corrupt Practices Act and had demanded prosecution. Nothing has been done by the department. He declared that the Federal government, through inaction, was "condoning violations of the Corrupt Practices Act."

After stating that the Anti-Saloon League had already announced its intention of giving its aid to Mr. Volstead in his campaign for re-election, Mr. Tinkham said:

LEGISLATIVE BRIBERY

"To all intents and purposes this is legislative bribery. If we are going to have prohibition let us prohibit this insidious evil, more inimical to the foundations of our government than the greatest abuse of liquor ever was.

"What shall be said of a member of the House, whose political bills are paid, not by himself, but by others who are seeking legislation through him. Can it not be fairly said in a court of ethics that he has been bribed?"

WHEELER DENOUNCED

Mr. Tinkham characterized Wayne B. Wheeler, spokesman for the Anti-Saloon League, as "a legislative corruptionist."

"I challenge him to sue me for libel and I promise to waive any immunity I may have as a member of Congress if what I have just stated is untrue," Mr. Tinkham continued. "He dare not face a court of law, where he will be compelled to tell the truth. His very presence in the Capitol is an offense against decency. With him there is the incarnation of invisible government and the rule of the power of money.

"It has been said and is worthy of belief, that Wayne B. Wheeler and the interests he controls, expended from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 in the series of years which preceded the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution."

PALO VERDE REPORTS TO GOVERNORS

Joint California-Arizona Commission Sends Findings to Executives

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHOENIX, June 22.—Arizona members of a joint Arizona-California commission, which investigated the flood situation in the Palo Verde Valley in California have completed their report to be submitted to Gov. Campbell, it was announced today by W. J. Galbraith, Arizona Attorney-General, and one of this State's members.

"The report makes recommendations to meet the present emergency in the Palo Verde Valley," said Mr. Galbraith. "It also looks to the development of lands of both States."

California members of the joint body are to render their findings to Gov. Stephens of that State.

"In time," added Mr. Galbraith, "much good would come if the recommendations are found agreeable to both Governors."

Atty.-Gen. Galbraith would not make public the nature of the recommendations for flood protection.

CANADA HAS BECOME VAST GRETNA GREEN

BRITISH WOMEN, WITHOUT MEN IN ENGLAND, TRAVEL ACROSS SEA

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

OTTAWA, June 22. — British women are flocking to a vast Gretna Green on the fertile plains of Canada. In the last two years up to April 1, 1922, 62,408 women have come from the British Isles to Canada, the vast majority of these being listed as "unaccompanied women," and the reduction of Britain's 1,000,000 surplus women has just begun.

Within a year after their arrival it is estimated 40 per cent of these girls are married. Out of 700 letters received by the women's division of the Dominion Department of Immigration at Ottawa from recent girl arrivals in Canada, who had taken positions, forty letters announced the marriage of the writers.

MAY STOP CONTRACT WORK

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, June 22.—Farming out of railroad work under the contract system is expected to receive a knockout blow at the hands of the United States Railroad Labor Board, according to a report in railroad circles. This, it is expected, will remove one issue of the present controversy over which a strike ballot now is being taken.

SECRETARY JORDAN TO SUPPORT MOORE

OTHER STATE OFFICIALS SAY JOHNSON TO HAVE BIGGEST FIGHT OF CAREER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SACRAMENTO, June 22.—Secretary of State Jordan is the first State official to issue a public statement indorsing the candidacy of C. C. Moore, of San Francisco as candidate for United States Senator to run against Hiram W. Johnson.

Jordan is a staunch admirer of Moore, and for years has been actively opposed to the State and national policies of Johnson.

The news of Moore's candidacy was a surprise to many of the State officials. Several declare Johnson will be given the battle of his political career by Moore.

Jordan's statement on Moore's candidacy is as follows: "The fight between Charles C. Moore and Senator Johnson will be the most stirring political contest California has had during the past twenty years. No stronger man could have been selected to make the race against Johnson.

"Moore is a man who accomplishes. For the past twenty-five years he has energetically and successfully fought to put California 'on the map.' To him more than anyone else is due credit for getting the Panama Pacific Exposition here and his management of its financial affairs was a remarkable feat. He is a man of great ability, has a fine personality, is genial, affable, big hearted. He is a magnetic, forceful, convincing speaker. He is a man who makes friends and is a tireless worker.

"In the Senate of the United States, he will win distinction and be able to accomplish tremendous results for the Pacific Coast. He will be welcomed by the Republican administration and will work in harmony with it. He has hosts of friends and admirers in California, who will work night and day for his success."

CRISWELL IN PLEA FOR BOULDER DAM

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Ralph L. Criswell, president of the Los Angeles City Council and Mayor Bacon of San Diego, today appeared before the House Committee on Irrigation. They both advocated the passage of the Swing bill for the spending of $70,000,000 for the building of a dam at Boulder Canyon in the Colorado River and the construction of an ayy-American canal to divert the waters of the river to the Imperial Valley for irrigation purposes.

MELTING POT URGED BY HEAD OF HARVARD

THOUGHT TO COVER REPORTS CONCERNING JEWS AND NEGROES IN COLLEGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) June 22. American colleges can render an indispensable service in blending the different racial groups that pour into the country, said President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University in an address at the alumni exercises at the Harvard commencement today.

"To leave out of sight the interests of any group whatever, to fail to consult members of that group about its interests, would be wrong," he said. "To shut the eyes to an actual problem of this kind and ignore its existence, or to refuse to grapple with it courageously, would be unworthy of a university."

His remarks were interpreted by the alumni as referring to recent reports that Harvard planned discriminations against the Jews and that negroes would be barred from freshmen dormitories.

CHARTER ISSUED FOR BANK AT SAWTELLE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The Comptroller of the Currency has received an application to organize the First National Bank of East San Gabriel, with a capital of $25,000. C. C. Threlkeld, San Gabriel, makes the application.

The Comptroller has issued a charter to the United States National Bank of Sawtelle, with a capital of $50,000. The president is William A. Reeder.

NEW PACIFIC LINER REACHES VICTORIA

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

VICTORIA (B. C.) June 22.—The Canadian Pacific Steamship Company's new passenger liner, Empress of Canada, destined for the trans-Pacific route, arrived here today from Yokohama on her maiden voyage in command of Capt. A. J. Hailey, Royal Naval Reserve.

The new liner, said to be the largest passenger vessel to operate in the Pacific, is 27 feet long, 21,517 gross tonnage, and is capable of making twenty-two knots. The voyage from Yokohama breakwater to William Head quarantine station was made in nine days and two hours.

ROAD MERGER IS FEASIBLE

Thelen Outlines Southern Pacific Case

Interstate Commerce Body Can Give Order

Joint Operation Necessary, He Declares

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has the right to authorize joint operation of the Southern and Central Pacific Railroad systems notwithstanding the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court ordering their separation, Max Thelen, former president of the California State Railroad Commission, told a meeting of Statewide shipping and other interests held here today to discuss the unmerger situation.

The meeting was called by the California Development Association. Among those invited to attend were chambers of commerce, industrial associations, shippers and the delegates to the meeting here Monday and Tuesday of public utility commissioners in Western States which had been called to plan a solution of the separation emergency.

The development body had invited expressions of opinion on both sides of the question.

MOMENTOUS IMPORTANCE

"The question of whether the Southern Pacific and the Central Pacific shall be torn apart is of momentous importance to the people of California and the entire Pacific Coast," Thelen said.

"The Supreme Court of the United States based its decision in the unmerger case on the law as it stood in 1914, when these proceedings were begun, and in no way referred to the changes in the law subsequently made by the Federal Congress.

"The Transportation Act, enacted by Congress in 1920, directs the Interstate Commerce Commission to prepare a plan for consolidating the railroads of the United States into a small number of strong systems competing with one another on terms of equality and specially authorizes the commission to permit the consolidation of railroad systems without regard to the Sherman antitrust law or any other law, State or Federal.

"The Interstate Commerce Commission accordingly has power to authorize the operation of the Southern Pacific and the Central Pacific as a single system notwithstanding the Sherman antitrust law or the recent decision of the Supreme Court based on the law.

PUBLIC INTEREST TEST

"The test to be applied by the Interstate Commerce Commission will, in my judgment, be the public interest of the people of California and the Pacific Coast.

"What is the public interest?

"The tearing of the Central Pacific from the Southern Pacific would result in two fragmentary railroad systems trying to render the service now efficiently performed by a single unified system. Branch lines would be separated from their parent main lines. Terminals would be separated from the lines now serving them. Roundabout routes would largely be substituted for present direct lines.

"Up and down the San Joaquin and the Sacramento valleys, also between other points in California and between points in California and neighboring States, two and three-line hauls would be substituted for the present single-line haul. Every passenger and every shipper of freight knows what that would mean in inconvenience, delays and deterioration of service.

NO RATE REDUCTIONS

The unmerging would not reduce rates, either local or transcontinental. If any change in rates should result, it would be an increase, and not a decrease, because two-line hauls are more expensive than one-line hauls and also because of the duplicate operating expenses and the enormous duplicate investments which would necessarily be made by these railroads in branch lines, main lines, shops, terminal facilities, rolling stock and other property in an effort to bind up the gashes caused by the dismemberment of the present single system.

"The acquisition of the Central Pacific by the Union Pacific would give to the Union Pacific a dominant position which would prevent competition on terms of equality with the Santa Fe, the Western Pacific and what would be left of the Southern Pacific. The best interests of California require that all of these three railroads be kept strong, with a fair chance to compete.

COMPETITION NEEDED

"Instead of having the Union Pacific at Portland, the Union Pacific at San Francisco and the Union Pacific at Los Angeles, it would be far better for the people of California and the Pacific Coast to keep the Southern Pacific in a strong position to compete on transcontinental business through the Ogden gateway.

"The tearing away of the Central Pacific would be a terrific blow to the Southern Pacific. The Southern Pacific would lose practically all of its deciduous fruit business, a large part of the citrus and dried fruit traffic, and, in a word, practically all of its transcontinental business of Northern and Central California and Oregon.

"It would have taken away from it many of its most profitable feeders in California. It could not hope, with its long swing to the South, to Galveston and New Orleans to compete successfully on any substantial amount of transcontinental, business except that to and from Southern California. As to that business the position of the Southern Pacific has already been weakened since 1914 by the opening of the Panama Canal and the entry of the Union Pacific into Los Angeles.

PUBLIC CALAMITY

"The best interests of California imperatively require that the Southern Pacific be kept in a strong position. Southern California needs the continued help of the Southern Pacific in maintaining, at a huge annual loss, the wonderful system of the Pacific Electric. All of California, north, central and south, require that this railroad be kept in a position to compete strongly on local and transcontinental tariffs.

"The dismemberment of the Southern Pacific system would be a public calamity to the people of California. The press, civic and commercial organizations and every public agency in the State should unite in firm insistence that the Southern Pacific system be kept intact. In this way shall we best serve the public interest."

Georgia Man Injured in Dive Has a Chance to Get Better

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

COLUMBUS (Ga.) June 22.—Although S. L. Smith lies in the city hospital here with his neck broken in two places as the result of a dive into a shallow swimming pool, physicians believe he has a chance of recovery. The accident occurred Sunday night, and after Smith lived for 36 hours surgeons decided on an operation. Shattered bones were lifted from the spinal cord, and other parts removed.

Embezzlement Charge Placed Against Dealer

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ONTARIO, June 22.—Said to have collected more than $12,000 in Ontario and Upland on alleged Mexican land deals, Charles J. Stickney, said to be the son of a wealthy St. Paul (Minn.) man, was at liberty today on $2000 cash bail following his arraignment on a charge of embezzling $1000 from H. J. Koster, prominent Upland building contractor.

On Mr. Koster's complaint, Stickney was arrested in Los Angeles and taken to the San Bernardino County Jail to await arraignment. At the hearing, Stickney indignantly denied the charges against him. He admitted the Mexican land deals, but declared them genuine.

According to his story to the authorities, Mr. Koster gave the promoter $3000 to invest, and that Stickney kept $1000, explaining that he was "temporarily broke." He now accuses Stickney of embezzling the money. The date for the preliminary hearing has not been set.

ROUGH RIDERS TO HOLD CELEBRATION

ARIZONA MEMBERS OF FAMOUS ORGANIZATION PREPARING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) June 22.—Members of Roosevelt's Rough Riders, the First United States Volunteer Cavalry, are preparing a celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Las Guasimas, which occurred near Santiago, Cuba, June 24, 1898. This was the first engagement in which the United States Army participated in Cuba, when the Rough Riders climbed the hill back of Siboney and made a frontal attack upon 3500 Spaniards, intrenched in fortifications that were called the key to Santiago. At the same time dismounted squadrons of the First and Tenth Cavalry assaulted the left of the Spanish line, though only about 1000 American soldiers in all were in the three subdivisions. The Spaniards were driven back with heavy loss, the wounded being taken away and about fifty of the dead left on the ground. The Americans lost sixteen killed, including Capt. Capron, and had about fifty wounded.

Douglas and Bisbee probably contain more Rough Riders than any other cities of the Southwest, nearly all of them belonging to Troop B, of which the captain was James H. McClintock, now of Phoenix. The first lieutenant was George B. Wilcox, now of Bisbee, the second lieutenant Thomas Ryanning, now warden of the State penitentiary at Florence, and the first sergeant W. A. Davidson, now in Ajo. Gen. John C. Greenway, general manager of the Calumet and Arizona, was a lieutenant in a New Mexican organization of Rough Riders and participated in the same engagement. The major of the Arizona squadron was Alex O. Brodie, later Governor of Arizona.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC REPORTS FINANCES

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—The net revenue of the Southern Pacific company from railroad operation in the five months ending with May were $21,024,017, or an increase of $2,996,698 over tht same period in 1921, according to a statement issued today by the company. The net railway operating income for the period was $12,047,825, an increase of $1,869,120 over the parallel 1921 period. The income is derived after subtracting taxes, uncollectible revenues and equipment and joint facility rents from the revenue.

The May revenue from the same class of operation was $5,415,124, an increase of $2,106,940 over May, 1921. The May income was $3,656,066, an increase of $1,893,839.

TWO MEN BURIED IN IRRIGATION DITCH

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WOODLAND, June 22. — The bodies of E. S. Barnes, a contractor, and Clinton Moon, rancher, were recovered early today from an excavation on Moon's ranch near here, where they were entombed late yesterday.

The men had dug a sixteen-foot ditch in order to repair the intake pipe to an irrigation pump. Their failure to use timbers to hold the sides of the ditch is believed to have caused the tragedy.

SEEKS TO PROVE FRAUD CHARGE

Federal Attorney Will Ask for Indictments

Suspects Conspiracy in Property Sale

Burke Believes Evidence is Sufficient

When the Federal grand jury convenes this morning, U. S. Atty. Burke will go before that body to make a statement that may lead to immediate action for the prosecution of the case against Ben Sugarman and Dan Ike, and Joe Greenburg, charged with conspiring to commit fraud in connection with the public sale of government property at Camp Kearney, Mr. Burke said yesterday.

The trio were taken into custody on March 21 and each gave bond in the sum of $10,000 furnished by a local surety company. The hearing was set by U. S. Commissioner Long for April 26, but it did not take place, and on May 26, the case went off on motion of Asst. U. S. Atty. Herron, to be reset. So far as the Commissioner's office is concerned, that is the end of the narrative. Meanwhile the defendants are at liberty.

NO INDICTMENT

One day was spent by the present Federal grand jury hearing the testimony against the men, but it is understood that enough has not been secured to warrant an indictment. U. S. Atty. Burke is authority for the statement that there is sufficient evidence to be had to warrant the indictment, and it is probable that the whole matter will be relegated to the new Federal grand jury, to convene about the middle of July.

When the accused were taken into custody and arraigned before Commissioner Long, a communication was sent to Atty-Gen. Daugherty for instructions in regard to the matter, but no reply has been received to the communication, it is stated.

OFFICERS INVOLVED

It is possible the case will be consolidated for prosecution under the control of the battery of attorneys retained by the Attorney-General to ferret out the war frauds, a bit of machinery that is not yet in motion, and for which Congress has appropriated $500,000.

Although at the time of the arrest, the names of several officers of the Army were mentioned in connection with the case, no investigation has followed, although there is a well-established rumor that the War Department proposes moving against these officers by court martial.

RED LOCKS SAVE BOY GOTHAM JAIL TERM

LOS ANGELES YOUTH ARRESTED FOR VAGRANCY IS TO GET LENIENCY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, June 22.—His hair saved Russell McCormick, aged 19, whose home at present is anywhere he hangs his hat, when arraigned before Magistrate Levine in West Side court today, charged with vagrancy.

Russell hails from Los Angeles. He arrived in New York Thursday after walking most of the way across the continent. Occasionally a motorist, attracted by his extremely red thatch, would give him a ride.

Detective Burke, himself redhaired, arrested the boy when McCormick asked him for a quarter. He told the officer that he left the Coast because people continually referred to his hair.

"If I sent you to jail that hair of yours might set the place on fire and there would be a general delivery," remarked Magistrate Levine when McCormick pleaded guilty.

"I'll hold your case until Monday and try to place you in a safe place."

ANCIENT OAKS ARE DOOMED

Modern Civilization Kills Off Old Trees

Poison and Diseases from Oil, Cement and Tar

Acorns Should be Planted to Preserve Scenery

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, June 22.—Advancing civilization is bringing death to the hardy old oak trees which dot the Central California coast counties and which have figured in the State's colorful history, according to Dr. George J. Pierce, professor of botany and plant physiology at Stanford University.

California always has had its oaks and the Spanish name for the tree. "Encina" is a common name in the State. Even the city of Oakland gained its name from the fact that on its site were many oak trees.

Recently when the oaks in this section showed signs of dying, a "Save the Oaks" campaign was launched. Dr. Pierce was consulted and said that while the old oaks could not live, young native oaks could be set out and in a few years would be large enough to preserve the character of the scenery. Oaks grow rapidly and a tree planted from an acorn here in 1905, he said, is now of good size.

"A majority of the older oak trees are doomed," Dr. Pierce said. "Only the inner bark and the outer wood are sound—the rest is hopelessly diseased.

"The oaks are not able under modern conditions to resist the ravages of diseases which attack the wood. With the spread of urban conditions, the trees are forced to fight unnatural odds. Drought, suffocation and poison gases are the enemies which attack the trees when the ground around them is surfaced with cement, asphalt or oil.

"The sewer, leakage from which would normally act as fertilizer, becomes a menace when an impenetrable surface makes the escape of gases impossible. The air is shut out from above and the poison shut in. This combination weakens the tree's resistance to disease. In addition to this, water is either prevented from reaching the roots at all or is poured in through a small aperture around the trunk in such quantity that the tree is drowned.

"If a young sapling were put in wherever an old tree dies or is taken out, it would soon be large enough to preserve the character of the scenery. The young trees will be able to adapt themselves to the changed conditions under which they must live as the old trees were unable to do."

COST OF LIVING STILL GOES UP

Increase of One-Tenth of One Per Cent in Month Noted

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 22. — The cost of living for American wage earners increased one-tenth of 1 per cent in the month ending May 15, making the index 154.9 or 54.9 per cent above the July, 1914, figure, and 24.3 per cent below the peak of July, 1920. The National Industrial Conference Board, a manufacturers' statistical body, announcing the figures today, attributed the increase to a rise in clothing prices.

PRESIDENT OF CHINA HAS DISAPPEARED

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

SHANGHAI (China) June 22.—Sun Yat Sen, the President without a republic, has disappeared, according to advices received from the south by Chinese circles here.

An unconfirmed message from the Canton region stated that when Sun's naval forces deserted him, he fled the scene of his defeat and now is making his way toward Shanghai by an undisclosed route.

From Chinese sources in the south also comes the report that Wu Ting Fang, formerly Sun's foreign Minister and at one time Chinese Minister to Washington, has refused the post of Civil Governor of Kwangtung Province offered him by Gen. Cheng Cheung Ming, conqueror of Canton.

The last definite news of Sun Yat Sen came in a dispatch from Peking several days ago recording his flight from Canton when that city was captured by Chen Cheung Ming. Since then the rumor has had him aboard one of his cruisers bombarding Canton, fleeing from Canton to Shanghai and held a prisoner by the United China forces.

JAP PRIVY COUNCIL RATIFIES TREATY

"As far as I am concerned, I will not interfere with dancing Sunday. I will look over the situation next week, however, and decide what is to be done. I have been surprised at the number of requests that Sunday dancing go on."

KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, June 22. — Approximately 1500 miners have gone back to work in the Kansas coal fields, according to reports received by Gov. Allen today. The Governor said this insures the State against any shortage of coal for threshing.

Chinch bugs, Hessian flies and hot weather of the last three days of last week have cost Sedgwick county farmers at least $350,000, according to E. J. Macey, county fair agent.

Bids have been asked for the erection of hangars and other buildings on what is to be Kansas City's new flying field, which is to be one of the largest and most up-to-date airdromes in the country.

MILWAUKEE

MILWAUKEE, June 22.—In an effort to reduce the number of automobile accidents occurring on the Neenah-Oshkosh concrete road, a broad black line has been painted down the center of the road. Autoists are warned to keep to the right of the line. More accidents have occurred so far this season than ever before.

Kenosha Masons are planning the erection of a $250,000 temple, to be started probably in September. The site has been purchased and more than $75,000 has been pledged toward the building fund.

The demand for common labor in Wisconsin is generally in excess of the supply, both the industrial commission and the highway department report. This last month has shown a tightening of the labor market, with practically no unemployment.

ST. PAUL

ST. PAUL, June 22.—Aroused at reports of highway robberies perpetrated in St. Paul, Chief of Police Frank W. Sommer has ordered a general clean-up of criminals, instructing detectives to patrol the street and round up every suspect in the city.

With fifty vigilantes working under direction of the safety subdivision of the St. Paul Association, in co-operation with motorcycle policemen, speeders and violators of other traffic laws were so curbed that St. Paul's second "safety Sunday" passed with only two minor accidents reported.

The Hessian fly is getting into the rye fields in the vicinity of St. James, and will cause at least a 10 per cent loss to the farmers, according to Lloyd Hudson, county agent.

Jack O'Judgment

By Edgar Wallace

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALLMENTS

"Tiger" Gregory, an Oxford man who "went to the bad" through drugs, is murdered at the order of Col. Dan Boundary, leader of a blackmailing gang, who immediately thereafter finds himself frustrated at every turn by a stranger, masked foe calling himself "Jack o' Judgment." Boundary baffles detective protection, but Stafford King, Scotland Yard detective and right-hand man to Commissioner Sir Stanley Baltock, laughs at him. Boundary learns that Stafford King is in love with Maisie White, daughter of one of the gang, and he at once demands that the girl marry Pinto Silva, another gang member, who has long courted her in vain. She refuses. Soon after, Boundary is revealed by King. The case hinges on the testimony of one Hanson, former valet of Boundary. As he is about to tell all, he falls over dead, poisoned. Boundary goes free. He soon has a Yorkshire mill-owner named Crotin in his net. He proposes that Crotin sell his mill, worth 200,000 pounds, for 20,000, on threat of revealing a secret bigamous marriage. Crotin is about to sign a transfer when Jack o' Judgment appears, snatches the papers and escapes with Crotin. Boundary learns that Maisie White has been spying on him, and arranges with Philloccle, a white slaver, to have her shipped to South America. Maisie is abducted and kept in a manor in an obscure part of London. Boundary then hires Raoul, a French Apache, to kill Maisie's father, who has threatened to expose the gang. After the crime Jack o' Judgment captures Raoul and executes him by hanging in a vacant house. The mysterious avenger then rescues Maisie and brings her home, exacting her promise not to reveal where she had been held or by whom. Boundary, to dispel the fear that has gripped his gang, decides on a big coup. He learns that the wife of Crotin has just inherited a vast fortune, and sends Pinto Silva to Yorkshire. Maisie White learns of Pinto's leaving. Pinto, dining with Crotin and Lady Sybil, his wife, quickly reveals his purpose to the millowner.

Pinto nodded.

"Then run along now," said Lady Sybil. "And when you've finished talking, come back to me, Mr. de Silva. I want to know something about your charitable organizations in Portugal."

Pinto followed the other at a distance, saw him enter the big room and switch on the lights, and followed, closing the door behind him.

Mr. Crotin's library was the most comfortable room in the house. It was lighted by French windows which opened to a small terrace. Long, red velvet curtains were drawn, and a little fire crackled on the hearth.

When the door closed Crotin turned upon his guest. "Now," he said harshly, "what's your proposition? Make it a reasonable sum and I'll pay you."

Chapter XXVI

THE SOLDIER WHO FOLLOWED

In the train which had carried Pinto Silva to Huddersfield were one or two remarkable passengers, and it was not a coincidence that they did not meet. In a third-class carriage at the far end of the train was a soldier who carried a kit bag and who whiled away the journey by reading a seemingly endless collection of magazines.

He got out at Huddersfield, too, and Pinto might, and probably did, see him as he passed through the barrier. The soldier left his kit bag at the cloak room and eventually became one of the two dozen people who patronized Lady Sybil's bazaar on that afternoon.

When Lady Sybil and her guest had entered her car and were driven away to Mill Hall, the soldier had been loitering near the entrance, and a few minutes later he was following the party in a taxicab which had been waiting at his order for the past two hours.

The taxi did not turn in at the stone-pillared gates of the Hall, but continued some distance beyond, when the soldier alighted, and, turning back, walked boldly through the main entrance and passed up the drive. It was dusk by now, and nobody challenged him.

He made a reconnaissance of the house, and found the dining-room without any difficulty. The blinds were up and the servants were setting the table. Then he passed around to the wing of the building and discovered the library. He actually went into that room, because it was one of Lady Sybil's standing orders that the library should be "aired" and that the scent of Mr. Crotin's atrocious tobacco should be cleared out.

He walked back to the terrace to take his bearings in case he had to make a rapid exit. He looked around and then dropped suddenly to the cover of the balustrade, for he had seen a dark figure moving across the lawn, and it was coming straight for the terrace. He slipped back into the room, and as he did so he heard a step in the passage without. He stepped lightly over a settee and crouched down.

It was evidently a servant, for he heard the French windows closed and the clang of the shutters. They were evidently very ordinary folding shutters, fastened with an old-fashioned steel bar—he made a mental note of this. Then he heard the swish of the curtain rings upon the brass pole as the curtains were drawn. A dim light was switched on, somebody poked the fire and then the light was put out and the door closed softly.

The intruder did some rapid thinking. He crossed to the nearest of the windows, noiselessly opened the shutters and pushed them back to the position in which they stood when not in use. Then he unlatched the French window and left it, hoping that it would not blow open and betray him. This done, he again pulled the heavy curtains across and returned to his place of concealment. That was to be the way out for him if the necessity for a rapid retreat should arise.

Suddenly the door was opened, the lights were flashed on and the man behind the settee hugged the floor and held his breath.

"How much do I want?"

Pinto laughed and lit a cigarette.

"My dear Mr. Crotin, I really don't know what you mean."

"Let's have no more foolery," said the Yorkshireman roughly. "I know that you've come up from Col. Boundary, and I know what you've come for. You want to buy my mill, eh? Well, I'll make it worth your while not to buy my mill. You can take the money instead."

"I'm really honest when I tell you that I don't understand what you are talking about. I have certainly come up to buy a mill—that is true. It is also true that I want to buy your mill."

"And what might you be thinking of paying for it?" asked Crotin between his teeth.

"Twenty thousand pounds," said Pinto nonchalantly.

"Twenty thousand, eh? It was thirty thousand the last time. You'll want me to give it to you soon. Nay, nay, my friend, I'll pay, but not in mills."

"Think of the poor," murmured Pinto.

"I'm thinking of them," said the other. "I'm thinking of the poor woman in Wales, too, and the poor woman in there." He jerked his head. Then, in a calmer tone: "I guessed at dinner where you came from. Col. Boundary sent you."

Pinto shrugged his shoulders.

"Let us mention no names," he said politely. "And who is Col. Boundary anyway?"

Crotin was at his desk now. He had taken out his check book and slapped it down upon the writing pad.

"You've got me," he said, and his voice quavered. "I'll make an offer to you. I'll give you fifty thousand pounds if you write an agreement that you will not molest or bother me again."

There was a silence, and the soldier crouched behind the settee, listening intently. He heard Pinto laugh softly as one who is greatly amused.

"That, my good friend," said Pinto, "would be blackmail. You don't imagine that I would be guilty of such an iniquity? I know nothing about your past; I merely suggest that you should sell me one of your mills at a reasonable price."

"Twenty thousand pounds is reasonable for you, I suppose," said Crotin sarcastically.

"It is a lot of money," replied Pinto.

The Yorkshireman pulled open the drawer of his desk and slammed in the check book, closing it with a bang.

"Well, I'll give you nothing," he said, "neither mill nor money. You can clear out of here!"

He crossed the room to the telephone.

"What are you going to do?" asked Pinto, secretly alarmed.

"I'm going to send for the police," said the other grimly. "I'm going to give myself up and I'm going to have you arrested, too!"

If Crotin had turned the handle of the old-fashioned telephone, if he had continued in his resolution, if he had shown no sign of doubt, a different story might have been told. But with his hand raised, he hesitated, and Pinto clinched his argument.

"Why have all that trouble?" he said. "Your liberty and reputation are much more to you than a mill. You're a rich man. Your wife is wealthy in her own right. You have enough to live on for the rest of your life. Why make trouble?"

The little man dropped his head with a groan and walked wearily back to the desk.

"Suppose I sell this," he said in a low voice, "how do I know you won't come again"

"When a gentleman gives his word of honor," began Pinto with dignity, but was interrupted by a shrill laugh that made his blood run cold.

He swung round with an oath. Framed in an opening of the curtains which covered one of the windows was The Figure.

The black silk gown, the white masked face, the soft felt hat, pulled down over the eyes. His teeth chattered at the sight of it, and he fell back against the wall.

"Who wouldn't trust Pinto?" squeaked the voice. "Who wouldn't take Pinto's word of honor! Jack o' Judgment wouldn't, poor old Jack o' Judgment!"

Jack o' Judgment. The soldier behind the settee heard the words and gasped. Without any thought of consequence he raised his head and looked. The Jack o' Judgment was standing where he expected him to be. He had come through the window which the soldier had left unbarred. This time he carried no weapon in his hand, and Pinto was quick to see the possibilities. The electric switch was within reach, and his hand shot out. There was a click and the room went dark.

But the figure of Jack o' Judgment was silhouetted against the night, and Pinto whipped out the long knife which never left him and sent it hurtling at his enemy. He saw the figure duck, heard the crash of broken glass, and then Jack o' Judgment vanished. In a rage which was three parts terror, he sprang through the open door onto the terrace in time to see a dark figure drop over the balustrade and fly across the park.

Chapter XXVII

THE CAPTURE OF "JACK"

Pinto leaped the parapet and was following swiftly in its wake. He guessed rather than knew that for once Jack o' Judgment had come unarmed, and a wild exultation filled him at the thought that it was left to him to unveil the mystery which was weighing even upon the iron nerve of the colonel.

The figure gained the shrubbery, and the pursuer heard the rustle of leaves as it plunged into the depths. In a second he was blundering after. He lost sight of his quarry and stopped to listen. There was no sound.

"Hiding," Pinto grunted. And then aloud: "Come out of it. I see you and I'll shoot you like a dog if you don't come to me!"

There was no reply. He dashed in the direction he thought Jack o' Judgment must have taken and again missed. With a curse he turned off in another direction and then suddenly glimpsed a shape before him and leaped at it. He was flung back with little or no effort and stood bewildered, for the coat his hand had touched was rough, and he had felt metal buttons.

"A soldier!" he gasped. "Who are you?"

"Steady," said the other; "don't get rattled, Pinto."

"Who are you?" asked Pinto again.

"My name is Stafford King," said the soldier, " and I think I shall want you."

Pinto half turned to go, but was gripped.

Commons Beats Government in London Voting

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, June 22.—The government was defeated on a financial amendment on the national health insurance bill in the Grand Committee of the House of Commons today. The committee imediately adjourned in order that the government might consider its position.

The government was defeated yesterday in the House of Lords on the question of the Palestine mandate.

The amendment was carried against the government by a vote of 2 to 14.

The defeat is considered in political quarters as of no greater importance than that which occurred in the House of Lords, and as unlikely to lead to modification of the government's policy.

To Take Suspects to Chicago

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHICAGO, June 22.—Two police sergeants are leaving today for Omaha to bring back two men and two girls who are said to be members of a gang responsible for the theft here of fifty automobiles. They are said to have left here with two stolen automobiles a week ago. The four are Dunbar Claybourne and Wilbur Armstrong, Marie Speck and Martha Bouffin, all of Chicago.

Lower Reserve Rate Improves Money Market

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, June 22.—The effect of the lower reserve bank rate, as announced after the close of business Wednesday, was visible in today's markets for money and investment bonds. It caused no very important change in either, but the stock sale both for commercial papers and for short-term loans on collateral declined ¼ of 1 per cent and four of the Liberty loans went above their previous high-record price. The fact that all of these 4 and 4¼ per cent United States war loans should now be selling a considerable fraction over par is on the whole a logical recognition of the conditions which make a 4 per cent reserve bank rediscount rate possible; the exemption from taxation naturally emphasizes such influence as it does in the still larger premium on New York City 4¼ per cents. Behind even these considerations, an inference which is likely to become more positive as time goes on, is the extremely skilful policy of Secretary Mellon in his refunding program.

It would probably be superfluous to assign the lowering of the reserve bank rate as a cause of today's renewed advance in a number of industrial stocks. A stock moving under such auspices as have ruled this week pays no serious attention to the really important news. The toppling of an over-extended "short interest" would be a far more powerful motive to stir the market than a fall in the cost of money, just as discovery of salt water in a few oil wells would be more disturbing in the market's present mood than the calling of a railway strike. Mexican Petroleum stock rose 11 points further to its highest of the day and nothing else appeared to interest the stock exchange. There were, however, a few rather emphatic advances even in the railway shares.

DEFENSE COUNCIL IS WANTED IN CAPITAL

FEDERATION TAKES ON BIG ORDER AT ITS CINCINNATI MEETING

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CINCINNATI, June 22.—With the avowed purpose of meeting all legal attacks aimed at unions, the American Federation of Labor today added to its program for curbing the powers exercised by the courts by directing the establishment at Washington of an union defense council composed of lawyers selected by federation officers. The council primarily will defend the unions against any suits that may be filed under recent Supreme Court decisions.

The program of four constitutional amendments, repeal of the Sherman antitrust law, and enactment of two new measures which was adopted by the convention by almost an unanimous vote, will require years of campaigning before adoption, speakers said in urging the creation of the defense council. The amendments include a Congressional veto of Supreme Court decisions, the guarantee to union labor of the right to organize, to bargain collectively, and to strike, the prohibition of child labor, and adoption of an easier method than the present for amending the Constitution. Enactment of a new Federal child labor law and also a law interpreting the labor sections of the Clayton Act were included as a part of the program.

The delegates set aside tomorrow morning for the annual election of officers. With this action, electioneering was pushed among the delegates, but tonight only one contest was certain.

PROFIT IN SHOES HELD EQUITABLE

Congress Fails to Find Profiteering in the Retail Trade, Convention Told

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, June 22.—Shoe retailers have been absolved of profiteering by Congressional inquiry, delegates to the California Shoe Retailers' Association were told today by George Spangler of Chicago, of the National Shoe Retailers' Association. Mr. Spangler represented the national body before the Congressional investigating committee, which was headed by Representative Anderson of Minnesota.

"The inquiry resulted in a clean bill of health for the retail shoe business," declared Mr. Spangler. "The committee learned that the retail shoe stores made a net profit in 1921 of 1 1-4 cents on each dollar paid by the customer."

President Al Katchinski supplemented Mr. Spangler's talk by reading a letter from Representative Anderson, in which he said the average profits of the retail shoe business from 1913 to 1921 inclusive were 6.17 per cent, and that the highest profit made was in 1919, when it was only 9.36 per cent.

At the afternoon session, Clark J. Milliron, an income-tax attorney of Los Angeles, talked on income-tax problems.

The election of officers resulted in the choosing of Chester Herold of San Jose as president; Fred White of Los Angeles, first vice-president; Max Streicher of San Diego, as second vice-president and Melville Kaufman of San Francisco as secretary and treasurer. The only contest was for president, H. A. Ballentine of Los Angeles and San Francisco, opposing Mr. Herold.

Tomorrow the delegates will have a golf tournament.

Mrs. Webster's Death is Felt by Community

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SIERRA MADRE, June 22.—This city has sustained a loss, keenly felt by its citizens in the death on Monday of its oldest woman inhabitant, Mrs. Mary A. Webster, who died at the age of 93.

Mrs. Webster was born at Chelmsford, Eng., in 1829. She was married to Michael Webster and they came to America in 1854 and lived for a number of years in Brooklyn and Cornwall, N. Y. On the death of her husband in 1893 she came to Sierra Madre. She was the mother of eight children, six of whom survive her. They are Mrs. E. H. Vannier, Miss Lizzie M. Webster and Anne Tasker Webster of Sierra Madre; E. F. Webster of South Pasadena, C. J. Webster of Honolulu and E. J. Webster of Brooklyn, N. Y.

During her thirty years' residence in Sierra Madre, Mrs. Webster was prominently identified with every movement of a charitable and uplifting nature, giving both her time and money freely. She was a devoted Bible student and her faculties were wonderfully bright up to a year ago when she suffered a slight affliction. She combined force and sweetness in her character and was beloved by all who knew her.

Funeral services were held at the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Ascension at which six grandsons acted as pall bearers. The services were conducted by the Rev. George H. Cornell, a former rector, who paid her a high tribute in commenting on her life work. Dean Shaw assisted at the services.

POSTOFFICE STILL WILL O' THE WISP

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOUTH PASADENA, June 22.—South Pasadena's postoffice is again homeless. After winning in the competitive bids to furnish new quarters, Miss Carolyn Ellsworth of Los Angeles has withdrawn her proposal to build a block for postal purposes at the corner of Mound avenue and Mission street.

According to Postmaster Knight, Miss Ellsworth has stated as her reason for abandoning her offer that postal fixtures specified by the government will cost $2000 more than she wishes to pay. Miss Ellsworth's original proposal to the government was for a ten years' lease of a portion of a specially-built building at $2100 a year.

NOTES LEAD TO ARREST OF NEGRO

Amours of Colored Youth With White Girl Charged in Her Uncle's Complaint

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

UPLAND, June 22.—Charged with contributing to the delinquency of Jessie Ramsey, a 16-year-old white girl by proposing marriage, Sullivan Marshall, 17-year-old Upland negro, was under arrest today. Marshall is scheduled to appear on Monday before Judge Benjamin F. Warmer in the Juvenile Court to tell of his amours which failed to recognize the color line of conventionality.

Endearing letters asserted to have been written by the negro youth to the girl, were intercepted by her relatives and at Tucker the girl's uncle swore to the complaint for the youth's arrest. Officers also have letters said to have been written by the Ramsey girl in answer to the adoring words of the negro. The girl was taken to the county detention home today.

According to the girl's uncle, the affair began when the negro, accompanied by his mulatto sisters, took her riding. The boy's invitations became frequent, and it is said that his love guarded by secrecy at first, threatened to step beyond the color line drawn by the law. Marshall is said to have denied to local officers that he wrote the letters in question, but a comparison of hand writing is said to have established him as their author.

TO VOTE ON RECALL OF OFFICIALS

Venice Voters' Petitions Are Returned; Mayor's Was Little Shy

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VENICE, June 22.—A special election for the recall of Mayor Gerety and Trustee Harrah, will be held, it was announced today, when it was found that the petition circulated against Harrah was correct, and the petition against Mayor Gerety lacked only twenty-two names of the required number.

Proponents of the recall of the two officials immediately filed a supplementary petition bearing 150 names in the case of Mayor Gerety. It is expected that the required twenty-two names will be secured from this list.

The resolution calling for the special election will have its first reading before the Board of Trustees July 3 and will be adopted July 10. The election must be held, under the law, not more than forty days later, which will bring the election on August 19.

The recall of the two officials is sought on the ground of "incompetency and useless expenditure of public funds."

Neither one of the two officials has issued a statement or made any effort to combat the movement as yet.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VENICE, June 22.—Harry Hull, pioneer resident of Venice died shortly before noon today at St. Catherine's Hospital. Death was due to a complication of diseases. He was ill two weeks.

Mr. Hull came to Venice before any of the present canals, the Windward avenue pier or many of the present improvements existed. He first engaged in the saloon business but left that six years ago, and opened a billiard hall and smoke shop, which he has since conducted.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Anne Taylor Hull. He was 50 years old, and a native of Wisconsin.

Funeral arrangements will be suspended until the arrival of a sister from Nebraska. He was a member of Santa Monica Bay Elks lodge, No. 906. The Elks will take charge of the funeral.

Hotel Casaloma, San Diego, Cal. Very moderately priced. American or European plan.—[Advertisement.

SANTA FE PLEA IS DELAYED

Application for Franchise Into Port Considered

Another Hearing on Route Changes Called

Utilities Board to Get Chamber's Views

The application of the Santa Fe for a franchise to extend its lines into the Los Angeles Harbor district and to build terminals there was considered yesterday afternoon by the Board of Public Utilities. Action was postponed by the board in approving or recommending changes in the proposed route of the railroad until after another hearing by the board at 1:30 p.m. Monday.

All of the speakers declared that they welcomed the coming of the Santa Fe to Los Angeles Harbor, but the proposed route of the railroad was opposed by former Senator Henry E. Carter and Charles H. Cheney, the city planning expert, who represented the Palos Verdes Syndicate, which owns 6000 acres of land at Bixby Slough on the west basin. Mr. Cheney said that syndicate is considering the possibility of building on this land a great industrial center, like the Bush Terminal at Brooklyn, N. Y., and he and other speakers declared that the proposed route of the railroad company would prevent the future development of the section. Mr. Cheney said he believed that the city and the railroad could agree on a change of route, which would meet this objection and provide for the future development of this section of the harbor.

Speaking on the general proposition of the Santa Fe's building into Los Angeles Harbor, F. P. Gregson of the Associated Jobbers, said, "We need the Santa Fe at Los Angeles Harbor and the people want to see the railroad extend its lines to our port."

The Board of Public Utilities will confer with the harbor board and the Los Angeles Harbor Chamber of Commerce to ascertain their views as to the railroad company's proposed route and whether or not they believe that this route will block the future development of the west basin.

NEW SERVICE TO ISLANDS IS PLANNED

Los Angeles Company to Refit Two Vessels to Carry Passengers

The S.S. Los Angeles, which has been allocated to the Los Angeles Steamship Company by the United States Shipping Board, is to leave New York City on Monday for the local harbor, where she will be refitted for luxurious travel between this city and Honolulu.

This word, which was received at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday, has been eagerly awaited by shippers and traders, who have long anticipated the establishment of direct connections between this city and the Islands. The S. S. Aeolus, the larger boat of the two assigned to this harbor by the shipping Board, has been renamed the Los Angeles, and the S.S. Huron will be called The City of Honolulu.

Transporting the vessels to the port of Los Angeles, the North Atlantic and Western Steamship Company will deliver them into the hands of the Los Angeles Steamship Company to refit for passenger and freight service. Going by way of the Panama Canal the voyage will require approximately fifteen days.

Information on the arrival of these ships is of interest to members of the Chamber of Commerce and their families planning to go on the initial trip of the Los Angeles to Honolulu. Although the date has not been set, it is probable that excursionists of Southern California will leave about September 10.

PORT NOTES

Leschebach Steamship Company officials yesterday announced that the three Shipping Board freighters recently purchased by the Pacific Coast have been renamed. The Edeltra is now the Frontier Leschenbach, the Marcia will be known as the Lillian Leschenbach and the South Bend Maru has been renamed the J. L. Leschenbach. The Frontier, Merchant, Eastern Trader, Poman, Cape May and East Indian, other Shipping Board vessels recently purchased by the Leschenbach interests, are now undergoing repairs at a reconditioning. They will be renamed before entering the new service.

More than 250,000 barrels of oil were shipped out of the local port yesterday in three tankers that left for Vancouver, B. C. The Lansdowne took 80,000 barrels of Signal Hill fuel oil to Meriden; the Montebello took 90,000 barrels of Pentle and the La Rabra carried 80,000 barrels to Vancouver.

Announcement was made yesterday by officials of the Islander Line that Eugene V. Rolfe, for nineteen years with Lunham & Moore, freight forwarders, has been appointed traffic and general manager of the Islander Line vessels. He will have his headquarters in San Francisco. Norton, Lilly & Co. are the Pacific agents.

The British steamer Benavon, 2649 tons, has been chartered by the Northern Grain and Warehousing Company of Portland at Portland for delivery to United Kingdom ports and ports of Continental Europe.

The Islander Line freighter Robin Adair is in from the East Coast with 9450 tons of cargo. 8000 tons of which are consigned to this port. The cargo is mostly structural steel, and included in the shipments are 600 tons of general merchandise. The vessel, while in charge of Port Pilot Meriweather at San Diego, ran afoul of them, causing considerable damage. It was said upon the arrival of the vessel here yesterday. The pilot, who was employed by the Naval Reserve Force and commander of the Navy transport Nebraska, was but recently appointed a pilot at San Diego, and the Robin Adair was his first piloting assignment.

The Islander Line steamer Santa Veronica, in from the East by load lumber for the McCormick plant, broke her tail shaft Tuesday night while moving from one dock to another there. The vessel will be laid up several days for repairs.

Progress toward a settlement of the difficulties between longshoremen and ship owners at Portland, was reported yesterday in dispatches from the northern port. Both sides apparently optimistic over the possibilities of an early settlement, it was said.

Lumber shipments to the Atlantic Coast have doubled all records during the first half of the present year. The cargoes sailing from Puget Sound ports to the East Coast have been one record 5 for the first two months. Each of these ships have carried from 1,000,000 to 4,000,000 feet of lumber.

THREE VESSELS UNLOAD STEEL

Commodity Brought Here to Meet Building Demands

Cargoes Also Contain Pipe for Oil Fields

Isthmian Line Ships Stop on Way North

The demand in Los Angeles and throughout Southern California for structural steel to keep up with the Southland's tremendous building program, is being felt to a marked degree by ship operators in the intercoastal trade. This is particularly true of the Isthmian Line, whose vessels are pouring a continuous stream of structural steel onto the wharves at Los Angeles Harbor, in addition to thousands of tons of iron pipe for use in the oil fields.

Yesterday three vessels, either owned or under charter to the Isthmian Line, were engaged in unloading structural steel and pipe at pier A, Wilmington, in addition to several hundred tons of general cargo. These vessels were the Robin Adair, Santa Eulalia and Pacific, with a total of 9000 tons of cargo for this port.

ON FIRST VOYAGE

The Pacific is on her first voyage to this coast since her maiden trip out of San Francisco, where she was launched, back in 1915. Soon after she was commissioned she was purchased by Norwegian interests and for the past year has been lying idle in a Norwegian port. She recently was purchased by the Argonaut Steamship Company, Inc., of New York, newcomers in the shipping field, placed under American registry once more and chartered to the Isthmian Line.

The Pacific is carrying 8200 tons of cargo, 1500 of which is being discharged at this port.

DISCHARGING CARGO

The Santa Eulalia, recently purchased from the W. R. Grace interests along with the Santa Veronica, is discharging 2500 tons at the local port. Her total cargo is 3500 tons.

Of the Robin Adair's total cargo of 9450 tons, more than 3500 tons are being discharged at the local port. Of this, 600 tons represents general cargo and the remainder structural steel and pipe for the oil fields. All three vessels will proceed to San Francisco and Northern Pacific ports to complete unloading.

Fire Starting in Oily Waste Damages Ship

The sister ships will be reconditioned at a cost of $200,000.

Fire originating in oily rags left too close to a steam pipe caused damage estimated at $3000 in the hold of the steam schooner Santa Rita, tied up to the Southern Pacific wharf, before daylight yesterday morning. The blaze was discovered in the ship's paint locker by a member of the anchor watch, who rushed ashore and telephoned an alarm.

The harbor fire boat and engine company No. 36 from San Pedro responded and had the fire under control within an hour of their arrival. Damage was to the hull and lumber cargo, according to the report of the fire department. The Santa Rita sailed a few hours later for Redondo.

YALE GREETED AT SAN DIEGO

Prominent Citizens and Band Welcome Steamer

Inauguration of Passenger Service Praised

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, June 22.—More than 300 enthusiastic San Diegans, headed by Don Stewart, acting Mayor; Lyman J. Gage, former Secretary of the Treasury; former Congressman William Kettener and other prominent citizens of the south greeted the arrival of the crack express steamer Yale on her first voyage to this point in more than five years.

Bringing a large crowd of notables of Los Angeles, the vessel docked at the municipal wharf promptly at 8 p.m. A brass band and a throng that cheered itself hoarse gave some indication of the genuineness of the welcome accorded the ship on the occasion of its inauguration of a new fast Los Angeles-San Diego steamship passenger service. Steam craft in the harbor sounded a rousing welcome on their whistles and for more than three hours crowds clambered over the gangway to inspect and praise the fine appointments of the vessel.

VOICE CITY'S WELCOME

Soon after docking the city and Chamber of Commerce officials of San Diego boarded the ship and proceeded to the observation saloon, where acting Mayor Stewart and E. B. Gould, president of the San Diego Chamber of Commerce, voiced the city's welcome to the steamship line and the officials on board and described the inauguration of the new service as "just another bond linking the two great cities of Southern California."

Prominent among those who greeted the Yale upon her arrival, in addition to acting Mayor Stewart and President Gould, were Rufus Choate, M. A. Graham and Joseph Senton, Jr., of the San Diego Board of Harbor Commissioners; Lyman J. Gage, William Kettener, Virgil Bruschi, City Councilman; Allan Wright, City Clerk; Chaplain E. W. Wood of Ft. Rosecrans and Ansel B. Clark, executive president of the San Diego Chamber of Commerce.

SHIP INSPECTED

On its voyage down to San Diego, the Yale carried more than 200 passengers. Of these, many were the invited guests of the Los Angeles Steamship Company. Prominent among those on the passenger list were Gen. L. H. Beach, head of the United States Army Engineer Corps and Mrs. Beach; Maj. E. D. Ardery, Army Engineer Corps and Mrs. Ardery; Mayor Cryer and Mrs. Cryer; John D. Fredericks, president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce; C. G. Milham, secretary of the All-Year Club; Maj. and Mrs. Charles F. Leeds, Edgar McKee and C. B. Kibele of the Los Angeles Harbor Commission; Capt. S. S. Sandberg, traffic manager of the port of Los Angeles; Fred L. Baker, president of the Los Angeles Steamship Company, and his daughter, Mrs. Earlda Baker Wallace, Milo A. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Farley, Ralph J. Chandler, general manager of the steamship line; S. P. Trood, publicity director and a score of others representing various newspapers and publications in the Southwest.

Following the formal ceremonies aboard the Yale the vessel was thrown open to the public for inspection and until nearly midnight San Diegans were boarding and walking about the palatial steamer.

The Yale will depart tomorrow at 9 a.m. for Los Angeles, bringing back its guests and a large number of passengers who booked reservations in advance.

IRISH GUNMEN KILL WILSON

taxi arrived at the field marshal's residence, which is at the corner of Eaton Place and Belgrave street, stopping there as workmen were repairing the street in front of his house.

Paying the chauffeur, Sir Henry walked towards his door, fifteen yards away, when men—some say two, others three and others four—started to close in on him.

Sir Henry looked around and saw the men approaching with service revolvers. Quickening his pace he reached his doorway and fumbled with his latchkey in the keyhole, when two aimed their revolvers at him. The workmen, noticing the action, started toward the gunmen, who turned their revolvers on them, but without uttering a word.

FACED HIS SLAYERS

Unable to open his door, Sir Henry started to walk briskly down the street to a side door entrance, when shots rang out. Both bullets missed him and Sir Henry turned and faced the aggressors, instinctively drawing his gold hilted dress sword, the gift of the French general staff after the war.

As he raised his sword from the scabbard, another volley was fired which struck him in the forehead and in one ankle. Blood gushed from his wounds as the tall, lanky marshal staggered, turned around and fell as his shattered leg crumpled up. He fell half across the curbstone without making a sound or an outcry. The assassins immediately fled down Belgrave street. Witnesses insist that one of the gunmen seemed slightly lame.

Lady Astor, who was visiting the marshal's home, heard the shots, but thought for a moment they were the exhaust of motors. The butler heard Sir Henry fumbling at the door and reached the vestibule in time to see his master fall. The butler's shouts alarmed Lady Wilson, who rushed out at once.

"Oh, Harry," she screamed as she raised her dying husband's head to her lap and attempted to stop the flood of blood with a handkerchief. Then she coolly directed and assisted in carrying the lifeless form inside.

GOLD ORE STOCK ADVANCES SHARPLY

The erratic price movements of Gold Ore have put that stock forward as one of the leaders of the mining list on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange. Yesterday this stock rebounded 3 cents from its recent slump, and closed at 9 cents. The other mines were relatively strong. Oatman United advancing 1¼ to 42½. Trading in general showed signs of a revival from the depressed market that ruled earlier in the week.

General Petroleum came back into the list of active traders and suffered considerably from the selling pressure exerted upon it, closing 1¾ off at 121. Union of California was inactive and sold unchanged at 175. National Pacific has quieted down after its recent flurry, and closed unchanged at 4½ cents. Southern California Edison common was firm at 103½.

Following are the closing quotations and sales as posted yesterday in the Stock Exchange Building:

BOND QUOTATIONS

Lower Rate Bulls Market

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 22.—The lower rediscount rate fixed after the close of yesterday's business by the local Federal reserve bank was the reason most generally advanced for the distinctly better tone of today's bond market.

Among the most noteworthy developments was the new high records established for four of the Liberty issues. The first 4s rose to $100.28 and the third 4¼s to $100.18, the fourth 4¼s to $100.30 and the first and second 4¼s to $100.50.

Several foreign issues were slightly higher also, notably the Sao Paulo 8s, French municipals and Tokio 5s, but British issues seemed to be adversely influenced by another drop in sterling exchange.

Gains of 1 to 2½ points were made by such rails as Chesapeake and Ohio convertible 5s, Atchison adjustment 4s, Northern Pacific 4s, St. Louis and San Francisco incomes, southern Pacific collateral 4s, Seaboard Consolidated 6s and Western Maryland 4s.

A decline of 2¾ points was made by Missouri, Kansas and Texas second 4s with reactions of 1 to 1½ points in Baltimore and Ohio 4s, Consolidated Gas of, Third-avenue adjustment 4s and Maryland Oil warrant 8s. Total sales (par value) aggregated $13,345,000.

New financing of the day was confined to several underwritings of minor proportions, these, however, being generally oversubscribed.

DAILY TRADE TALK

Retail Sales Set New Record; Century Chain Store Opens Today; Bond Market; Price Trends

BY CHAPIN HALL

The May Los Angeles retail trade report, issued yesterday by the Federal Reserve Bank, gave "white spot" statisticians some new and phenomenal figures to conjure with. Net sales in the six large local department stores increased 24 per cent over May, 1921, and 13.7 per cent over the preceding month. April sales set a new record when they showed a 5.8 per cent increase over the corresponding month last year but the May figures have more than quadrupled this ratio of increase.

National retail sales are practically unchanged from 1921, the April reserve statistics showing a decline of 6-10 of 1 per cent. Los Angeles sales have exceeded the national average since the Federal Reserve reports were first published in September, 1920, but never before, however, has the local retail business so greatly outdistanced the rest of the nation.

The 24 per cent increase over last year represents the influence of the two most important factors in the local situation, the continued growth of population and the undiminished buying power due to freedom from industrial depression. In addition, the size of the increase may be partly accounted for by the fact that May, 1921, was the beginning of the somewhat dull summer season Los Angeles experienced last year. May sales last year were slightly under normal, showing a 2 per cent decrease from the April, 1921, total. Ordinarily May is a better business month than April but the slight summer depression reversed the usual course of things last year.

The detailed figures of the Federal Reserve report follow:

Percentage increase of net sales during May, 1922, compared with net sales during same period last year	24.0
Percentage increase of net sales during May, 1922, compared with net sales during April, 1922	13.7
Percentage increase of net sales from January, 1922, to May, 1922, inclusive, compared with net sales during same period last year	4.9
Percentage increase of stocks at close of May, 1922, compared with stocks at close of same month last year	1.1
Percentage decrease of stocks at close of May, 1922, compared with stocks at close of previous month	9.9
Percentage of average stocks at close of each month this season to average monthly net sales during same period	439.9
Percentage outstanding orders at close of May, 1922, to total purchases during year, 1922	7.9

THE CENTURY STORE

The Sam Seelig Company opens its one hundredth store tomorrow, establishing a new chain record west of St. Louis and completing a campaign having the century mark for its goal five months ahead of the time fixed.

This concern has had a unique record since the first establishment was opened more than eleven years ago, and its remarkable development has been not only coincident with the growth of the city and environs, but affords an unusual display of administrative and executive acumen.

Between April, 1921, and March 1921, forty stores were opened. Then a definite "go get 'em" campaign was inaugurated calling for sixty additional stores before Dec. 1, 1922. This campaign will be completed tomorrow far ahead of schedule and without a vital change in the original plan. Over $1,500,000 have gone into the financing and fifty-eight of the sixty new stores are located in buildings designed and constructed for the company in locations selected through the real estate department of the organization recently incorporated for the purpose of handling the company leaseholds.

To consummate the century schedule three new stores will be opened tomorrow, No. 98 at No. 5015 York Boulevard; No. 99 at No. 435 Eagle Rock avenue, and No. 100 at the corner of Pasadena avenue and Avenue Fifty-nine. It is said by an official of the company that on an average Saturday fourteen carloads of food equal to 500,000 pounds are carried away by neighborhood purchasers. This involves 100,000 separate transactions, an average of five pounds of merchandise being sold to each purchaser.

Internal features of the Seelig organization include the payment of cash bonuses; vacations with pay, and free insurance on the lives of employees who have been in the service over three months.

Mr. Seelig said yesterday in discussing the opening of the hundredth store that the company looks upon its completion as only a step in the expansion program, plans for future development calling for the addition of a large number of new stores during the remainder of this year and in 1923 and 1924.

THE BOND MARKET

The firmness of the bond market in the face of the many reactions and irregularities of the stock market is one of the most striking features of the present financial situation. A continued decline in stock prices, such as occurred last week, has the effect of bringing slight recessions in the bond list, but for the most part the bond market has pursued the even tenor of its way unaffected by the variations of the stock and commodity exchanges.

Commenting on the present price trend in the investment market, John Moody, the well-known eastern analyst, has said: "The bond market is in a strong position and the presumption still is that it should go higher in the autumn unless political reverses prevent. Any rise of interest rates which is at all probable during the coming year should be insufficient in itself to depress bond prices. In fact, an upward movement of interest rates is almost always very slow during the first year or two of the movement; and it should not be forgotten that the bond market has maintained a broad upward trend of prices in spite of temporary tightness of money."

PRICE TRENDS

Los Angeles merchants lack unanimity in their diagnoses of the present price situation, but are agreed for the most part that there will be no general movement either up or down in the immediate future. Comparative stability has been established in most of the commodity markets during the present year and all the violent readjustments necessary to deflation appear to have been accomplished. There is still a strong market resistance to any advance in prices, the public flatly refusing to absorb any marked-up goods. So far, however, there has been no general tendency on the part of manufacturers to advance their prices and the retailers have escaped the squeeze that might result if they were caught between a bullish primary market and a bearish buying public.

CHANGE TRADING HOURS

Trading on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange will be shortened half an hour daily as the result of a ruling passed yesterday by the members of the local board. Fifteen minutes was cut off both the morning and afternoon sessions, which will now take place between the hours of 10:45 to 11:45 and 2 to 2.45. These were the old hours in force up to six months ago when the heavy Oatman activity necessitated an extension of the trading period. A proposal to hold only one session a day during the summer was rejected by the members.

MEXICAN PETROLEUM

Erratic Market Sends Popular Stock Over the Jumps; Statement by Doheny

The extraordinary fluctuations of Mexican Petroleum shares during the past few days have kept the thousands of Southern California investors in the big Doheny Company on the anxious seat. Trading has been active and the gross transactions handled by the brokerage houses with New York wire connections have been in large volume.

The strenuous activity of the stock which some alleged experts declare to be without rhyme or reason has been particularly hard on odd lot dealers, who have found themselves in a difficult position, and not always able to stand and deliver without embarrassment.

The earnings of the Mexican Pete Corporation at present are running on a level with those of the final quarter of last year, the best quarter of the year the company ever had, according to Edward L. Doheny, chairman of the board of directors.

Although production is at the high rate of 140,000 barrels a day, he said, it does not nearly measure the capacity of the completed wells. These wells, Mr. Doheny asserted could produce a total of 1,000,000 barrels daily if run at capacity. In Cicero Viejo on property owned jointly with the Mexican Eagle Oil Company, the company is taking 32,000 barrels a day from one well, has just completed and shut in another and is drilling a third. All production at present is coming from wells on the Northern border of Cerro Azul.

Early this month the company brought in a well known as Cierra Blanca No. 2, which is capable of producing over 100,000 barrels daily and which further proves the company's reserves, Mr. Doheny said. That well has been shut in for the present.

E. L. Doheny discussing Mexican Petroleum operations is quoted as saying in New York yesterday:

"Current assets December 31, last were $26,410,394 compared with current liabilities of $10,369,898. Cash and cash equivalents on hand then were equal to the entire bonded indebtedness of the company plus accounts and dividends payable. In other words our cash position is exceptionally strong and is being strengthened each month so the cash on hand is now sufficient to enable it to call whenever it desires all outstanding bond obligations on the terms provided in bond indenture.

"It is conservatively said that all our wells could produce at least 1,000,000 barrels of oil a day if worked to capacity. There never has been a time since our Cerro Azul No. 4 well came in in February, 1916 when we could not have taken at least 250,000 barrels a day. We took less because we did not have tank steamer facilities to move that much oil.

"During the year approximately $13,500,000 was expended on capital improvements in Mexico, the United States, South America and elsewhere, $8,770,000 having been spent in Mexico.

"We reiterate our assurance given to stockholders of Mexican Petroleum that the present and ensuing years hold great promises of increased business and profits."

In reference to the recent visit of officers of the company to the properties in Mexico Mr. Doheny said that the wells already drilled extend over and develop a vast area, and that each of these successful wells in a hitherto undeveloped region is a refutation of the false reports circulated by various "so called geologists and experts during the past year and prove the accuracy of predictions made by the management in the latest company report. In addition to the large amount of oil which has been and which yet will be delivered from the Cerro Azul Toteco pool there has been developed by wells already drilled by the Mexican Petroleum Company, an area which is at least ten times as great, and no doubt will be ten times as productive as the Cerro Azul Toteco pool."

BUSINESS NEWS

Gross domestic pipe line and tank farm crude oil stocks in the United States increased 8,723,000 barrels in May, according to figures compiled by the American Petroleum Institute. East of the Rockies, the increase was 6,937,000 barrels, and 1,786,000 in California. The daily average gross crude oil production of the United States decreased 13,400 barrels for the week ending June 17, totaling 1,445,700 barrels as compared with 1,459,100 barrels the preceding week, according to the weekly summary. California production decreased 10,000 barrels, totaling 350,000 barrels.

According to figures collected by the institute, the imports on petroleum (crude and refined oils) at the principal United States ports for the week ended June 17 totaled 2,505,100 barrels, a daily average of 357,872 barrels, compared with 2,896,212 barrels, a daily average of 413,745 barrels for the week ended June 10.

WHAT'S BEHIND ACTIVE STOCKS

American Can on Seven Per Cent Basis; Stock Has Interesting Range

In every bull market of the last twenty years Wall street has heard that an initial dividend on American Can Company common stock was in prospect. But this talk has never gone further than the rumor stage. The company earned 21.84 per cent on the common in 1917, and in the 10 years ended December 31, 1921, earned an average of 7.51 per cent on the average amount of stock outstanding.

The company has outstanding $41,223,300 of common stock, which is preceded by an equal amount of 7 per cent cumulative preferred and a funded debt of $9,655,500 in twenty years, a surplus of $24,916,000 has been built up and $11,302,000 has been placed in contingent funds. In 1912 all arrears on the preferred stock were paid up and 7 per cent has been paid regularly since that year.

Net assets applicable to the common, including intangible items which are not reported separately were $164.28 a share December 31, 1921. Property and investments are carried at $98,605,000. Range of stock since 1910; high 68½ in 1915, 1916 and 1919; low 6 7-8 in 1910; yesterday's close 46½.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 22.—The stock market was thrown into another spasm of excitement in the last half of today's otherwise uneventful session, the further meteoric rise of Mexican Petroleum adding to the demoralization of the shorts in that spectacular issue.

After an early reaction of 3½ points and a rally of 4 points, "Mexican Pete" suddenly became furiously active in the fourth hour with an extreme advance of 11 points to 1.86. From this level it fell back six points, but quickly rebounded, closing at 1.83, a net gain of 8¼ points and a total of almost forty points rise since last Saturday.

Pan-American "A" and "B" shares, California Petroleum, Royal Dutch, Houston, General Asphalt and several of the less important domestic oils were prominent at moderate gains but these were relinquished in large toward the end.

Much the same course was pursued by independent steels, motors, equipments and several of the chemicals and unclassified specialties but rails of the speculative as well as investment issues registered extreme gains of 1 to 2 points. The transportations included Southern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio and Chesapeake and Ohio.

Studebaker manifested a disposition to regain its loss of the previous day but the extensive turnover resulted in a net gain of little more than one point. Chandler was heavy and several of the automobile subsidies, including rubber tire issues, reflected constant pressure. Sales amounted to 100,000 shares.

Call loans opened at the recent minimum rate of 2 3-4 per cent but rose to 3 per cent at noon and 3½ per cent in the last hour. Aside from 30 to 90 days money which was obtainable at 3 3-4 per cent, the money market was in no perceptible degree influenced by the lowering of the rediscount rate by the local Federal reserve bank.

Although cables continued to stress better industrial conditions foreign exchange developed more reactionary tendencies. Sterling demand at 4.42 was off one per cent and at the lowest figure since the first week of the current month when this remittance was almost 10 cents higher. Declines of 4 to 7 points were made by French, Italian and Belgian bills. German marks were increasingly heavy and every important neutral center was lower by 3 to 7 points. The reversal also affecting Swiss, Spanish and Greek exchanges.

PRODUCE MARKET

Few changes in prices were noted yesterday although best sellers sold slightly lower at 7 to 9 cents per pound, and best cantaloupes sold 25 cents lower at $2.65 to $2.75 per crate. Cucumbers were about unchanged at 4 to 5 cents, 10 to 20 cents per pound, according to variety. Peaches were slightly lower, 10 to 12 cents for best stock, and plums also sold lower at 8 to 9 cents per pound.

The tomato market was about unchanged although many offerings show poor quality. The first shipments of Imperial valley peppers came on the market and sold at $3.50 to $4 per 20-lb. box. Onion market continues firm, although receipts from the Stockton district are becoming heavy. New potatoes are cheaper, 10 to 15 cents per lb. Summer squash is unchanged.

QUIET TENDENCY ON COTTON MARKET

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, June 22.—The tendency was lower in the cotton market, featureless trading in today's cotton market. There was enough absorption to meet pressure from local longs and the trade, which were again prepared for reports of the continued favorable weather in the belt. First prices were 5 to 12 points net lower and after in call the market proved the buying power of the trade by rallying 15 points from the low figure of the day. Final prices were unchanged to 4 points net lower.

Spot cotton was quiet, 10 points decline, 22.00 cents for middling upland.

Southern spot markets: Galveston, 22.15c, unchanged; New Orleans, 22.63c, 12 points decline; Savannah, 22.44, 4 points decline; Augusta, 22.38, unchanged; Memphis, 22.50c, unchanged; Houston, 22.95c, unchanged; Little Rock, 22.25, unchanged.

Speculative Activity in Grain Market

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, June 22.—An increase in speculative activity in the grain markets was reflected in a higher range of provisions. News was more favorable for the bulls. With short covering as a feature for the bulls, with short covering as offerings readily was attained. Profit-taking made a reaction from the best figures, but wheat gained ⅝ to 1⅞ cents, corn ⅜ to ¾, oats ⅝ to ¾ and rye ⅝ to 1 cent.

While the activity in coarse grains detracted somewhat from wheat the prospects of another hot wave over the Central West, West and Southwest, with limited offerings, for a time were sufficient to result in general short covering. They also bring in some fresh speculative support. Profit-taking and liquidation were responsible for the reaction from the top, but the undertone generally was strong.

The bulge to 115 for July permitted $1 per bushel to be paid at many loading stations for new wheat. Purchases were estimated at 500,000, the largest so far. Export demand was slow. Threshing returns from the Southwest were spotted with further complaints of deterioration from Nebraska and Clara City, Minn., reported black rust in spring wheat there. The latter had little effect on prices.

Corn and oats showed independent strength. Commission houses and local traders were good buyers on the dry-weather talk and forecast for another hot wave, and a large number of poor crop reports were received on oats. Inside interest increased and while there was free selling for profits on the bulge the undertone at the last was strong, especially on corn.

The country sold around 500,000 bushels corn on arrival on the bulge, the hedging of which had some effect on the market. Cash premiums advanced 3¾ cents discount under September. While difference cash houses bought July freely and sold September, changing over hedges. Receipts were fair with 221 cars of corn and 94 cars of oats. Shipping demand was generally slow. The country sold around 1,000,000 bushels oats for August-September at 1¼ cents under September. (Tack Chicago.

BANKER INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE WRECK

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN LUIS OBISPO, June 22.—Frank C. Mitchell, assistant to the president of the Bank of Italy, is in a San Luis Obispo hospital today with a fractured skull, suffered in an automobile accident here last night. Two San Jose doctors who rushed here to operate on Mitchell, said today, that he had a chance to recover, but may lose the sight of one eye.

With two companions, Louis Ferrari, attorney for the bank, and W. T. Shipsey, City Attorney of San Luis Obispo, Mitchell was driving from a steep hill just outside the city. The car left the pavement and dropped a few inches to the ground. A front wheel collapsed, causing the machine to turn over and roll down a slight incline. The machine was wrecked but Ferrari and Shipsey escaped with slight bruises.

Mitchell resides in San Jose where, in addition to his duties as assistant to the president, he is manager of the Bank of Italy's branch.

PRAISES BAR ASSOCIATIONS

Justice Shurtleff Addresses Local Attorneys

Urges All Lawyers to Join National Organization

Plans for Coming Convention Are Outlined

High praise for the California State Bar Association and for the Los Angeles County Bar Association was voiced by Associate Justice Charles A. Shurtleff of the California Supreme Court in his address before several hundred members of the Los Angeles bar at the City Club last evening. He urged every lawyer to identify himself with the American Bar Association and to lend his effort to make the annual convention of the national organization in San Francisco next August a success.

Justice Shurtleff said it was the ambition of the California bar to make this meeting the biggest ever held by the national association. Reservations already made, he said, indicate that over 2000 delegates will be in attendance. The largest previous attendance was in Cincinnati last year, when 1200 delegates were present.

NOTABLES TO SPEAK

Following Justice Shurtleff's address, Prof. Maurice E. Harrison, dean of the Hastings College of Law of San Francisco, discussed the program of the convention and disclosed that among the principal speakers will be Vice-President Coolidge of the United States; Chief Justice William H. Taft, of the United States Supreme Court; John W. Davis, former solicitor-general of the State Department, and former Ambassador to Great Britain; Lord Shaw of the English Law Lords of Appeal; M. Henri Aubepin, batonnier of the Paris bar, and probably Chief Justice Riddell of the Supreme Court of Canada.

Justice Shurtleff sketched the growth of bar associations in this State and expressed gratification at the progress made by the Los Angeles bar. He also paid an amiable compliment to the local association for its efforts in obtaining the 1922 convention of the American Bar Association for California, singling out for special mention Bradner W. Lee, past president of the California Bar Association.

INCREASE IN ACTIVITY

"During the last decade there has been a marked increased activity and interest in the bar associations in the States west of the Mississippi," said Judge Shurtleff. "In our own State, where we had very few bar associations five years ago—and they were only in the larger cities and counties, such as Los Angeles, San Diego, Alameda, San Francisco, Sacramento and Fresno—we now find that in nearly every county there is an organized association co-operating with other associations in the State, and taking a deep interest in all things having for their object the enforcement of the laws and the uplifting of the legal profession both in ability and in its moral aspect."

The speaker again referred to the work of Los Angeles in this connection when he said:

"It was the supreme interest of the late Judge Curtis Lindley, of Mr. Hunsaker of your bar and other lawyers of like standing in the work of the bar associations which brought about the organization of the California State Bar Association. During the early history of the State Association, while it at all times made a splendid record for itself, the progress upward was small. But in recent years it has become a strong factor in legal affairs in California, its membership has increased and its achievements have been highly beneficial to the State.

LAUDS ASSOCIATION

"To the State Bar Association is largely due the credit for the legislation which created the State Board of Bar Examiners," Justice Shurtleff continued. "Notwithstanding that I was a member of that board for upward of a year and a half, I think I can say with perfect propriety that its work has raised the standard of the profession from the standpoint of learning as well as ethically.

"While exhaustive, the examinations are not unjustly severe and any man or woman who successfully passes them is thoroughly fit to enter upon the practice of the law. The examinations take a wide range and include substantive and procedural questions of the law as well as ethical.

"It was the activities of the State Bar Association that brought about the creation of new divisions of the Appellate Court in the First and Second districts, thereby speeding the disposal of litigative matters.

MEMBERSHIP NEEDED

"The American Bar Association, the jurisdiction of which comprehends every State in the Union, was organized in 1878, before I was admitted to the bar. I have been practicing upward of forty years and yet we heard but little in the Pacific States concerning the national body until the organization of our State association. But now the California Bar Association is one of the most influential agencies in legal and law constructive matters in the United States.

"The membership of the American Bar Association at the present time is 15,000. There are approximately 27,000 lawyers west of the Mississippi, and yet on the first of last January the number of lawyers residing west of the Mississippi who were members of the national association was less than 3000.

"In California on the first of this year we had 5500 lawyers, a very small proportion of whom were members of the national association. Our State has the sixth largest bar in the Union. We follow Massachusetts.

URGED TO JOIN

"When those who had charge of the crusade to obtain the 1922 meeting of the American Bar Association for California attended the national convention in Cincinnati, their efforts were met with the proposition that our membership in the national organization was very small. And those from California made the implied, if not direct, promise to increase our membership.

"And my object here this evening is to urge every lawyer in the State to identify himself with the national association. To be a member of it at once gives him a standing. It places him within easy reach of valuable legal literature. The journal issued by the national association is one of the best of its kind issued anywhere in the world.

"It is the ambition of the California bar to make the coming meeting in August the largest ever held by the national organization. I am told by Mr. Hodgehead, chairman of the executive committee on arrangements, that reservations already made indicate this ambition will be realized.

PLANS OUTLINED

"Let me urge every one of you to attend and help to make it the success it should be."

Plans for the part which the Los Angeles Bar Association will have in aiding San Francisco in entertaining the delegates of the national convention were outlined by Bradner W. Lee. A motion, moved by Mr. Lee and adopted by the association, provides that the local organization shall assist San Francisco in entertaining delegates. Money for this entertainment is to be raised by subscription. A part of this money is to be spent locally.

A report of the California Bar Association was read to those present. This report requests that a special meeting of the members of the State association be called to meet with the judges of the city at the Los Angeles Courthouse in the near future. The meeting is called for the purpose of discussing the referendum on the so-called "Lawyers' Bill."

RAIL DISMEMBERMENT HEARING ASSURED

INTERSTATE BODY TO HOLD MEETING IN BAY CITY SOON

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22. — Assurances have been received here that the Interstate Commerce Commission will hold hearings on the question of dismemberment of the Southern Pacific and Central Pacific railroad systems, Robert N. Lynch, vice-president, and general manager of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, told traffic men at a meeting today.

The meeting, attended by representatives of large shippers of San Francisco, went on record as unalterably opposed to any change in the present operation of the Central Pacific by the Southern Pacific organization.

Mr. Lynch said the Interstate Commerce Commission had given assurance of hearings in answer to telegrams sent by the Statewide committee formed to oppose the separation. He added: "The possible dismemberment constitutes one of the greatest threats against the vital interests of Northern and Central California and of the whole Pacific Coast."

Seth Mann, chairman of the traffic bureau of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, stated that he had no brief for the Southern Pacific, Central Pacific, or Union Pacific and declared the wish of the traffic men present was that the public interest be the only factor served.

SLEEPING DRIVER IS UNINJURED IN WRECK

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, June 22.—When B. H. Harmon of 11 South Marengo avenue fell asleep at the wheel of his roadster coming down the Colorado-street hill in front of the Elks' Club this morning, the car mounted the sidewalk and tried to wrap itself around a trolley pole.

Patrolman Hamilton, who saw the accident, sent in a call for an ambulance before investigating, thinking the driver must be killed or badly hurt. But when the officer came up he found Mr. Harmon gazing at the wreck, without a scratch. The front license plate was found on the driver's seat. It came through the windshield, showering Mr. Harmon with glass.

GUSTAFSON WILLING TO RUN FOR SENATE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LINCOLN (Neb.) June 22.—C. H. Gustafson of Lincoln today filed his acceptance to the filing made by his friends in placing his name on the ballot for the nomination as a Republican candidate for the United States Senate.

Gustafson will be opposed in the primary by A. W. Jeffers, R. B. Howell, John A. Yeaser of Omaha, Frank John of Grand Island, and Clarence A. Davis of Holdredge.

BANKS ARE MERGED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) June 22.—The strongest banking institution of the Southwest has been created by the merger of the Valley Bank with the Gila Valley Bank and Trust Company. The combined bank will have assets of $10,000,000, a capital and surplus of $1,000,000, and about 15,000 depositors. The Valley Bank has its main banking house in Phoenix and a branch in Ajo. Its name will be retained and there will be addition of branches at Globe, Miami, Clifton, Morenci, Safford, Wilkelman, Hayden and Ray.

STEWART CASE DIARY BARES MINISTER-BIGAMIST'S LIFE

Amazing Story is Uncovered in Record Written by Woman Jailed With Reformer Arrested Here As Wholesale Swindler of Plural Wives

Astounding features of the amazing Donald D. Stewart embezzlement and bigamy case and the strange life of Mrs. Ethel Turner Osbaldeston Stewart with his other wives are:

The discovery of Mrs. Osbaldeston Stewart's diary covering a period of two and one-half years beginning with when she first met the former pastor and reformer and telling of their life together.

A character analysis of Stewart written by the woman who remained true even to the end.

The confession by Stewart that he married four or five women and is unable to name his legal wife.

Discovery by Pinkerton detectives that Stewart probably has many more wives than have so far figured in the investigation.

A nation-wide search by the authorities for the other wives.

The attempt by the police to identify a number of photographs of women found in Stewart's effects and believed to be the missing wives.

The discovery by the authorities of an affidavit signed by Mrs. Ethel Turner Osbaldeston Stewart charging her husband with bigamy.

The declaration by Stewart's faithful wife in jail with him here that she will stand by him to the end.

A diary written in a cheap notebook by Mrs. Ethel Turner Osbaldeston, one of the three women whom Donald D. Stewart is charged with marrying bigamously, revealed yesterday a new version of an old, old story—the story of a woman's undying love, a love which survived despite heartaches, for a man who through his own iniquities has drawn her into the mire of despair.

Mrs. Osbaldeston is being held at Central Station on a charge of conspiracy to embezzle. Stewart is detained on charges of bigamy and embezzlement and is said to have been assisted by Mrs. Osbaldeston. Both are awaiting extradition to one of four eastern cities, all of which demand the delivery of the prisoners. They were arrested in Sierra Madre last Tuesday night by Assistant Supt. E. C. Driggs of the Pinkerton Detectives.

The former minister, one a well-known reformer and temperance advocate and who occupied many pulpits throughout the country, has married five women, three of them bigamously, according to the mass of evidence being heaped against him. Another woman, Mrs. Maude Hendricks of Hayward, Cal., is asserted to have committed suicide because of her love for him. That was in December, 1914.

But of all of his known love affairs with the five women whom he married—and police from coast to coast are searching for other women he is believed to have married bigamously — the most intense chapter of the former minister's life has been written by Mrs. Osbaldeston. The little book was found among her possessions in the house where she was posing as Stewart's sister and is guarded by Asst. Supt. Driggs as the most damaging piece of evidence against Stewart.

Boldly it unveils her love for the man. It tears the shroud of illusion from his life, laying bare his asserted marriage to another woman whom he pretended was his sister. It tells of asserted attempts to swindle other women, of addiction to drugs, of lies which she so earnestly believed as the truth, of how he deserted her, forsook her for newer women acquaintances.

In the face of all these bitter disappointments, many of which inflicted untold mental tortures upon her, she loved him just the same, forgave him, heaped affection upon him.

The telltale diary begins with the date of Nov. 16, 1919.

"I first met D. D. S. (Stewart) as I was leaving St. Mary's Hospital at 5 p.m.," she wrote, "while waiting for a long delayed car and we started to talk."

INTRODUCED TO "SISTER"

On through the months their acquaintance was kindled. She met "Mary," who she was told was Stewart's sister. "Mary" was Mary Barbara James, Stewart's second wife, and who was married to him on Nov. 3, 1918, in Wilmington, Del. Prior to then he had been divorced by his first wife, Mrs. Agnes Browne, who resides with his three children in Dundee Lake, N. J. He married his first wife under the name of Robert Allan McD. Browne.

Two months passed. Then under the date of January, 1920, Mrs. Osbaldeston wrote:

"We become engaged"—just a brief entry, but to her the message meant a wealth of happiness.

She knew every intimate detail of Stewart's business associates and his transactions. She wrote about them. She resigned her position as nurse to prepare for the wedding.

"I resign my position to be married to Donald, and at the same time take position of housekeeper and nurse to one of my patients so as to produce an income to help Don and I out," the diary states.

GAVE SAVINGS TO STEWART

During the setting down of her notes prior to the wedding day she seemed to have revelled in her anticipations of forthcoming happiness. Then into her heart's story creeps a feeling of despondency. The months dragged on, she gave up her home and continued to hand her savings to Donald to bank on their coming happiness.

"Am so depressed and ill at loss of my home and general lonesomeness," she wrote under the date of March 1, 1920, "that D. takes me down for license and we are married at 5:30 the same evening."

But marital contentment was not to be hers yet, her diary tells, for "Donald" visited her later in the month and warned her their marriage must be kept secret "for business occasions."

She became nervous and suffered a breakdown. Then he sold all her furniture—and shortly after this the terrible awakening came with the finding of a letter signed "as ever, your wife Mary,"—Mary, the woman she had been told was his sister. She accused him of bigamy, but he laughed, gave her the most convincing argument and she believed him when he told her Mary was actually the widow of his deceased brother "Billy," and that she had signed the letter that way in fun. And her devoted love for Donald returned.

GOT MONEY FROM WOMAN

At this point in the diary Mrs. Osbaldeston reveals a backhanded attempt of "Mary's" to obtain a large sum of money from a woman whose name is mentioned but which is withheld by the Pinkerton detectives pending further investigation into the embezzlement element of Stewart's case. Mary, the diary relates, and Stewart actually visited the woman and impelled her to pawn her diamonds to pay them $1000. Then the victim

Stewart up to November, 1921, and what follows herewith is held as evidence by local detectives for the Boston authorities who will attempt to extradite her. Throughout the diary its author refers to certain persons and locations by initial letters. Following is a glossary of the abbreviations:

D. D. S.—Rev. Donald D. Stewart.
Mary S.—Mary Barbara James.
E. O.—East Orange, N. J.
Mrs. ——.—A woman, whose name is withheld, whom Stewart is said to have defrauded out of various sums of money.
Mrs. M—the same woman.
M.—Mary Barbara James.
H. T. H.—One of Stewart's former friends.
M. B. S.—Mary Barbara James.
B.—Richard Bogstahl.
Mrs. R.—At whose house Stewart once lived.
Mrs. W.—Mrs. Whittaker.
D.—Rev. Donald D. Stewart.

TEXT OF DIARY

NOV. 16, 1919—First met D. D. S. as I was leaving St. Mary's Hospital at 5 p.m. While waiting for a long-delayed car we started to talk. He was living at 11 Washington street, Newark, then.

DEC. 27, 1919—Mary and Don move into N. Y. apt. from Roths—194 Central Ave. Mary S. had come from Wilmington, Del., to keep house for him Nov. 30, 1919, from people named Jennie Whittaker.

MONTH JAN., 1920—D. D. S. stops work at Central Dye Works Plum Lane (see Dr. Victor)—some time during this month. We become engaged—and on account of quarrel Mary leaves during end of month and first goes to Roths for a few days, then back to Wilmington?

MONTH FEB., 1920—D. D. S. starts business transactions with Mr. Roth—Shepard Auto Supply Co. 391 Cent'l Ave. (home 194 Centl. Ave.) He agrees to learn business and manage affairs for Roths without compensation other than board and room. At the same time shares to the value of $50.00 a week were to be placed in his name until Dec. 1920 when he was to go in on salary $50.00 a week and continue shares of equal value.

FEB. 21—I resign my position to be married to Donald. And at the same time take position of housekeeper and nurse to one of my patients so as to produce an income to help Don and I out until his salary commences in Dec.

FEB. 28—Break up our N. Y. home at 135 St. Send some things for D. D. S. to keep for our home in the Fall—(to 194 Centl Ave.) sold others.

MARCH 1—I start my new work and D. D. S. goes to 194 Centl ave. to live, having room and board for services at Shepard Auto Supply.

MARCH 5—I discover Mary has returned and was operated on by Dr. Edward Fitzpatrick at the Presbyterian Hospital, Newark (574 Warren St., Roseville, N. Y.)

MARCH 6—Am so depressed and

NEW NOMINATIONS MADE DAILY IN PRIZE CONTEST

"Times" $70,000 Offer Causes Rush of Entries to Try to Win Wonder Home or Auto

Every day new nominations are added to the roster of those who will compete in The Times $70,000 prize campaign. The great prize distribution seems to excite enthusiasm throughout the city and surrounding territory. Instead of interest abating after the first few days of the campaign, it is steadily increasing.

The Times campaign has made a solid hit everywhere. Those who wanted to take time to study the campaign carefully before sending in their nominations, have found that this great $70,000 campaign offers the most equitable opportunity of obtaining a rich reward that has ever been made in the West, and the names of men and women continue to arrive every day to be placed on the list of nominations.

RACE STARTING

The race is just starting. It lasts until September 2. In the intervening weeks more than $70,000 in wonderful prizes will be acquired by a simple process of getting votes. The two first prizes are homes. One a charming house of the domestic Latin type of architecture, which will be built especially for the Los Angeles $70,000 prize campaign in Wilshire Crest. This is one of the new high-ground districts fronting on Wilshire Boulevard that is to become one of the most exclusive residence sections in Los Angeles. The scenic beauty of the location, from which a magnificent view of the Sierra Madre range is had, together with its irregular formation, makes it unusually desirable for homesites.

The house to be built in Wilshire Crest will cost $10,500 and will be built by Meyer & Holler (Milwaukee Building Company,) who have built some of the best homes in Los Angeles.

The architect who designed the house promises many new and desirable features. All the details have not yet been perfected, but soon will be, when The Times will publish full information for the benefit of candidates, their friends, and The Times legion of admirers. However, sufficient progress has been made to justify the prediction that a picture of this perfect home-to-be, with a glimpse of the living-room, will be published in a double-page advertisement of the Sunday Times.

TO COST $8000

The other house will cost $8000—although the ambitions of the architect and the enthusiasm of the Western Construction Company to make this Times campaign bungalow the keystone in the arch of their already enviable reputation as builders of beautiful houses threaten to carry the cost of the bungalow far beyond the original price set.

West Hollywood Tract, for which Martin T. Hildinger Company is the selling agent, was chosen as the site for The Times $8000 bungalow. Lying as it does on the lowest slope of the beautiful Hollywood hills, from which is had a sweeping view of Wilshire Boulevard district, and the blue San Bernardines, it offers a wonderful setting for a truly beautiful home.

The bungalow will be Spanish in design, and every detail within and without will be in keeping with its individual character. It will be the best of old Spain, plus the most modern and improved ideas in successful American home-planning.

TO DESCRIBE HOMES

The Sunday issue of the Los Angeles Times will carry a full description of the house in its news columns, as well as a drawing of its floor-plan and exterior. Everything—no importance has been overlooked upon, from its solid concrete foundation and sturdy walls, to the wrought iron lamps and grill-work that will add to its distinctive character.

Beverly Hills Nursery will have charge of the landscaping of the grounds, and have promised some unusual features. These capable nurserymen are enthusiastic over the advantages offered by the unusually rich and fertile soil which

Profits From Trucks Fail to Arrive

Miss Natalie Avery

PROFITS in the trucking business seemed attractive to Miss Natalie Avery, graduate of Manual Arts High School, it was shown by testimony yesterday in Justice Hanby's court during the hearing of charges against R. I. Bennett, who is said to have induced Miss Avery to invest a legacy of several thousand dollars in his business. He was accused especially of the embezzlement of $500 from the young woman, but the court held him to answer for embezzlement, larceny by trick and device and obtaining money under false pretenses.

Miss Avery told on the stand of meeting the defendant in a local cafe shortly after her graduation. She said he remarked about the profits in the trucking business, and said if she had $1000 to invest she could make good money out of it. She was induced, she said, to invest $3700 in the business, mainly for the first payment on two heavy trucks.

It was charged by Dep. Dist. Atty. Costello that not all of $3600, the sum intended for payment on the trucks, was so paid. Later, testimony indicated, Bennett asked her for $500 more and obtained it, but did not apply it to the purpose for which it was obtained, it was charged.

The defendant stated that he had not intended to commit any offense, and would have been able to keep up his business if he had not been arrested.

The court reduced the bail from $5000 to $2500, and the defendant made arrangements to provide for his release.

Commissioner Suggests More Fishing Space

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA MONICA, June 22.—Commissioner William H. Carter today announced to the board members that soon it will be necessary to extend the municipal pier some 600 feet further into the ocean if it is to accommodate the thousands of Izaak Waltons, who fish from it daily.

"We will have to extend the pier," said Commissioner Carter. "If it is to fulfill the purposes for which it was constructed. It was built for fishing purposes, and today it is so crowded that some times as many as 1000 people are turned away."

Mr. Carter suggested that steps be taken to extend the pier 1000 feet seaward, giving it a total length of 2600 feet, with wings of 400 feet each, extending at right angles. This would provide fishing space for 6000 fishermen, allowing two feet for each angler.

TRIES TO DIE

Life to 24-year-old Mrs. Louisa Comiso became valueless yesterday, when she lost a jeweled pendant, given to her by a friend. She swallowed a quantity of poison last night in her home at 534 East Pico street. Her husband brought her to the Receiving Hospital in time to save her life.

DESERT RAT CANNOT PAY FOR WHISKY

"Barefoot Geologist" Who Saved Schwab in Trouble at Oatman

By Robert S. Doman
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

OATMAN, June 22.—One-eyed Steve Soubic, known throughout the Oatman district as "the barefoot geologist," is in the Oatman jail charged with nonpayment of his annual assessment on a liquor bill which it is charged Steve contracted back in 1913.

Lawyer V. P. Lucas has charge of Steve's case and expects to have his client out by tomorrow morning on a writ of habeas corpus. Lucas asserts that Steve was unlawfully imprisoned, that the statute of limitations and the Volstead Act make saloon bills uncollectable, that Steve was never known to accept a drink if he thought he would have to pay for it and that therefore it was not likely that his client would contract a bar bill.

"Round Mountain" Scotty, proprietor of "the Highgrader's Cafe" of Oatman insists, however, that Steve signed an agreement in 1917 to pay $5 a years on his old bar bill until the full amount of $35 was paid. All Oatman is discussing the case in low tones.

Steve Soubic is the same old desert rat who saved Charles Schwab and a party of Pittsfriends left Emigrant Springs near Skidoo, Cal., on the edge of Death Valley. When found by Steve they had wandered to Horn Rock, seven miles north of Daylight Springs on the Nevada frontier. The Schwab party was off the road and had become bewildered by a sand storm which so twisted them around that they had lost all sense of direction.

Moreover, the Schwab party had run out of food and drinking water. They had not eaten for forty-eight hours.

PROGRAM FEATURES POLICEMAN-POET

Cyrus C. Johnson, former poet laureate of the Los Angeles police department, will read a number of his poems to members of the Longer Life League and their friends tonight in the Tajo Building. Mr. Johnson will appear on the program in the place of ex-Congressman M. W. Howard, leading man of the Cosmopolitan Film Company, who had been billed to give a dramatic reading from his novel, "Peggy Ware."

Mr. Howard is taking the leading part in "The Bishop of the Ozarks," another one of his novels, which is now being filmed by the Cosmopolitan company. His work in connection with this picture prevented his appearance before the Longer Life League tonight, as announced.

J'EVER HEAR THIS?

BY STRICKLAND GILLILAN

NEARLY RIGHT

"What," asked the sarcastic professor of a class that seemed to be undergoing a period of especial stupidity, "is a lobster?"

There was a dead silence, broken at length by the stammering voice of the one student of that stupid class who had always distinguished himself for particular and dependable denseness.

"A lobster," he said, "is a kind of a red fish."

"Well," said the professor, with a mock-judicial air, "outside the fact that it isn't a fish and isn't red, you have it just exactly right!"

BUILDING BOOM SHOWN IN CITY

Department Given More Employees in Budget

Permits Total 4000 Month, Says Inspector

Extra Men Needed on Street Work, Engineer States

On account of the tremendous increase in the number of building permits issued, the budget committee yesterday approved of increasing the number of employees in the city building department during the next fiscal year, adding four clerks, one stenographer, eight building inspectors, and eight plumbing inspectors to the department at an annual expense of $40,000.

Acting Chief Building Inspector Welch said that permits were now totalling about 4000 a month and that there was every indication that this number would increase. Several inspectors, he said, had at times 1000 jobs under their supervision and he said that the inspectors were consequently far behind in their work and that building was being delayed.

MORE STREET WORK

City Engineer Griffin urgently asked for twenty-nine more men in his department, because of the great increase in street improvement work which he said was far behind because of lack of men. He asked for fourteen more draftmen and fifteen additional engineers, and pleaded for higher salaries for the employees of his department so that these men could be retained in the city service. He said that last year 168 men in the engineering department left the city service to accept positions at larger salaries. The request for more men was granted.

The Budget Committee of the City Council is still struggling to bring the city's expenditures during the fiscal year beginning July 1 within the municipality's expected income from taxes, licenses, police court fines and other sources. The committee must reduce the expenditures next year $467,399 to keep within estimated receipts.

TOTAD REDUCED

When the estimates were first submitted they called for the expenditure next year of $12,078,794. The committee cut this figure $1,500,000, and then increased the police department 200 men and provided for new equipment, calling for a total increased expenditure of $288,542. The engineering department was increased $31,100, and these and other increases in salaries and number of employees amounted to a total of $354,113, leaving the budget with a deficit of $467,299, to meet which will necessitate reductions in appropriations already tentatively agreed upon. The new budget will be approved before July 1, although the city tax levy for the next fiscal year cannot be fixed until about August 1.

MANY ENTRIES FOR CONTEST

characterizes the whole of West Hollywood tract. "It is an admirable combination rarely found. All that is required is thoughtful planning, and careful planting—the rich soil of West Hollywood Tract, the dewy evenings, plentiful water supply, and the golden sunshine of our own Southland will complete the picture.

Local automobile dealers report that quite a number of candidates have also visited their establishments to view the prize automobiles that are included in The Times selection of gifts. Twenty of the best known cars are to be given away free in this campaign, every one of which has cost more than $1000. Many are much higher in value—for instance the $2680 Stearns-Knight, the $1800 Chandler, the $1975 Westcott.

MANY CALLERS

Callers at the campaign office continued in a steady stream yesterday, and the staff was kept busy supplying candidates with receipt books, and answering the many questions that are propounded. It is interesting to note the different points on which candidates wish to be informed. For example:

Question: How are votes obtained that will win the prizes?

Answer: By getting paid-in-advance subscriptions to the Los Angeles Times.

Q.: Will the bungalow and the house, and the automobiles be awarded according to districts?

A.: No. The two houses, and the eight prize automobiles—Lincoln, Marmon, National, Stearns-Knight, Paige, Lexington Thoroughbred, Kissel and Oldsmobile—will be awarded to the ten highest candidates, regardless of division or district. Twelve additional cars will be given in the three divisions—four in each.

Q.: Then why are there districts?

A.: For the distribution of the other prizes—the twenty diamond rings, twenty talking machines, and twenty gold watches. These are to be given the three highest candidates after the two homes and the eight automobile winners are decided and eliminated.

Q.: Am I limited to the district in which I am entered in getting subscriptions?

WORLD IS FIELD

A.: No. The world is your field. You can get subscriptions wherever you choose.

Q.: For what length of time can subscriptions be accepted?

A.: Three months is the smallest subscription that can be taken, and three years the largest.

Q.: Must all subscriptions be paid in advance?

A.: Yes. This is necessary because of the high value of the prize list. The paid-in-advance plan also puts all candidates on the same basis, as it assures that all subscriptions will be bona fide.

Q.: When will the campaign end?

A.: The campaign is short and sweet. It lasts only until September 2.

Q.: What is a new subscriber?

A.: A new subscriber is anyone who was not taking The Times at the time this campaign was announced. All others are old subscribers. A new subscription must constitute a gain in circulation of The Times by one paper.

ANYONE MAY WIN

Q.: Is it possible for candidates living outside of Los Angeles to win either of the two houses?

A.: Most assuredly. Whomever gets the highest number of votes gets the $16,500 Wilshire Crest home; whoever gets the next highest number of votes will get the $8000 Spanish bungalow.

Q.: Why are some automobiles confined to certain divisions?

A.: In order to make certain that some automobiles will be won in all parts of the territory.

That the energetic men and women in Los Angeles and the surrounding territory are thoroughly alive to the opportunity of sharing in the distribution of many valuable prizes, is shown by the many nominations coming in from all sections. Candidates apparently realize the advantage of getting an early start. First subscription coupons, accompanied by remittances, are also beginning to show up in greater numbers.

BLANK WORTH VOTES

The nomination blank is worth 2000 votes. When the first subscription is secured it will count 10,000 extra votes in addition to the regular votes allowed on each subscription. In this way it is possible to start the race with more than 12,000 votes to one's credit.

The large number of nominations being received indicates that it will be easier to win than if only a few entered, because the votes will be more evenly divided. The more the merrier.

The campaign is just in its infancy. By entering now the names can be published in the first list which will appear within a few days.

Be sure that your name is enrolled among the prize seekers. Full details of The Times' remarkable offer are given in a page advertisement elsewhere in this paper. On that page appears a nomination blank. Fill it out and mail or bring it in to campaign headquarters, second floor of the Times Building, and you will be supplied with everything necessary to start the campaign for votes and a prize.

The campaign office is open from 8:30 a.m. to 8 p.m.

MEET .. FEMININE .. BANK .. HEAD

First Woman to Hold Manager's Job on Coast

Miss Myrtle H. Cooper

EXTRICATING herself from a pile of congratulatory telegrams, Miss Myrtle H. Cooper, the first feminine bank manager to be appointed on the Pacific Coast, will take up her new duties tomorrow as chief of the Citizens' Trust and Savings Bank's branch at 807 South Vermont avenue.

A reception in her honor, lasting from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., will be the order of the day. Among those who will call to greet the woman banker will be Mayor and Mrs. Cryer, Capt. John D. Fredericks, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. Grantland S. Long, president of the Ebell Club; Mrs. Henry T. Wright, retiring president of the Woman's Club of Hollywood.

Miss Cooper came to the local bank five years ago, after receiving her education in this State and filling several positions in the Bay district. For a time she had charge of the bank's credit bureau, and recently she easily won the booster campaign conducted by the bank.

The General Federation of Women's Clubs, the League of Women Voters, the American Association of University Women, and the Association of Bank Women of New York were among the organizations sending telegrams of congratulation yesterday.

SEEIN' THINGS

[Why not share your chuckle with others? When you see something unusual, drop a note about it to the Smile Editor of The Times. Then we can all smile.]

M. G. A. is much excited over seeing in Broadway yesterday a man in skirts promenading with a leidy in pants! Scotch kilts and hiking breeches they were, "but, anyway, it looked funny," opines M. G. A. Just a preview of Broadway in 1933. Boy, page Percy Bronson and Winnie Baldwin.

G. A. D. of Norwalk is not what her initials would imply. In fact, she is so high brow she reads biographies. From one such tome she culled this: "Later I left India, where I was born at the age of 3½ years." But then, G. A. D., one matures so rapidly in the tropics. You'd be surprised!

* * *

C. G. R. wants us to whittle a wheeze out of this ad from a Santa Monica paper: "Wanted—Maid to cook permanently for one person:." Would suggest cooking just a little of her at a time, if only one person is to be served.

* * *

R. E. F. of Redlands makes the San Bernardino paper immortal with this, clipped from a story describing "cute little towels for little folks:" "They are for babies with fancy borders picturing animals." So appropriate for bare babies, the little dears!

Now approach indignant E. T. B. and S. W. L. bearing a headline from The Times, over an article describing the Lecoints memorial lectures at the U. of C., which declares: "All Speakers Have Gained Famine in Their Fields." Infamous! They should have more pay!

Boy Scout Head Admits Leaving Fire Ungarded

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PASADENA, June 22.—William Casselberry of Long Beach, scoutmaster of a troop of Boy Scouts, pleaded guilty and paid a $50 fine today when arraigned before Judge B. C. Strang on a charge of leaving camp fires unguarded. Forest Ranger J. C. Cox, who arrested Casselberry June 18, told the court he waited for nearly an hour at the Boy Scout camp for the return of the scoutmaster and scouts.

Casselberry explained he had left four boys at the camp to watch the fire, but they wandered away as soon as his back was turned, leaving the fires still burning. In the meantime he took six Scouts on a hike.

BANK GUARD BATTLES SHELL-SHOCKED HERO

Attracting scores of people to the scene, a fight was staged in the Hellman Bank, Sixth and Main streets, last night between W. J. Bunker, bank guard, and Chester DeVine, aged 27 years, said to be an ex-soldier. DeVine was brought to the Receiving Hospital for treatment and later booked at the City Jail on a charge of being drunk. It is asserted that DeVine is a victim of shell shock, and while under the influence of intoxicants, became disorderly.

The OHIO Vacuum Cleaner

Now Selling at $39.75

The experience of over 400,000 women proves that a house of ordinary size can be kept clean without the help of a maid, with an OHIO Vacuum Cleaner.

Like the present day models of motor cars, typewriters and every other mechanical device, the OHIO Electric Vacuum Cleaner is a product of evolution, that has eliminated false ideas and defects of earlier cleaners. By employing high suction power alone to take out dust and dirt, the OHIO leaves its slow revolving brush only the task of picking up threads, lint, hair, paper and other litter, without any wear or friction on the surface over which it travels. At this low price—$39.75, the OHIO is a remarkable value.

WIRELESS WONDERS

They are talking about a wireless honeymoon, but how do they get that way? Who wants a radio bride? She must at least be radiant.

CUTTING THE MELON

New York received 1200 cars of cantaloupes in three days and the price of some fell to $1.50 a crate. It wouldn't be safe for the Imperial Valley to ship its output to the big city at one swoop. It should be spread over the country.

WHOM DID HE MEAN?

Secretary Hughes told an audience that the press sometimes fails in its civic responsibilities in matters of international moment. It became tragic when the weight of a newspaper was used to break the amity of nations. Wonder if William Randolph's ear was burning about that time?

THERE IS NO PEACE

De Valera declines to be reconciled. He says that, while it seems true that the Irish voted for peace, it is not peace they want. They were under duress. It begins to look as if there could be no peace in the room with De Valera. If he had everything he asked for he would hate himself because he couldn't think of more.

PERILS OF THE HOUR

A Presbyterian preacher says that the modern flapper ranges through the human jungle like a man-eating tigress and her progress awakens the beast that lurks in the breast of man. If the dominie is right it would seem unsafe for the flapper to be at large. Either that or the men folks should stay behind closed doors and pray for help.

UNPALATABLE

In Chicago a man who was on his way to a reconciliation with his wife, from whom he had been estranged for years, was held up by bandits in front of her home. He was so badly beaten and terrified that his false teeth were driven down his throat and he was later found strangled to death. Thus showing that the way of the peacemaker is fraught with danger. If he had steadfastly kept away from his wife he might be alive today.

COWS FOR WOMEN

In Zululand it is still possible for a man to obtain as many wives as he wishes at the rate of six cows for one girl. Payment may be made on the installment plan, but a bargain must stick. If the bridegroom makes his pledge he must pay to the last ox, even if the wife is eaten by lions the first week. Bachelors who like brunette wives and who have a few cows to spare might find it to their advantage to do business with the Kaffirs. A man with a large dairy might do a whooping business among the Zulus and Kaffirs if he had a penchant for the collection of dusky sweethearts.

THE WAR BANKER

In Germany they call them schiebers. A schieber is a shoveler. He is a Prussian profiteer. During the war period he was a sort of bootlegger in food. When the people were rigidly limited in rations he it was who supplied the rich and the nobility with their illicit supplies of sweets and fats. He became rich in the doing and now he is the one who is doing much of the extravagant spending in Germany. Now it is that the get-rich-quick party who made large and unlawful profits out of the war is commonly designated as a "schieber." He stealthily shoveled his gains out of the pockets of the people.

BRINGING THE GOOD GNUS

Another Noah's ark is headed this way. The wireless brings word that the freighter West Hinshaw has left Honolulu on her way to the California ports with a cargo of wild animals from the Antipodes and the Orient. Those who wish to start private zoos will do well to be at the wharf when the ship warps in. There is said to be an interesting assortment of lions, tigers and leopards—of the more common forms of carnivorous mammalia; but in addition there are numbers of rarer beasties. There are dik-diks and wombats, aard-varks and wapiti. There are birds of dazzling plumage and serpents of gruesome mien. But everybody should wait for the gnus. They can be taught to pull a car. The trainer says that he has no trouble in breaking the good gnus.

LOOKING BACKWARD

Who wants a return of the whipping post and the stocks? It has several times been urged that the whipping post was the proper punishment for wife-beaters and the ducking stool for slanderers. Now William A. Pinkerton, head of the great detective agency, is imploring legislators to establish the lash for sneak thieves and the pillory for shoplifters. He says that if we kept our pickpockets and kleptomaniacs in the stocks there would be a notable diminution of this class of offenders. Doubtless he is right. If we could even apply the scourge or the thumbscrews to some of our surplus bigamists it might help a lot. If we are to revert to some of these old-time punishments some of our most highly esteemed murderers might find themselves stewed in oil.

PUTTING A GIANT TO WORK

Taking the Colorado River project out of the realm of conversation into that of actual achievement has been an exceedingly difficult and at times seemingly impossible undertaking, but the national administration now appears to have succeeded. Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, who championed the cause of Imperial Valley in urging immediate construction of a dam at Boulder Canyon on the floor of Congress Wednesday, is an inspiring figure to the whole Southwest. Backed by President Harding, Secretary of the Interior Fall and other officials of the administration, Mr. Hoover is hammering the huge project into definite shape and is urging speedy action.

Secretary Hoover told the House Committee on Irrigation of Arid Lands that the first consideration must be to protect Imperial Valley by building a control dam. He estimates that this will cost about $40,000,000 and that control will be established in three or four years after Congress has acted and the work begun.

The distinguished Secretary of Commerce is striking while the iron is hot. As chairman of the Colorado River Commission he has conducted hearings in Washington and in the West. He knows of the claims to benefits set forth by the various States in the Colorado basin. As an engineer he understands the problems of construction and is able to accurately estimate the cost.

With keen analysis of the whole project, understanding its complexities and the obstacles, Mr. Hoover has presented a practical, workable plan whereby the work can be undertaken so that the nation can realize upon this rich heritage and reap the benefits that will accrue from a vast cultivated acreage and millions of horse power of hydroelectric energy.

Secretary Hoover presents his plan to the Congressional committee and urges speedy action at a time when the Colorado River is swollen from the melting snows of the Rockies and is again sweeping in a menacing flood toward Imperial Valley, where crops worth $70,000,000 are growing. Such a sensational producer of food cannot be ignored. Everybody recognizes the need for protection, for until the river is controlled the valley will be menaced every year. The cost of a dam that will maintain control for seventy years is only a little more than half of a single year's output of Imperial Valley.

The river must be controlled, says Mr. Hoover, as a governmental duty to the people and property in Imperial Valley. A dam at Boulder Canyon, he said, will not interfere with other projects on the river and it is evident that the administration plan contemplates another dam at Glen Canyon, one or two much higher up the river and the eventual control of the river to the extent that several millions of acres of land, now barren, will be watered and cultivated and 5,000,000 horse power developed.

Mr. Hoover's mastery of all phases of the project is evident in his address to the Congressional committee. He deals not only with the physical aspects, but with the economic. He calls attention to the growth of Los Angeles and of the Southwest generally by saying that there is a demand for power equal to the supply, even though the government shall develop several million horse power by means of a series of dams and reservoirs.

The Colorado River project is the most important undertaking before the American people. The benefits in added production of food, stimulation of industry through cheap power and in security to a productive valley will strengthen the nation because they will tremendously promote the growth of the Southwest. The cost of the work will be returned directly manyfold and the indirect benefits will be great beyond the power to calculate.

The first unit of such a magnificent project in the form of a dam and reservoir at Boulder Canyon or Glen Canyon will stand as a lasting monument to President Harding's administration. It is to be earnestly desired that all the members of Congress will turn an attentive ear to Secretary Hoover's well-considered recommendation and to his urgent plea for speedy action.

A CENTURY AGO

Although the purchase of Louisiana in 1803 gave the United States a strangle hold on what is now the western portion of our country, that act did not, by any means, give us control of all of what is now included in Western United States. Spain still ruled over the larger portion of the States known as California, Arizona, Nevada, Utah, New Mexico, Texas and, in addition, parts of Colorado and Wyoming.

Up in the northwest corner the United States and England disputed the ownership of what is now Oregon and Washington. While Lewis and Clark had a few years later ascended and descended the Missouri and Columbia rivers, Pike had made explorations in the Rocky Mountains of Colorado, fur hunters were scattered along the rivers, Spanish soldiers and priests had explored the southern tier of States; the great West was largely unexplored. The Sierra Nevada range had not yet been crossed by a white man. Nothing was known of what is now called the Great Basin—a river was supposed to flow from the center of it into the Pacific in the neighborhood of San Francisco Bay. No minerals of importance had been discovered and no great development of agriculture made. The breaking up of the enormous area into territories had just begun.

By the census of 1820 no Western State had as large a population as the Nevada of 1920; Missouri had in 1810 about 20,000 people—in 1820 about 68,000. St. Louis in 1840 was the largest city in the West, having then about as many residents as the Pomona of today. The population along the California coast was centered around the missions; the Los Angeles of 1820 containing about 700 people. Denver, Salt Lake, Spokane, Butte, Boise and other now thriving cities of the interior Western States had not been started. There were no settlements of great economic importance on San Francisco or San Diego bays or on the Puget Sound.

What a change has come over the West in the past 100 years. The political units have all passed through the Territorial stage into Statehood. The western highland is now one of the great centers of the world for the development of mining. The most productive agricultural States of the Union are now found west of the Mississippi. The agricultural resources of Nevada are but partially developed, yet her crop returns for one year amount to considerably more than we paid France for the entire Louisiana Territory, or Mexico for all the vast area we took from her; while the value of the crops of one comparatively small county, Los Angeles, now amount to more yearly than the combined sum that we paid to France and Mexico for the millions of square miles that we bought from them. The center of manufacturing is now moving at a very fast rate toward the Mississippi River. New Orleans, St. Louis, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Denver, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles have become great cities. A hundred years or even five hundred years is but a short time for a nation to mature. What will the great West be in another hundred years?

AMERICAN VALUATION

The American valuation plan is a fallacy. It belies its name, for it is in reality un-American; it won't work and is cumbersome, unfair and unjust in many particulars. It is a cloak to hide the enormous tariff imposed in the interest of certain manufacturers who want secret protection under a popular name and is an altogether undesirable legislative proposition. It is not a part of a protectionist policy and if written into the tariff law will become a cloak for excessive protection and a needless political burden for the Republican party to carry.

The so-called American valuation plan seeks to place a dollar value upon goods brought into this country. That is, the value, for the purpose of assessing import duties, is based upon the theoretical value of the commodity in this country rather than in the country where the import originates; in other words, it is a scheme for levying higher duties under the guise of higher values.

In a recent speech opposing the provisions of the plan Senator Capper of Kansas laid down the basic argument that if American valuation is to be used as a method of concealing undue increases in protective rates it becomes clearly a bunco game at the expense of the farmer, for plainly it is not applied in favor of his products, while the price of many products which he uses will be increased. American valuation, by increasing the height of the tariff wall, would limit the exportation of agricultural products in exchange for the manufactured goods bought in foreign countries.

At the present time business needs more than anything else certainty and stability. Far-reaching economic demoralization would result from the difficulties and uncertainties of a new customs procedure such as the American valuation plan proposes.

STAND BY THE CONSTITUTION

The State University of Tennessee has adopted a resolution in respect to the granting of academic degrees that might well be indorsed by every seat of learning in the land. Briefly, this resolution declares that no student shall receive a degree from the universities of the South unless he shall have completed at least one year's study of the Constitution, with special reference to the spirit of the founders, interpretations by the Supreme Court and the effects of the various amendments.

Such action is worthy of all praise. It is a practical effort to cure a national indisposition, far too prevalent at the present time, a sickly attempt by the superficial to win a reputation for being smart and up-to-date by belittling a historic document of whose provisions they are woefully or wilfully ignorant.

Everyone knows the line of talk put up by these un-American propagandists. With an assumption of being ultra-erudite they dispose of the profound thinkers who framed our American Constitution by dubbing them reactionaries, old fossils, exponents of defunct theories in government, and add, with sophisticated shrugs, that their Constitution was fitted—oh, yes! perfectly proper—for the people of their age, but hopelessly behind the times in this progressive twentieth century!

If the resolution adopted by the University of Tennessee were put into general effect these traducers of the Constitution and the founders of the republic would be easily put out of business. Unfortunately those who listen to them are equally unacquainted with both the letter and the spirit of the Constitution. We know on scriptural warrant what happens when the blind lead the blind. Wherever ignorance speaks to ignorance, prejudice and falsifying are weeds of easy growth.

Surely the time has come for all true Americans to band themselves together to combat attacks on the charter of our liberty, whether they proceed from red agitators or pink-eyed parlor Socialists. Moreover, the surest weapon to use against ignorance is the sword of knowledge. The Constitution needs no better defense than a thorough study and understanding of what it sets forth in plain and unmistakable language. A true system of good government can no more be out of date than an accepted code of morality. These are not creations for one time or age or place.

A united effort to put the American Constitution into our everyday American life is the logical duty of every school, college and university. Yet in this connection may be quoted the old Latin query, "Quis custodet ipsos custodes?" Who shall look after the guardians themselves?

For in our public schools as well as in our universities there are too many accepted instructors of youth in need themselves of this year's study of the Constitution to fit them for the positions they hold through the liberty won for them by the heroes of '76.

Many of the worst offenders in this campaign to smudge the old Constitution, to encourage a cynical attitude toward everything that is fixed and unchangeable, to efface with gibes and sneers our cherished beliefs, are still intrusted with education of our children. We do not need "The New Republic" or "The Nation" added to our public-school list of text-books. Our teachers and professors should at least understand the Constitution and be able to discuss it as intelligently as the transient effusions of smart and insincere periodicals attempting to create a market for their wares.

Give us the right brand of strong, sturdy, straight-from-the-shoulder teachers, then place them at the head of classes to study thoughtfully the American Constitution from every possible angle and the resolution of the Tennessee University will raise the standard of American citizenship to the level of the principles upon which it was founded.

RIPPLING RHYMES

THE WRONG TIME

I laid me down to sleep and snore, for I was tired and worn; then came a vagrant to the door from some forgotten bourne. He hammered till he woke me up from my well-earned repose, and, savage as a poisoned pup, from my soft couch I rose. "What would you?" said I to the bum, whose nose suggested booze; "why do you to my portal come and rouse me from my snooze?" "I've wandered many a weary verst," the tattered vagrant said, "since last I had some wienerwurst or e'en a crust of bread. O'er wide and windy wastes I've toiled beneath a sodden sky, so let me have some eggs hard boiled and eke a chunk of pie." "Go to," I cried, "I have no pie, no eggs, however cheap, for any soiled, bedraggled guy who interrupts my sleep. No man who has a lick of sense would spoil a voter's nap, to hold him up for pounds or pence or other gifts, you sap. Just after I have had a meal a beggar man might come, and I would hand him out a wheel or other princely sum. And I can see why you are poor, can see with half an eye, why you go hoofing o'er the moor your soul athirst for pie. You haven't learned that there's a time for everything we'd do, and deeds untimely are a crime—so trip the tra-la-loo."

SOLDIERS OF THE COMMON WEAL

The deaths of twenty-five prohibition agents have been reported the past year in battles with rum-runners. These men served their country just as truly as if they were fighting in the army. They died while protecting our homes and warring against a lawless spirit of rebellion and they deserve honor for their sacrifice.—[Salem News.

THE GILA MONSTER

BY CHARLES LINCOLN EDWARDS, PH.D.,
Director of Nature Study, Los Angeles City Schools

The Gila (pronounced heela) monster, or beaded lizard, is the largest lizard in North America, growing to a length of two feet, and the only poisonous lizard in the world. The common species, Heloderma suspectum, is most abundant in the Arizona Mojave Desert. The name comes from the Gila River of Arizona and New Mexico. A second beaded species, the "crust lizard," Heloderma horridum, occurs in Mexico and Central America.

The flattened body of the Gila monster ends in a thick tail and is dragged over the ground by strong, short arms and legs. Each hand bears five fingers and each foot five toes. The muscular tail may be used to balance on or as an added limb in climbing over rocks or, by its spring, the creature may jump as much as two feet at an enemy.

The forked tongue, like that of a snake, vibrates from the mouth, giving to the lizard sensations of touch and of taste and perhaps some others not known to man.

The very tough skin of the Gila monster is covered above with fine, bead-like granules, together with many irregular bony elevations, instead of the usual lizard scales. Below there are flat scales. This animal is strikingly colored with mixed patches of blackish-brown and pink, yellow or orange. The lighter color may vary from salmon pink to pale yellow, or even white.

The beaded lizards live in dry places, hidden by day and become active in the evening. They lie asleep during the hottest part of the year. They eat frogs, worms, centipedes, ants and other insects, as well as the eggs of frogs, birds and other lizards. In good times the extra nourishment is stored up as fat in the tail. When food is scarce this fat can be absorbed and carried to the hungry cells through the blood and thus the Gila monster may go without other food for several months.

In midsummer the female lays from six to thirteen soft-shelled eggs in a hole scraped out of the damp sand near a stream and then covered. After being incubated in the sun for about four weeks the young are hatched. They are four inches long and brighter colored than the parents.

Usually the Gila monster moves awkwardly and lazily over the hot sand of the desert. While not at all timid, he may lie perfectly still and feign death. If stirred by passion or fright he runs swiftly and pants his foul breath convulsively. When the Gila monster bites he holds on like a bulldog.

The pronounced swellings on the outer side of the lower jaw indicate the location of the poison glands. Each gland is a transformed sublabial gland made up of three or four club-shaped sacs, immediately under the skin.

The mouth is armed with many fang-like teeth arising from the inner edge of the jaws. Four teeth on each side of each jaw are grooved deeply on the front surface and slightly on the rear. A poison sac opens between the lip and the base of each grooved tooth of the lower jaw.

The venom is produced from nonpoisonous material carried in the circulating blood to the glands. The secretion of venom continues even after the glands have been transplanted into another animal.

By letting the Gila monster bite a strap five or six drops of the whitish, sticky, serpent-like venom may be obtained. The poison mainly acts upon the central nervous system of the Gila monster's victim. The respiratory center is especially affected and death ensues from a paralysis of the breathing apparatus.

Toads and other cold-blooded animals are more resistant toward the venom than rabbits, guinea pigs and other warm-blooded creatures.

A more or less heated debate has extended over the last seven or eight decades concerning the fatal quality of the Gila monster's poison.

Nearly all Indians and Mexicans have a superstitious fear of this lizard as a most dangerous animal.

Old settlers have given instances of death occurring within forty minutes of the Heloderma's bite. In one such case the fatality was proved to be due to chronic alcoholism. In another the probable cause was heart failure from extreme fright rather than the Heloderma venom.

Dr. Leo Loeb, in his important contribution, "The Venom of Heloderma," published in 1913 by the Carnegie Institution of Washington, affirms that "no death of a human being has come to our knowledge that can be attributed to the bite of a Gila monster. A bite of this animal is in man either followed by no symptoms or by a local swelling."

FROM THE REAL INTO THE IDEAL.

BY JENNIE VAN ALDEN.

Flamboyancy marked the inception of the moving-picture industry.

It was ingeniously named "The Motion Picture," as the more motions the actor made the greater the picturization. In that period gestures made the artist and muscular and facial gymnastics were his stock in trade.

The repellant thought that the real would wear out made a movie man hysterical until he remembered, in the midst of his frenzied delirium, that there would be other reels where he could make more fantastic motions; where he could wave his arms faster, kick his heels higher and impersonate the pantomimist, grimacer, contortionist and all-around acrobat.

In the beginning all men were mad to see themselves on the silver sheet. In a ten-reel picture they only saw themselves. They alone walked on the screen that shivered and shook like a man with the ague. In their mind's eye there were no other actors. The screen was a blank when they ceased to splurge and strut to the flourish of trumpets and beat of drums. They were eaten with vanity when a chap from the slums exclaimed: "Say, that guy is 'great!'" and they were hoarse with emotion as they touched the ragged sleeve and said: "I am the man!"

Then came the day when artists were lured into the motion-picture game. The song of the siren and the golden apple tempted them to forsake the legitimate drama for pictures.

Great actors felt they were retrograding and were ashamed of the film affiliation. They hated the rampant attitudinizing, the repeating of lines that would never be heard and the doing of acts that were absolutely without reason. They rebelled against the commands of directors who were ignorant of all that was artistic.

They hated all that was raw and crude in the new art. They had studied and worked in the legitimate drama. They had become great because the mirror was the shrine where they knelt and poured out their libations to art and were only satisfied when it reflected their finest artistry and truest realism.

But out of the maelstrom of "motions" has come a recognized art that subtly reveals every hair-trigger movement of mind and body. Artists have learned that every false move is registered against or for them and will live as long as the film endures. Mistakes are emblazoned on the screen like secret sins in the day of judgment.

Success on the stage becomes a tradition to succeeding generations. But the picture outlasts memory, for it is photographed upon the eye. The picture is imperishable. It is numbered among the immortals.

The life of an actor on the legitimate drama is a succession of interminable rehearsals on a dimly lighted, dusty stage with a company of fretful people and an irascible stage manager. There is nothing natural, nothing normal as every move is made through a fog of dust and germ-laden air. At night the crowded, ill-ventilated dressing-rooms are poisoned with the breath of the audience that rises from the floor and descends from the galleries onto the stage and is swept by drafts behind the curtain.

The vitiated air that fills their nostrils, the footlights blazing into their eyes and intensifying the black chasm in front makes the matinees and long evening performances a horror to the supersensitive. Everything is narrow and contracted, until the artist feels like a squirrel in a revolving cage—ever going, but never getting anywhere.

The open-air life ought to have the finest moral effect upon moving-picture actors. For young and old it is a sane method of earning a living. Daylight hours are the working hours of every normal human being. When a man or woman is out in the air from 7 in the morning until 5 at night; when they have been in the saddle or the surf all day; when they have ridden at break-neck speed or run like a Marathon racer; when they have had their make-up on for twelve hours and put through their paces under the merciless eye of a camera; when they have satisfied a director who demands the best in them; when their lungs are full of California ozone and their brains are blown clean of cobwebs by the wind from the mountains and the sea; when they've hustled from dawn to sunset; when they have risen at daybreak to catch the 6:40 "Flier" followed by a three-mile drive along the ocean, they are ready to go home, get a good dinner and go to bed.

No one grudges moving-picture people the luxuries they honestly earn. The creative workers are worthy of their hire, for they are grilled in the making of every film. They contribute more to the world's education and amusement than any other industry.

But the world is demanding the best in pictures and of people. It is demanding wholesome stories, clean films and the decent living of players. It demands of this splendid industry the highest moral and educational standards. The picture theater has become the church of the masses and its message must meet the exigencies of humble lives.

People and Their Troubles

AN OPEN LETTER

5537 Virginia avenue,
Los Angeles Cal.,
June 14, 1922.

Mr. W. H. Stayton, Managing Vice-President, the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, 511 Eleventh street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir: Yours of June 9, stating that you are authorized by Mr. Waldemer Young to mention his name as your apology for troubling me, is received. You do not bother me. Indeed, I am gratified at the receipt of your letter, and its inclosure—platform, declaration of principles, and contribution blank. But Wally is a joke. Indeed, people given to the use of strong language have been known to call him a jester. That is why he gave you my name.

"Come, let us reason together." Yours is an "Association Against the Prohibition Amendment." I profoundly hope to see you beaten. Every man has a perfect right to disapprove any provision of the Constitution of the United States. It is a privilege of American citizenship. Since you do not like the amendment, and propose no illegal method against it, you are warranted in working for its repeal. So far we can go together. And then we part.

Your platform declares for beers and light wines now, and opposition to saloons, ever. Personally, I do not care a hang whether the use of light or heavy wines shall be made legal now or at any other time. My drink, when I drank, was whisky. Always I have considered beer drinking a waste of time. And the only reason I could see for buying wine was that the makers and dispensers had families to support. Which is not warrant enough for changing the Constitution of the United States.

As to your attitude in the matter of resurrecting the saloons: It is my judgment that if you people can repeal the prohibition amendment, you can reopen the saloons. And if you do repeal the prohibition amendment, the saloons will be reopened, whether or not your platform opposes it.

You say, by way of a second plank in your platform: "The liquor traffic should be regulated locally by the States." You had it that way for a hundred years. And the reason the prohibition amendment was adopted by the nation was because, instead of the States regulating the saloons, the saloons regulated the States. Given the same conditions, they would do it again. And the general belief in that fact is the main reason why you are wasting your time.

No question touching national interests is an impertinence in national legislation. Our divorce laws are a disgrace because they have been "regulated locally by the States." We left the railroads to be "regulated locally by the States," and found the system a failure. Man, you are looking backward. The people of America are not traveling in that direction. Your dogmatic statement of what the Constitution of the United States "ought to contain" marks you a mighty presumptuous person. Pardon me if I say I do not believe you are competent to make a constitution for the United States of America. Better cut that out of your propaganda in future. You arrogate quite too much.

But your third plank is better. "So long as the prohibition amendment and the Volstead law are the law of the land, they should be obeyed." Friend, if they had been obeyed, you wouldn't be having so much trouble with your beer-and-wine campaign. The opponents of the prohibition amendment and the Volstead law have discredited themselves from the beginning. And because they have been lawless as the saloons, as defiant as the saloons, and—so far as lay in their power—as harmful as saloons, the men and women of the nation have bracketed you with the saloons.

Protest as you like. Rave if you want to. Argue if you can find a patient audience. But in the light of the fact that violators of the law have fattened on the encouragement and grown rich on the patronage of otherwise reputable citizens, there will be no repeal of the Volstead law, nor anything even remotely resembling a modification of the prohibition amendment.

I read in the list of your "prominent members" names of men whom I honor and of women whom I respect. But if they have obeyed the law they have no business in that category you have blundered down the margin of your stationery. A general acceptance of the law would have qualified you to amend it. A general defiance stiffens the opposition; for the average citizen will say: "Since they do not respect this law, what assurance have we that they will obey any other?"

Friend, that is the rock on which you are going to split. You are not eligible to demand a repeal.

On another page of your letter you say: "The prohibition laws are unpopular with a great majority of the voters." Elsewhere you have made mistakes of judgment. This is a misstatement of fact. Neither the amendment nor the Volstead law is unpopular. They are popular. The proof is that a majority of voters have indorsed them. That is why they are a part of the law of the land. The majority wanted them, and so indicated by their votes—through Congress, and then through the legislatures of forty-five of the forty-eight States of the Union.

It is the minority that opposed first the amendment and then the Volstead Act. One man's guess is as good as another's. My belief is that the majority which whipped you with the amendment and then put salt in your sores with the Volstead law is bigger today than it ever has been in the past. You get nowhere telling a white man the prohibition laws are "unpopular with a great majority of the voters."

Noisy? Oh, yes. They have made more uproar. But the majority is against them—increasingly. And believe me, the majority is not afraid of them.

All this touching the case as it stands today. There is another phase—fundamental, though it deals with events of the past. The amendment and the laws under it were supported by many drinking men. Why not? Who better than they knew the horrors of the liquor traffic, the evil of the liquor habit? They went as far as men legally can go to make an end of it. In absolute silence, many of them without intermitting the regular dram, put their votes where these would do the most good for prohibition. They had been drinking men. But when the law said: "Quit!" they quit.

With mighty few exceptions they have been on the level ever since. And they hold in utter contempt the men who expect all other laws to protect them while they dynamite this law. Man, you could not repeal the prohibition amendment and its laws this day if you put it up to the former drinkers themselves. Do you think you could "con" them with your beer-and-wine chatter? Why, they know that if you get all the beer and wine you want, you will get all the whisky you want. And you will want it, too.

But there is another little matter: Your fourth plank recites: "It is the right and duty of all who still believe in real temperance, in self-respect, self-restraint, and the force of personal morality to work for the repeal of the Volstead Act, and then of the prohibition amendment itself."

It may be my right. But who gave you authority to tell me my duty? I probably have as much self-respect as have you. I claim about the average self-restraint. I may have some "force of personal morality." One is hesitant about boasting such things. But if I have, and to the measure I have, you shall not capitalize it to lower the morality of my fellow-men. You may know how to write a better Constitution of the United States than that now in effect, but until you do you shall not tell me what is my duty.

Listen: This country gave alcohol a fair trial, and found it guilty. The United States of America put it away for life. You and other reputable men and women may sneer at the verdict. You may carry aid and comfort to the enemy. But you go to the place of his confinement when you do it. You have something in common with the convict, or you would not work for his reprieve. Are you doing the thing that cost him his liberty? Are you trying to get him out? Trying to get alcohol back into the Constitution, and the habitual use of it into the life of American men and women?

Get you to the ballot box, and get there quickly. You couldn't get a majority approval of a single one of your propositions today; and the longer you wait the weaker your cause will be.

Finally, I will not join your organization because:

First—Opponents of prohibition laws cannot be trusted, since they have not themselves obeyed the law.

Second—The prohibition amendment and the Volstead law were adopted by a majority of the American people, regularly and legally expressed.

Third—Beer and wine mean "also whisky." Men who don't know that are eligible to your organization.

Fourth—The minority demanding repeal would, if successful, restore to America nothing morally or economically needful, but instead would impose a system destructive to morals and disastrous to every worthy business.

In conclusion, give my cordial regards to Mr. Waldemer Young, who could improve your composition and correct your argument. And for yourself, accept the assurances of my most distinguished consideration.

Yours very truly,
[Signed]
LEROY ARMSTRONG.

A Chicken Hater

VENICE, June 19.—[To the Editor of The Times:] There is no law against keeping chickens in Los Angeles, and no prospect of having one. As far as I know there is no law against keeping weasels in the city. They are great blood suckers and are so slender that they can get into any chicken coop, and after a few of their visits, there would be no more crowing or cackling to wake us at daylight. There are lots of them in the back country, and while this is a severe remedy, it would bring results.

Question: How long is a par 5 hole in golf? D. I.

Answer: According to the standards of the United States Golf Association, a hole 451 to 600 yards in length is calculated to take a drive, two shots and two putts.

Q.: Why can't the adjective unique be modified by very or most?
C. A. M.

A.: Unique means the only one of its kind. It is therefore incomparable. The word is frequently misused for odd, rare or usual.

Q.: What was the origin of the Maltese Cross? A. A. S.

A.: This emblem was adopted by the Knights of Malta. They devised a cross made up of four barbed arrowheads meeting at their points.

Q.: What color should kitchen walls be painted? D. W. P.

A.: Various shades and tones of color are important factors in reflecting light. A kitchen should be a bright, clean looking room. The walls finished in ivory tint will give 72 per cent reflection. If forest green is used the reflective value is only 21 per cent.

Q.: What is the salary of the Pope? C. E. F.

A.: The Pope does not have a salary, but has a certain amount of money set aside from the revenues of the church for his use, and receives contributions from various organizations. This fund is known as "Peter's Pence" and is largely devoted by the Pope to works of charity.

Q.: Is kainit good for lawns?

A.: Kainit has considerable value as a fertilizer. Excellent results are secured when it is combined with acid phosphate, to be used as a top dressing for lawns. The combination should be: Acid phosphate, twenty pounds; kainit, fifteen pounds.

Q.: When the skin is blistered from sunburn, should the blisters be opened? J. L. O'K.

A.: The Public Health Service says that it is better to leave them alone. After a time a new layer of skin is formed and the blisters break of themselves.

Q.: My father was named in a will, but died before the man who made the will died. Can I inherit what my father would have had under the will, which was never changed? E. M. E.

A.: In a case where the legatee dies before the testator the legacy lapses and is included in the share of the residuary legatee, or in case such a legatee is not named, passes to the testator's next of kin.

Q.: Are there coal mines under Leavenworth, Kan.? G. W. G.

A.: The city is the center for a coal mining region, an apparently inexhaustible coal deposit underlying it at a depth of 700 feet. It gives employment to over 1000 miners and yields 60,000 bushels of coal daily.

Q.: What is a good definition of history? J. M.

A.: In an objective sense history has been defined as "all we know about everything man has ever done, or thought, or hoped, or felt." Subjectively speaking it may be regarded as a record of all that has occurred within the realm of human consciousness.

WISE GULLS

Birds Show More than Average Intelligence at Rockaway

While walking along the far Rockaway Beach front yesterday in company with Capt. Joseph D. Meade, keeper of the Arverne Coast Guard station, we observed a strange feat performed by a sea gull. During out stroll we saw a gull suddenly swoop to a bar off Debs Inlet and after picking up a fair-sized skimmer rise to a considerable height. In some unknown manner the skimmer succeeded in getting the bill of the gull between its shells and drew the two hard coverings together. The gull frantically returned to the beach, followed by two of its companions. When they reached the sand the gull in agony jumped about the sand in an attempt to free itself from the grasp of the skimmer's shells. The two other gulls did their utmost to aid their companion by pecking at the skimmer.

The gull thrust the skimmer into the sand and snapped back its head, but its efforts to remove the bivalve proved fruitless.

Capt. Meade predicted that the bird would eventually break its neck, and I, too, was of the same impression. There was not a chance in the world of removing those vise-like shells of the skimmer without some means of prying them loose, and we were both surprised when one of the gulls aiding the unfortunate bird, located a broken skimmer shell and then unhesitatingly thrust it between the opening of the valves.

The two gulls worked to free their companion once more and with the aid of the broken shell the skimmer soon released its hold on the bird's bill and fell to the sand. Capt. Meade, who has witnessed numerous feats performed by birds, said it was the first time he had ever observed such a stunt as that staged by the gulls at far Rockaway.—[E. A. C. in Brooklyn Eagle.

REAL THING VS. CANNED MUSIC

Record First, Then the Artist, at KHJ

Opportunity to Compare is Given

"Times" Night Program Has Rare Talent

The Times—KHJ—on the air today from 1:00 to 1:45 p.m. Mary Wellesley Hawes, mezzo-soprano, accompanied by Maude Howard, will sing "My Dear Soul," by Sanderson, "Four Ducks on a Pond," by Needham, and "The Moon Drops Low," by Cadman. Harold C. McClellan, baritone, accompanied by Florence Hancock, will sing a selection of old Southern ballads.

Program from 7:15 to 8:00 p.m. Concert for this evening has been arranged through the courtesy of the Fitzgerald Music Company, and will feature the Knabe-Ampico piano. Flora Meyers Engel, soprano, accompanied by the Knabe-Ampico, will sing "Bird Song," from "Pagliacci," by Leoncavallo, and "Dawn," by Curran. Olga Steeb, pianist, will sing "Rigadon" by MacDowell, "Caprice," by Paganinni-Liszt, both of which will be repeated on the Knabe Ampico from previous recording, presenting the opportunity to endeavor to distinguish between Miss Steeb's playing and the Ampico. Olga Steeb will also play "Etude in D Flat," by Liszt, in which she and the Knabe-Ampico will alternate in playing melody and accompaniment.

Eddie Rickenbacker, American Ace, will speak on "Aviation and its Future Development."

Listeners-in on KHJ yesterday afternoon were given an opportunity to judge for themselves the real difference between "canned music" and the real thing. For the purpose of test a Wiedoeft composition, "Erica," played on the saxophone, was broadcast from a record and immediately following this Lawrence Abbott, member of Herb Wiedoeft's Californians, played several saxophone solos, accompanied by Gene Rose, pianist-arranger, with the Wiedoeft orchestra. Music by the same composer, played on the same kind of instrument, first on a phonograph and then by the musician personally, marks a new step in giving the public an opportunity to determine the degree of audibility and modulation in each case. [Among those who heard yesterday's program, which say you is the better?—Editor.]

Mr. Abbott, accompanied by Mr. Rose, whose ability to make the saxophone tickle the ear of radioland is known through his previous appearance before the KHJ microphone, acquired laurels through his interpretation of "Waltz Llewellyn," by Wiedoeft; "Nobody Lied," "Angel Child" and "When Buddha Smiles," by Herb Brown. In the latter number Mr. Abbott used three instruments—alto and C soprano saxophones, and the oboe.

Youthful accomplishment was typified yesterday afternoon by the superior technique and finesse which marked the two piano solos sent out into radioland, born of the nimble fingers and colorful shading of Marygean Thatcher, 15-year-old pianist. She played two selections, the first—"Fantasy Impromptu" in C Sharp Minor, by Chopin—carrying with it in large degree the higher classic trend, while the second—"Summer Night," by Binet—came under the lilting melody class. In both, Miss Thatcher showed rare ability to interpret the composer's theme.

Across the mental screen of listeners-in last night there flashed effulgent stars of a rare constellation. Radioland reverberated from horizon to horizon when KHJ, The Times radiophone, picked up the seeds of song and music and broadcast them as living specimens of a program arranged through the courtesy of J. Spenser Kelly.

Mr. Kelly's deep basso-cantante voice rang out to his invisible audience in three numbers—"Infelice," from "Ernani," by Verdi, "Over the Steppe," by Gretchaninoff, and "Father O'Flynn," by Stamford.

The rich and dramatic soprano of Mrs. J. Spenser Kelly reached into the very zenith of radio infinity when she sang "Joy of Spring," by Woodman, "Sacrament," by Macdermid, and "Love Is the Wind," by Macfayden. Truly, her listeners found much to admire in her colorful interpretation.

Myrtle Carver, coloratura soprano, brought vividly to mind the Nipponese romance which underlies Puccini's "Mme. Butterfly," when she sang "Un Bel di Vedremo." She sang two other numbers, "Lo, Here the Gentle Lark," by Bishop, and "Who'll Buy My Lavender," by German.

Ruth Thompson, pianist-composer, who played all accompaniments of the evening, played three piano solos of her own composition—"The Harp Song," "Pastorale" and "Elegie." This was an opportunity for listeners to learn the exact interpretation of the brain-children of the composer, for who should know better than she the real theme which brought them into being.

Pleads Guilty to Driving Auto After Having Had Liquor

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, June 22. — A plea of guilty to the charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor was made today by Miss Betty Marks of Balboa, the first woman to be arrested in Orange county on this charge.

With a venire of jurors ready to be called to try the case, the plea was changed at the opening of the trial in the Superior Court this morning.

Notice that a formal application for probation would be entered was made by Clyde Bishop, attorney for the defendant, who stated that the application would not be pressed.

Knabe-Ampico to Show Its Possibilities

Tonight's musical program, which has been arranged through the courtesy of the Fitzgerald Music Company, will show to radioland listeners the degree of reality with which the Knabe-Ampico re-creates the actual technique and expression of the original player. First a number on the Ampico will be played; then the artist who originally made the master record will repeat it.

County Jail Prisoner Cuts Wrist With Razor Blade

An attempt by J. C. Norton, alias Gleason, held in the County Jail, to commit suicide was frustrated yesterday by quick action on the part of jail guards and Dr. C. A. Bachhuber, county physician. Norton is held on a robbery charge.

Report was made to Jailer Cronin yesterday that Norton, who has appeared before Judge Wayl and the Lunacy Commission for mental examinations, had cut his wrist several times with a razor blade. Dr. J. J. Finley and Dr. Bachhuber treated the man and stopped the flow of blood.

Norton was reported out of danger late last night.

Asks Damages From Railroad For Train Delay

The William Fox Vaudeville Company sued the Southern Pacific yesterday for $1171.50 for loss sustained in the preparation of a cinema picture when the train on which the company was traveling was ten hours late. The outfit was to be delivered at Truckee Nov. 26, 1921, at 11 p.m., and arrived at 9 a.m. the following morning, the complaint states.

Making Him Earn It

"I'm surprised at the way you are laughing at this film comedy."

"I rejoice to see the comedian get kicked in the seat of his trousers," said Mr. Grumpson.

"Eh?"

"It keeps me from being irritated by the announcement that his salary is $2000 a week."—[Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A big radio show given by the Southwest Exhibitors' Association is expected to take place July 5 to 8, inclusive, at the Coliseum, St. Louis, Mo.

Wilford B. Green, tenor, and Sibley G. Pease, accompanist, will render a recital of concert songs at KJC today between 11:30 and 12, the usual Barker Brothers period.

Amateur traffic is still being handled between here and San Francisco, and Reno, Nev., although the static is getting very bad. Communication between eastern and western citizen radio stations ceased some time ago, although western experimenters are still copying Midwest and Central States transmitters. It is hoped the opening up of communication will take place very soon despite the summer static. This may be done by the aid of radio frequency amplification and loop antennas, according to V. M. Bitz, Southern California Radio Association traffic officer, who says new apparatus in a Roswell (N. M.) station may mean that East and West amateur communication be resumed. 6EN, 6KA and 6JD, local amateurs, are endeavoring to perfect receiving equipment that will be adequate for summer long-distance work.

Tinfoil shellacked to the back of the panel in a receiving set and grounded will serve splendidly as a shield to prevent undesirable capacity effects from the hands.

A message from Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, addressed to 6KA through the naval station at San Pedro—NPX—states that 6KA's signals at Honolulu are being received very clearly through heavy static.

The July Radio Journal, Los Angeles' radio magazine, is on the news stands today. It contains many features of interest to all classes of radio enthusiasts, including articles on "Static Disturbances," by Lex B. Benjamin; "Possibilities of Radio," by W. L. Pollard; "Los Angeles-Avalon Radio Service," by H. W. Lewis; "Radio Development," by Maj. J. F. Dillon, including editorial matter by Hugh Harlan, publisher of the Radio Journal. Articles by C. H. Dillinger and Florence G. Rogers are also included. The issue is liberally illustrated with local photographs.

The Los Angeles High School Radio Club is giving a radio-electrical exhibition and show at the school today. KHJ is sending them greetings by radio at 1:15 p.m.

A Homey Service for Your Home Folks

"Why, you iron just like I do!" exclaimed a delighted customer the other day, when we returned her family bundle.

Of course we do—our home laundry service isn't a hit-or-miss proposition. It has been carefully planned on the basis of accurate knowledge of just what you want. We've learned that knit underwear, stockings, flannelettes, and woolens are never to be ironed. Nor would we think of touching an iron to dainty crepe underthings.

Instead, we dry the things by tossing them gently in a brisk breeze of warm, fresh air. We gently plump and fluff them, and return them delightfully soft and smooth.

And we know what you want starched, and what should not be; when to use just a touch of bluing, and when not.

Most of all we know the virtue of pure, rainsoft water, oceans and oceans of it; and mild, white soap.

That's why your bundle comes back to you just as you like it.

Try this saving service today—a telephone call will bring one of our drivers.

COURT CLOSES ARIZONA QUIZ

Declares Federal Grand Jury Dissolved

Proceedings Illegal, Says Judge Sawtelle

District Attorney Holds Contrary Views

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, June 22.—The Federal grand jury investigation of the Ku Klux Klan is at an end, in so far as the present grand jury is concerned. That was the decision of U. S. District Judge Sawtelle, Francis Crable, Assistant United States District Attorney, announced here today, following a conference with Judge Sawtelle at Tucson yesterday.

It was the opinion of the court that the grand jury was proceeding illegally, that is, was functioning after it had legally concluded its work, Mr. Crable declared. Judge Sawtelle further held, Mr. Crable said, that the present grand jury was automatically dissolved when he, Judge Sawtelle, left the State to conduct court in California while Judge Van Fleet came from San Francisco to hold court here.

CONTINUED DUTIES

In this connection the District Attorney's office pointed out that the grand jury was in session when Judge Sawtelle left for California, that it continued its deliberations during the period that Judge Van Fleet was in Phoenix, and from time to time made partial reports to him, returning several indictments, principally against violators of the national prohibition act and the narcotic act.

The court records show that when the grand jury made its final report to Judge Van Fleet it was declared recessed until "the call of the United States District Attorney."

"This office does not share the opinion of Judge Sawtelle," said a statement issued by Mr. Crable late this afternoon. "This office believes that it was well within its rights in proceeding with the Ku Klux Klan investigation, and by ordering the grand jurors to hear evidence in this connection, and we offer objections to discontinuing the probe at this time.

COURT DECIDES

"The court has ruled, however, that the grand jurors so empaneled are without authority to proceed and has ordered them officially discharged. A new grand jury will be empaneled in September, but there was no indication that the court would instruct it to investigate the Ku Klux Klan organization," the statement continued.

In further questioning the action of the grand jury investigation, Judge Sawtelle referred to the Supreme Court decision in the suit of United States vs. Harry Wheeler, more familiarly known as the Bisbee deportation case.

"It is apparent from this case that a Federal grand jury is very much circumscribed in any investigations, especially when the offenders are charged under Section 19 of the Penal Code, known as the Ku Klux Klan statute," said the court, according to Crable. Judge Sawtelle raised the further objection that any Federal grand jury probe in Phoenix or Maricopa county at this time would be embarrassing to a county grand jury investigation of Ku Klux Klan activities in this locality, Crable said. The District Attorney's office, in response to this argument, pointed out that the Federal grand jury investigation was an investigation of the organization itself and not of any specific acts of its members.

"The District Attorney's office here will continue its investigation of the Ku Klux Klan organization with the idea of eventually submitting whatever evidence it accumulates to a Federal grand jury," Mr. Crable said.

COUNTY BUDGET APPROVED

Total Allowed $13,000,000 Reflects Growth of Last Year; Improvements Planned

The most important budget ever presented to the board was approved by the board yesterday with a total of almost $13,000,000. It gives a vivid view of the increasing importance of the county and the improvements planned for the fiscal year ahead. New city and county jail, highway and bridge construction, additions to the County Hospital, County Farm and Olive View Sanatorium, all are items requiring a vast amount of money. The budget was prepared by Supervisor Woodley, chairman of the board, and appropriated from the salary and general funds is directly due to the general increase of business of the various departments. This being most noticeable in the offices of Assessor, Recorder and Department of Charities which includes the Hospital, Farm and Olive View Sanatorium.

There will be a considerable increase in the amount of highway and bridge construction during the coming fiscal year, some of the proposed work being an additional work, Harbor Truck Highway, $230,000; Telegraph Road, $75,000; Mill Road, $100,000; Bridge, Long Beach-Naples Road over Alamitos Bay, $58,000, Bridge Long Beach-Naples Road over San Gabriel River.

The assessed valuation of Los Angeles county for last year was $1,176,262,858, but this figure will be materially increased for 1922-23. Miscellaneous revenues estimated to arrive during the coming fiscal year will undoubtedly exceed those of last year by a substantial margin.

LOSES MEMORY

Man Knows Name But Nothing of Past; Asks Aid

Unable to tell anything of his past, a man giving the name of James E. Mails called at 815 North Dittmer street yesterday and asked for aid. The case was reported to Sheriff Traeger, who had the man sent to the County Hospital to be cared for until some one calls who knows the man. Apparently the man knew his name, but nothing of his past.

AUTOIST FACES DEATH CHARGE

Motorist Held for Trial for Manslaughter

Arrest Follows Killing of Veteran in Crash

Speeders Are Sentenced to Jail by Chesebro

Accused of causing the death in an automobile accident near Beverly Hills, of Zachariah T. Underwood, a veteran soldier, Samuel W. Collins was arraigned yesterday before Justice Hanby on a charge of manslaughter.

The defendant was accused of driving in a reckless manner. The accident happened on April 24.

The hearing was set for the 27th inst., and bail was fixed at $10,000. Pending provision for bail, defendant was lodged in the County Jail.

One man was sent to jail, thirteen persons were given suspended sentence, and ten of the thirteen were deprived of their operator's licenses for thirty days, in Police Judge Chesebro's court yesterday. There was only one dismissal.

The total of complaints brought to the attention of the court numbered 316, an increase over the day previous. Fines and bail forfeitures amounted to $4665.

Because he drove his automobile across the intersection of Sunset Boulevard and Elm avenue at thirty-four miles an hour, T. Ogimachi was sentenced to spend two days in jail. He was arrested by Motorcycle Officer Robinson.

Howard Mikesell was found guilty of having driven his car across the intersection of Main and Adams street at twenty-six miles an hour and given a ten-day suspended sentence. He was also deprived of his operator's license for thirty days.

Others who received twenty-day suspended sentences, and were deprived of their operators' licenses for thirty days were: Theodore R. Rasberry, who drove thirty-one miles an hour across Sixth and Union streets; Homer R. Nelson, who drove across Sunset Boulevard and Elm avenue at thirty-five miles an hour; Sam J. Kerlan, found guilty of driving his car across Pasadena avenue and Avenue 43 at thirty-one miles an hour; T. H. Higgins, who drove across Sixth and Union streets at thirty-one miles an hour; R. R. Clark, found guilty of driving across Sixth and Union streets at thirty-one miles an hour; S. Hammer, who drove across the intersection of Hollywood Boulevard and Alessandria avenues at thirty-two miles an hour; Eddie A. Arroyo, who pleaded guilty to driving his automobile across Washington and Union streets, and Wilmer Obermiller, who was found guilty of having driven an automobile across the intersection of Sunset Boulevard and Elm avenue at thirty-five miles an hour. Obermiller was told by Judge Chesebro, that if he violated any traffic law within the next two years he would have to serve twenty days in the City Jail.

INCREASES IN SALARY ARE DENIED

Hopes of Los Angeles High School Teachers Blasted by Board

Hopes entertained by Los Angeles school teachers for salary increases were dashed by the Board of Education yesterday when schedules for the coming year were approved.

A petition asking for an increase in the maximum allowed high school teachers was presented to the board before the vote was taken. The petition was handed the board by Willis E. Norton, president of the High School Teachers' Association, and H. B. Glover, chairman of the salary committee of that organization. They asked that the maximum after ten years of service be increased from $3000 to $3300 a year.

The board voted to continue the present salary schedules for both elementary and high school teachers. The one exception was to grant acting heads of departments serving for more than thirty days an increase of $5 a month.

The registrars of the six high schools were granted a salary increase of $150, bringing their annual compensation to $3000.

Free of Charge and of Husband, Goes to Mother

Irene Azalea Smith yesterday won a divorce from Don Smith after a married life of less than two months. Freed of a husband and on probation following a bad check charge growing out of her desire for beautiful clothes, Mrs. Smith was advised by the court to place herself under her mother's care.

Mrs. Smith appeared in Judge Summerfield's court yesterday asking a divorce on the ground of cruelty. Mr. Smith, she said, called her names, threatened to kill her and struck her. He also took delight in criticising her, she testified. She was represented by Attorney Arthur C. Webb.

Angeleno Held in Bay City on Fraud Charges

A. Liebner, formerly in the poultry business in Los Angeles, was arrested yesterday in San Francisco, according to information received by Constable Thomas. Liebner was taken on a warrant issued here upon the complaint of E. A. Cole, former business associate of the defendant who he accused of obtaining $2500 by false pretenses. Bail has been fixed at $5000 by Justice Forbes. A local officer will leave soon to bring the defendant here for trial.

ROMANCE IS HINTED IN BAKER SUIT

Defendant Admits He Told "Other Woman" of Marital Difficulties

The breath of romance was injected into the Baker divorce trial before Judge Wellborn yesterday. Mrs. Helen Baker charges Arthur Baker, an attorney, with stopping at various hotels with Mrs. Lillian Myers. The registers of these places bear both their names, but the couple were assigned to different rooms, it seems.

Attorney Silverstein, representing Mrs. Myers, hinted at the romance when he asked Mr. Baker if the latter had told Mrs. Myers he was having trouble with Mrs. Helen Baker, his wife. Mr. Baker admitted he had told her they were separated.

Mr. Silverstein would not divulge what this question led up to, but the inference was drawn that it was more than a passing fancy that drew them together, a fancy akin to love.

Mr. Baker was Mrs. Myers's counsel in her divorce suit. The testimony of the present trial shows that they were frequently at the same hotels. The signatures on the registers are not denied by either. Mr. Baker declared that his associations with Mrs. Myers were in connection with legal matters growing out of her divorce suit.

"I thought a great deal of Mrs. Baker," Mr. Baker testified yesterday. "It was the greatest disappointment of my life when I was preparing for a trial of the other case in December, 1920, to learn for the first time that she had told my sister many years before that she had never loved me from the date we were married."

The case will be resumed today.

Bank Checks are Carried by Airplane

For the first time in the history of conveyance an airplane was used by a bank yesterday to expedite its business. Checks and bank items were rushed by hydroairplane from the harbor, after being brought by automobile from the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank at Sixth and Spring streets, to that institution's branch at Avalon, Catalina Island. Checks from the branch of the Federal Reserve bank of this city, which included items from many points in the United States, were included in the cargo. The aggregate amount transferred was over $35,000.

The important papers were intrusted by Motley H. Flint, vice-president of the bank, to the care of C. B. Pyle, who, during the war, served as aviator and pilot. He is now representative of the trust department of the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank.

The trip from the harbor to Catalina was made in one of the hydroairplanes of the Pacific Marine Airways Company, piloted by Paul Haaren. All items carried to the branch bank will bear the imprint of a hydroairplane.

He Argued; She Kept Quiet and is Given Decree

Mrs. Genevieve Shelley told Judge Hahn in divorce proceedings yesterday that she kept silent when her husband, Thomas W. Shelley, was in a talkative mood. So while there were two present, only one apparently was quarreling.

The one-sided argument made Mr. Shelley angry and his wife said he chased her around the house until she took refuge in a closet and locked herself in, still hearing him. This and other purported acts won Mrs. Shelley a decree.

Mrs. Heil Given Parole; Placed in Sanatorium

Mrs. Ella Bell Heil, divorced wife of a prominent Chicago business man, who mystified the police of Chicago by mysterious robberies of the homes of wealthy citizens, was paroled to Mrs. Jean McCracken by the Lunacy Board yesterday and placed in a private sanatorium. The commission found her mentally sick.

Mrs. Heil is wealthy. She posed as a maid, gaining access to the homes of the rich, and looted jewels and goods amounting to thousands of dollars. She sold none of the articles and said she did not know why she stole them.

Triple Killing Threat Figures in Divorce Suit

A matrimonial Pozzi was Gustav Lehman, according to a suit for divorce filed against him yesterday by Mrs. Pauline Lehman. Mrs. Lehman determined that this title fitted her husband, she says, when he declared:

"I am going to marry a woman with money—all I want is money."

Mrs. Lehman also states that her husband promised a triple funeral. When asked what he meant he stated that he was going to kill Mrs. Lehman, her father and himself.

ANNULS MARRIAGE

Court Frees Actress From Her Youthful Husband

Judge Summerfield yesterday granted Mrs. Iola Kelly Jones, an actress, an annulment of her marriage to Charles H. Jones. The evidence was that she was 21 and he 19 years of age when they married and that Mr. Jones had not obtained the consent of his parents to wed. Mrs. Jones learned the fact through her mother-in-law, she said.

Hubbard May be Charged With Murder Following Death of Cope

Dennie E. Cope, 37 years of age, of 3295 Alhambra avenue, who was shot, according to the police by Joseph Hubbard, aged 50 years, in an altercation concerning Miss Lillian Hopkins at the latter's apartment at 1616 North Coronado street Wednesday night, died at the Receiving Hospital late yesterday.

The charge of assault with a deadly weapon against Hubbard, who is now in the City Jail, will be changed to one of murder, according to detectives. Miss Hopkins is being held as a material witness.

The girl yesterday stated that Hubbard and Cope had quarreled at the Coronado-street address after she had telephoned to Cope to protect her against Hubbard, who she said was abusing her.

Hubbard is said to have asserted that he had only meant to scare Cope away with the gun and that it accidentally was discharged.

Cope before he expired told the police that he and Miss Hopkins had been acquainted for many months and that he had been kicked out of the girl's apartment by Hubbard when he went there in answer to her call for help.

MOTHER'S HEROISM SAVES SON

Puts Out Blazing Clothing by Rolling Him on Lawn; Child May Recover

At first believed to have been fatally burned when his clothes caught fire from an ignited gas heater, Calvin Russell, 5 years of age, may live, according to Police Surgeon Saverien, who treated the lad at the Receiving Hospital yesterday afternoon. The probable saving of his life was attributed by the police to his mother, Mrs. Kate Russell, who, when she found her son with his clothes ablaze in their home at 716 East Fortieth street, extinguished the flames by rolling him in the grass on the lawn. In doing so she painfully burned her left hand. A second son, Gene, 2 years old, was slightly burned when he came into contact with the flaming clothes of his brother.

According to the police, the lad's clothes caught fire from a gas heater which Mrs. Russell had lighted in the bathroom. As she went out on the front porch it is believed the two small boys entered the bathroom and in playing with the gas heater came in touch with the flame. Mrs. Russell was aided in the rescue of her sons by William Van Kestern of 741 East Thirty-ninth street, who was passing the Russell home at the time. He called the police and fire departments, and the lads were taken to the Receiving Hospital in the University police ambulance. The fire damage to the residence was estimated at several hundreds of dollars.

Wanted in East, Man is Already in San Quentin

Although it is understood that an officer from New Haven, Ct., is on his way to Los Angeles to take Harry E. Eyer back to that city to stand trial, it was disclosed yesterday that Eyer is already in San Quentin prison in this State. Eyer was arrested with Earl B. and Nahlor B. Burwell on a charge of assault with intent to murder Police Officer Smith. It was stated that he was wanted for a similar charge in the East. Each time he is said to have attacked an officer.

In the meantime, Eyer pleaded guilty, and before eastern officers could reach here, he was sent to prison, leaving the County Jail on the 12th inst.

It was reported yesterday that the Chief of Police of New Haven is on his way here to take Eyer East for trial. As the man is now in prison, the officer will be unable to take him, it was stated.

Arrowhead Lake Plans Explained to Lions' Club

Plans for development of Arrowhead Lake were explained yesterday by A. E. Warmington, general manager of the Arrowhead Lake Company, at a meeting of the Lions' Club at the Alexandria. Mr. Warmington explained that every effort was being made to provide an all-year 'round resort for Californians and an attraction which will be of interest to thousands of tourists who come to California each year.

The Arrowhead Company recently purchased the lake, originally known as Little Bear Lake, from the Mooney interests of Ohio. The plans call for the building of a hotel, numerous cottages, the installation of a water system, gas system and highways, the latter making it possible to enter the resort during the winter months when the present roads are practically impassable.

The club's entertainment program included an Indian wigwam scene with an Indian soloist and an Indian dancer.

El Centro Boy Falls Beneath Car; Loses Leg

URGE NEW SYSTEM OF PENSIONING

Councilmen Condemn the City's Present Method and May Seek Expert's Advice

Members of the City Council yesterday condemned the present police and fire pension system as being out of date, unscientific and an unnecessary burden on the taxpayers. Councilman Wheeler declared that firemen and other city employees endangered their lives in their daily work as much as do policemen and firemen. He urged that all city employees should be pensioned under a system to be worked out by an actuary, which would be participated in by the employees, as well as by the taxpayers, so that the pensions would not drain the city treasury. San Francisco and other cities have a system of this kind in operation, and the Council may decide to employ William L. Leslie, a consulting actuary of San Francisco, to work out a similar plan for Los Angeles.

Several members of the Council yesterday criticised efforts of police and firemen to get charter amendments which would perpetuate and enlarge the present system. Councilman Mushet said that inasmuch as these charter amendment petitions would undoubtedly be presented the city could save $3000, the cost of checking these petitions, by the Council's ordering the amendments placed on the ballot. His motion to that effect was defeated.

IMPERIAL BREAKING RECORDS

Cantaloupe Shipments Hit New Mark; Expect a Crop of 13,000 Cars

Imperial Valley cantaloupe shipping records are being smashed by the Southern Pacific, according to an announcement yesterday by General Freight Agent Saunders, who stated that more than 500 cars of cantaloupes were shipped out of the district Wednesday and 420 cars the day before. The former record for one day's forwarding of cantaloupes from this district was 349 cars, shipped during the peak of the 1919 season.

Although the Imperial Valley cantaloupe season this year was two weeks late, it is expected to break all former shipping records for the district, and according to estimates of railroad officials and government agricultural authorities, more than 13,000 cars of this commodity will move out of the valley during the season. Last year's shipments, which surpassed all previous records, totalled 10,686 cars.

"Owing to the highly perishable nature of cantaloupes," said Mr. Saunders, "the shipments are handled with all possible haste and perishable trains move on fast freight schedules."

The present Imperial Valley cantaloupe season began the 4th inst. and is expected to continue until the early part of August.

Federal Jury Frees Miller of Conspiracy

A jury in U. S. District Judge Bledsoe's court yesterday acquitted Fred Miller of El Centro, jointly charged with J. A. Kirkpatrick and Ira Sharp with conspiring to bring four Chinese aliens into the country. Kirkpatrick had previously pleaded guilty and been sentenced to eighteen months in the Federal penitentiary on McNeil's Island. Sharp had entered a similar plea, but has not yet been sentenced.

Miller was the owner of a truck used by Sharp and Kirkpatriek in carrying the Chinese, who were captured on the road near Indio last February. Miller admitted that he leased the truck to Sharp, but asserted that Sharp told him he intended to use the machine for carrying ice for the lettuce crops in the Imperial Valley. The only question before the jury was whether Miller knew the illegal use to which the truck was to be put, and the jury voted to acquit him.

Miller had scores of citizens in El Centro to testify in his behalf. Kirkpatrick was brought down from McNeil Island to testify, but his memory was poor. Sharp declared that Miller knew all about the deal.

CONTRACTS DENIED

Film Stars Are Witnesses in Case Against Stock Operator

Rosemary Theby and Lon Chaney, cinema stars, appeared yesterday in Justice Forbes's court in the hearing of A. Lincoln Miller, and Mrs. Helen Miller, and denied that the defendants held contracts with them. The defendants are accused of violation of the Corporate Securities Act in selling securities without a State permit. It is charged the defendants asserted they had contracts with certain film actors and actresses. The case, which is being prosecuted by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Orme, was continued until today.

RIVER FALLING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL CENTRO, June 23.—Two-tenths of a foot fall in the Colorado River is reported from the United States government gauge at Yuma today. Pescadero Cut was carrying a discharge of 104,000 second feet, the high figure for flood water there this season.

CASE CONTINUED

After brief testimony yesterday by Lillian May Deeg, age 17 years, in the hearing of Trinidad Lacayo, vice-consul for Costa Rico, the case was continued by Justice Brown until the 29th inst. Lacayo is accused in two complaints of offenses against young girls. The continuance was asked by Dep. Dist.-Atty. McDaniel.

VITAL POINT CLOUDED BY TESTIMONY

Youth Says Shells Found in Beverly Glen Not There in First Search

The possibility that the shells found in the Beverly Glen road the morning following the murder of J. Belton Kennedy were from some gun other than that used by the assassin assumed the aspect of a probability yesterday when, during the trial of Mrs. Madalynne C. Obenchain, young Tom Beaumont testified that the shells exhibited in the trial were not on the road during his first search early in the morning.

The lad stated that with officers he helped search the glen for evidence early in the morning, but that it was not until some hours later that he, in company with Otis M. Wiles, a newspaper reporter, found the empty shells. He said he had passed over the spot where the shells were found some hours before.

J. J. Finley, who was physician at the jail at the time Arthur C. Burch was arrested, retold his story of removing a thorn from Burch's knee. C. M. Sprankling, who was in the jail at the time, stated that when Finley made a motion as if to take out the thorn, he turned and winked at Sprankling.

It is quite possible, according to Deputy Dist.-Atty. Keyes, that the two mysterious witnesses which the State has promised to introduce may testify today. It was announced yesterday that a prominent attorney, who at one time was to defend Madalynne, would be called. Mr. Keyes denied this, however.

IMPERIAL TO OBSERVE BIRTHDAY

Delegations from Towns Over Valley to Gather in Brawley Today

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BRAWLEY, June 23.—Delegations from all towns and farming sections of Imperial Valley with floats and autos will join in the valley's "Coming of Age Birthday Party" here tomorrow, when Imperial Valley celebrates the twenty-first anniversary of the date when irrigation water was first turned into the canals.

Brawley has raised $1000 and the other towns have matched this amount to finance the festivities.

With floats symbolic of the valley's progress the parade will march at noon, followed by a barbecue.

At 2:30 Mayor E. W. Cuff will welcome the visitors, with a response by G. Ellis Wiest, president of the Imperial County Farm Bureau. Moving pictures, "Putting the Collar on the Colorado," will be exhibited during the day.

From 6 to 7 p.m. the Brawley Commercial Club will serve its annual melon feast. Dancing begins at 8:30.

Sanborn and Whitnall Are Again on Job

Councilman Sanborn and Secretary-Consultant Whitnall of the City Planning Commission returned to the City Hall yesterday after attending the National City Planning Conference at Springfield, Mass. They returned to Los Angeles overland by automobile. Their running time from Springfield to Los Angeles was eleven days. Three additional days were required for a side trip to Milwaukee, Wis., where the two city officials inspected the sewage disposal treatment plants there. "This plant," said Councilman Sanborn, "treats the sewage most satisfactorily, but the cost of operation is high."

The officials said that they made the trip in their Dodge car without accident, except for a tire puncture. The roads, they said, were in good condition. They followed the National Old Trails route passing through Kansas City, Trinidad, Colo., Santa Fe, Albuquerque and Gallup, N. M., and Flagstaff and Kingman, Ariz., thence to Needles and to Los Angeles.

Husband Leaves Wife Who Saved Him from Jail

Mrs. Charlotte B. Lynch believed it to be her wifely duty to go to the rescue of her husband, Joseph J. Lynch, when he was arrested some time ago for stealing an automobile, she told Judge Summerfield yesterday in divorce proceedings. He was in jail and she said that she obtained bail for him. He was released from jail and while she was in a doctor's office, he disappeared, "without saying good-by," she declared.

Her story of the arrest was corroborated by Detective McMann, who testified in his shirtsleeves, having been hurriedly called while he was on his vacation. He said that Lynch was traced to Elizabeth, N. J., where his trail was lost. The court granted Mrs. Lynch a divorce. She was represented by Attorney McLachlan.

County Sues to Fix City's Part of Fines

Los Angeles county, which has in the treasury $7185 collected for violations of the Motor Vehicle Act, yesterday filed suit against forty-one cities to determine what proportion of these fines goes to each under the law. The complaint, filed through Deputy County Counsel Utter, compiles the fines as collected from the following cities: Azusa, $2052.50; Beverly Hills, $356; El Segundo, $716; Huntington Park, $295; Inglewood, $3106.45; San Marino, $293; Sierra Madre, $324, Whittier, $28.

Certain of the defendant cities, it is charged, never enforce the Motor Vehicle Act, but seek to en-

ESPEE MERGER HEARING ASKED

Commerce Chamber Appeals to Federal Commission

Consolidation Continuation Urged in Resolution

Separation Termed Inimical to Interests of Coast

Declaring that the long-standing consolidated operation of the Southern Pacific and Central Pacific is for the best interests of the Pacific Coast, the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce adopted a resolution yesterday requesting "that the Interstate Commerce Commission hold a hearing as early as possible to the end that this may be brought about."

The resolution follows:

Whereas, the Supreme Court decision of May 29 requires the Southern Pacific to cancel its lease of the Central Pacific, to sell its Central Pacific stock, and to bring about separation of the two companies so that control of their operations will be separate and independent of each other, and,

Whereas, the Central Pacific has been leased to the Southern Pacific for thirty-seven years, or since February, 1885, and the Southern Pacific has been the actual owner of the entire capital stock of the organized Central Pacific for twenty-two years or since 1899, and,

Whereas, the Transportation Act of 1920 has prepared a plan for consolidating the railroads into a limited number of systems and in this tentative plan the Southern Pacific and the Central Pacific remain together;

Now, therefore, be it resolved, that in the opinion of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce it would be to the best interests of the Pacific Coast States to have the consolidation of them kept to remain and they be operated in the same way as they have been in the past, and we earnestly request that the Interstate Commerce Commission hold a hearing as early as possible to the end that this may be brought about.

I hereby certify that the above is a true and correct copy of resolution adopted by the board of directors of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, at the regular meeting on Thursday, June 22, 1922.

Fine Homes are Endangered by Fire in Brush

Many fine homes in Hollywood were endangered by flames into yesterday when a fierce brush fire broke out in Hollywood Park from an unknown cause. The blaze, fanned by a strong breeze, spread over a large portion of the residential section adjoining Cahuenga Pass. Half of the park, an area of twenty acres, was burned over by the roaring flames, according to the police.

For three hours the entire night force of the Hollywood police, thirty firemen from stations in Hollywood, and more than 100 citizens battled with the spreading flames, finally succeeding in confining the blaze to the brush. Shovels and gunny sacks, and hydrants of water were used by the fire fighters.

"It was necessary to turn out the entire night shift of firemen in order to fight the fire," stated Capt. George Home of the Hollywood division, who, with his secretary, B. Walker, headed one of the divisions of the fire fighters.

Tearful Plea Fails to Save Dry Violator

The court of [illegible] was sympathetic yesterday.

Yesterday, in United States Judge Trippet's court, despite the tearful appeal of a pretty young woman who said she was a sister of Noah Young, the latter and his partner, Ernest H. Dilloven, were fined $700 each for violation of the Volstead Law, and ordered sent to the San Diego County Jail until the fine is paid. Both men pleaded guilty.

Young and his sister came here from Detroit some months ago, and it seemed from the evidence in the case that when Jack could not get a job, he doubled with Dilloven in the bootlegging game.

They were caught in Imperial county with forty-eight quarts of whisky on their backs, having brought the stuff in from Mexico, and were hiking northward when captured by immigration officers.

Wife's Divorce Plea Asserts Man is Stingy

The fine line between necessities and extravagances was drawn, it seems, by William F. Storey, who was sued yesterday for divorce by Mrs. Evelyn Storey. Mrs. Storey states in her complaint that while her hubby spent $25 for a golden rod and another $5 for bait, he objected to her wanting $5 for a hat, telling her that the old one was good enough.

In the complaint, which was prepared by Attorney Jesse R. Fisher, it is recounted that the husband spent "all kinds of money" on his sporting equipment. He charged his wife was not a "pal," and that he wanted a woman who could "cook and camp like a man."

QUITS FEDERAL JOB

Robert E. Ferguson, for the past four years a special agent of the Department of Justice, yesterday tendered his resignation, to take effect immediately. He will be connected with the Pacific Coast Underwriters' Conference of this city, in charge of the theft bureau.

PLAN PARTIES FOR "CARMEN"

Ebell Members to Entertain at Opera

Republican Women to Talk on Current Politics

Galpin Shakespeare Club Meets Tomorrow

BY MYRA NYE

"Have you arranged your party for the production of 'Carmen' in the Hollywood Bowl?" was the question repeated Monday at the reception following the installation of officers of the Ebell Club.

Prominent members of Ebell who will have parties are: Mrs. Grantland Seaton Long, newly elected president; Mrs. Charles H. Toll, Mrs. Frank O. Jean, Mrs. Chester C. Ashley, Mrs. William Millspaugh, Mrs. M. E. Hammond, Mrs. Serena D. Brauer, Mrs. Leafie Sloan-Orcutt, Mrs. William A. Moses, Mrs. William Ernest Mabee and Miss Myra Belle Miller.

The Woman's Club of Hollywood is virtually unanimous in support of the opera. An illustrated lecture of the story and music of the Bizat opera will be given Friday, the 30th inst., in the clubhouse auditorium at 8 p.m. Dean Nagel of the department of music at the University of Minnesota, will present the program and will be assisted by prominent local artists.

Marguerite Sylva will sing the title role at the out-of-door performance of "Carmen" in the Hollywood Bowl, July 8. Edward Johnson, leading tenor of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, and Henri Scott, principal baritone of the Metropolitan, are two other artists.

Reservations for boxes have been made by George Birkel, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Toberman, Mrs. W. K. Parkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chandler and others.

Republican Study Club

At the meeting of the Republican Study Club today at 2:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the Dillon League Club, 255 South Hill street, Mrs. Frank A. Kelly will appear on the program leading in current politics; Mab Copeland Lineman on "Community Property Laws," and Judge Summerfield on "Court of Domestic Relations."

Mrs. Florence Collins Porter will preside. The executive board will meet at 1:30 p.m.

Galpin Shakespeare Club

The Kate Tupper Galpin Shakespeare Club will meet in the garden of the Friday Morning clubhouse tomorrow at 12:30 p.m. There will be a basket luncheon brought by the members and the club will serve tea and coffee. The afternoon program is in charge of Ellen Galpin. Guests are welcome.

Parent-Teacher Association

A carnival on the Allesandro school grounds will be given by the Allesandro P.-T.A. today beginning at 3 p.m. Supper will be served.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.
Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

I, I, I: I, MYSELF: I
THE HISTORY OF ME BY ME
Chapter XIV
My Daily Dozen

T'u njat jeta! I'll bet you don't know what that means? I do. I heard my doctor tell about it. It is a salutation of the Albanian people, and it means "To you long life!" Isn't that a pretty salutation? It is also used on leave-taking. It is pronounced Tu-nea-te-aita.

The doctor was telling my family more about the Albanian babies today and it made me awfully glad that I came to my American mama and papa instead of to an Albanian mama and papa.

So many of them suffer from the binding in their tiny cradles, or, rather, on the cradles. For the cradles are short, shallow, wooden affairs and the mamas put in a big pillow stuffed with straw and the pillow extends out over the cradles and then the babies are bound on that. Isn't it terrible!

The mountain and village tribes strap their babies, cradles and all, on their backs, and they will walk long distances to the market centers with their babies in this manner. Of course, when they do that way, they have to bind the babies on very tightly so they will not fall off. Some of the mamas who used to come to the Red Cross baby clinics would walk eight to ten hours and even longer in this manner, to get to them.

At the head end of the cradle is a hoop of wood. Over that and the baby they put a heavy blanket. It is the custom throughout the Balkan, doctor says, to bind babies in this manner, and many times they are not taken up even to nurse. The mama squats down on the floor and tips the cradle, with the poor little baby in it, over to her and nurses it in that manner.

Once when the doctor was giving her daily talk to the mamas at the baby station, she told them about how the binding was making the babies flat headed and have deformed chests, and how they must suffer, and how they got no exercise, and so on. And she took a stiff little bundle of a baby and told the mamas to watch and see what the baby did when she unbound it.

She got the binding off of his chest and arms. First one little arm went up and stretched itself way over his head, and then the other, and it yawned a big yawn filling its released lungs with some fresh air—it was too cunning for words the way it showed its relief. The mamas all laughed. The Albanians have a keen sense of humor. And doctor said: "Now, you see, mamas, how much the little baby needs this freedom."

Can you wonder that so many of the Balkan babies die when they are bound down like that, and have the heavy blankets over their heads? But doctor has great hopes for the Balkan peoples now that they are going to be able to develop, for she says they are very intelligent. She says, of course, the newer ideas of living will have to be brought about mostly with the younger generation, for the older people, like the older people of all nations, do not take to new ideas so readily.

She told of once visiting a family and finding the cradle enlarged and the baby not bound, and the heavy blanket not over the cradle. She complimented the mama, and the mama laughed and said to thank the little 4-year-old brother who had heard doctor tell the mamas how harmful it was. She said that when she put the blanket over the cradle the little boy would take it off and say: "No, no, mama, nue meer! Doctorsha thot, 'Nuc meer!'—Doctor ladys says not good!"—Wasn't that dear of him?

Gee, I'm sure glad I am not bound down, and my clothes are loose and comfortable so that I can move my arms and legs easily. And besides that, every afternoon about 5 o'clock, when I am changed to my night clothes, all of my clothes are taken off and I kick and stretch and wave my arms about at a great rate.

I do this in the morning, too, when I have my bath. Father calls it my daily dozen. It is lots of fun, and my legs are straightening out beautifully. You know we babies are all born more or less bow-legged, and exercise like this helps our bones to straighten and our muscles to grow. And if we are fed right we won't get bowlegged afterward. Au revoir. T'u njat jeta!

THE COLUMN BABY

To the many of you who have written to keep our column baby's name Sockum, and that he is an adorable baby, thank you! He is adorable, for he is a composite of some of the dearest of the tribe of babies that I have known. The Adorable Sockums. So be it!

SOCIETY

BY VIRGINIA WOODS

To Give Annual Picnic

Mr. and Mrs. Hathaway Bixby will give their annual all-day picnic and barbecue on Wednesday at their home, Rancho Los Alamitos, Long Beach. All the family connections, including the children as well as intimate friends and their sons and daughters, are invited to these picnics.

Mr. Holterhoff Gives Dinner

In honor of Mr. and Mrs. William Erie Fowler, Godfrey Holterhoff gave a dinner last evening at his West Adams street home. Mr. Holterhoff will leave early next month for Europe, where he will join Mrs. Holterhoff. He will meet their daughter, Miss Lelia Holterhoff, in New York, and she will accompany him abroad.

Miss Kean Going Abroad

Miss Georgia Kean is leaving Sunday to join Mrs. Bennett Young and Miss Elizabeth Young, wife and daughter of a Louisville (Ky.) judge, with whom she will sail the first of next month for a trip abroad. They will tour France and Italy and make further plans after they reach Paris. They expect to be gone three months.

Dunns to Entertain

Mr. and Mrs. William Ellsworth Dunn will give a dinner party at the Bolsa Chica Gun Club Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Spreckels Here

Mr. and Mrs. Claus Spreckels of Coronado, who are enjoying a motor trip through the State, stopped for a few days here and were at the Alexandria, where they entertained a few friends at dinner last evening.

To Compliment Miss Bishop

Miss Virginia Bishop, just home from school at La Jolla, will greet 200 of her girl and boy friends at a dinner-dance given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Bishop, Jr., of West Adams street, this evening, at Flintridge Country Club.

Honors Miss Strodthoff

Miss Jeannette Strodthoff, who is leaving Monday for a trip East and to Canada, will be the honor guest at a tea given by Miss Dorothy Francis this afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Francis, of 356 South Oxford avenue. She has asked 100 guests, and a bevy of girls will assist at the tea tables.

To Give Dinner Dance

Miss Helen Parrine will entertain at a dinner-dance tomorrow evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Perrine of 2229 Gramercy Place. She will have forty-eight of the subdebutante set at the party.

Mrs. Roberts Honored

Mrs. E. Granger Roberts of Sawtelle, who is visiting in San Francisco, was guest of honor at a bridge party given by Mrs. Henry W. Edmonds, wife of Capt. Edmonds, U.S.A., at her quarters in the Presidio. Capt. and Mrs. Edmonds will give a dinner-dance at the Palace Hotel tomorrow evening.

Miss Thatcher Leaving

Miss Marygean Thatcher will leave tomorrow for a two months' visit in Portland and La Grande, Or., where she will be the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer I. Stoddard.

Announced in Cleveland

The engagement of Darwin W. Pierce, Jr., of this city, and Miss Louise Manchester of Cleveland, O., was announced there early in the week by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Manchester. The wedding will take place in Cleveland in the autumn. Mr. Pierce is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Pierce, and is connected with the insurance company of Wheeler Bros. & Pierce.

Gives Attractive Luncheon

Miss Margaret Gray gave a luncheon yesterday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Gray of Fourth avenue. Summer blossoms in orchid, blue and orange shades were massed in a crystal bowl to center the table at which there were places for Misses Marion Kellogg, Dorothy Brown, Hortense McLaughlin, Genevieve Maier, Elizabeth Taylor, Adele Smith, Cosette Cook, Virginia Lee Martin, Marie Haggerty, Katherine Howard and Mae Wild.

Miss Stratton Gives Tea.

A charming affair yesterday was Miss Lois Stratton's garden tea in honor of Miss Margaret Baily of Tennessee, and Mrs. George Conkling, who has just come here from Missouri. Miss Stratton and Miss Baily were schoolmates in New York. There were 100 guests at the tea.

At Garden Wedding

At noon yesterday Miss Margaret McDonald and Paul Hemway of Oakland were married at a garden ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George McDonald, on West Adams street. The couple stood before a floral altar in the rose arbor where Rev. Paul Strong read the marriage service. There were 200 guests. The bride was gowned in white brocade, wore a small hat and carried orchids and lilies of the valley. Mrs. H. Hopper, her sister, was matron of honor. She was in sports attire and carried yellow roses. Misses Gladys Walker, Grace Gee, Peggy Russell and June Peters were bridesmaids, and wore Russian silk sports frocks in rainbow shades and carried sweet peas. Small Dorothy McDonald, frocked in blue, was flower girl, and Bennett McDonald was ring bearer. Herbert Stanley, U.S.N., was best man, and the ushers were Peters Nye, Paul Scaldron, George Holmes and Robert Smith. A reception and breakfast followed. The groom, who is a graduate of the University of California, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hemway of Oakland. After a trip to Europe the couple will reside in Oakland.

After-Dinner Tricks

No. 223—The Traveling Card

A playing card is pushed into the center of the pack. Upon riffling the pack, the card passes to the top.

To accomplish this feat, provide yourself with an extra card from another pack, say the three of hearts. Secretly place the real three on top of the pack, and slip the extra card on the bottom of the pack. Turn the pack over, face up, and take the duplicate three, as though it were the first card to come to hand. Spread out the cards, still face up, and push the duplicate card into the center of the pack. Turn the pack face down, riffle the cards, and exhibit the genuine three on top. At the first opportunity, run through the pack and remove the extra card. It does not matter if its back is of a different design than those of the pack, as its back is not shown during the trick.

The Daily Fun Hour

BY HONOR WALSH

Fish Game

A board should be provided with two or three square holes cut in it at equal distances apart. The lower hole should be only a trifle longer than the beanbags, the second hole a little larger, and the top hole largest. This board is elevated at one end so that it slants down at an angle of forty-five degrees. The high end may rest against a tree or a fence. One player should keep score.

The players stand in line four yards away from the inclined board. Five beanbags rest on the ground. When the signal is given, the first player takes the beanbags one after another and tosses them toward the inclined board. If a bag falls into the top hole, it scores five; a bag landing in the second hole counts ten, and if a player can throw a beanbag into the third, the smallest hole, it counts fifteen for him. Game is 100.

The beanbags should be recovered by each thrower and handed to the next player, although in some games each player has five beanbags. If ten or more are playing it is greater fun to divide into teams and to score by sides. In this form, game is fifty. At a picnic or wherever large numbers of players are gathered, there may be two or three boards for a lively game between different groups. Where there are no boards available, square holes may be made in any inclined bank of earth or of moist sand and any small missiles may be substituted for the beanbags.

When Roasting Fowl

Put three tablespoonfuls of water into the meat tin at the bottom of the gas stove when roasting a fowl in the oven. This will form steam, which will make the bird tender and obviate continual basting.

Your Own Pattern Maker

To mark trimming or basting lines on paper patterns, unthread the sewing machine and stitch where desired. This will make a plainly marked pattern.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Gingham Dresses

Put your new gingham in a pan of cold, salty water for an hour, and then hang smoothly, letting it drip dry. When you make it up you will know it will neither shrink nor fade.

Discolored Aluminum

If your aluminum saucepan has become discolored, boil a few stalks of rhubarb in it and let it stand overnight. When it is washed in soapy water you will find it has recovered its former luster.

Practical Pointers

Do not garnish a dish that has to be carved.

Never allow the silver to stand unwashed overnight.

Put a teaspoonful of salt in the cooked starch and the iron will not stick.

Brown sugar that has become very hard may be grated on a common fruit grater.

Cranberries can be made more appetizing if put through the meat chopper before they are cooked.

Kitchen Lore

Puffed bread should snap when broken.

Try serving hard sauce with hot apple pie.

Never allow oranges to stand after slicing, as they become bitter.

When frying doughnuts, never put a great many in the fat at one time.

Irons will keep hot a long time if kept on the soapstone of a fireless cooker.

Time for Canning

The first green things of spring are here, so the time for canning has arrived. Have your utensils in readiness, so there will be no hitch when you see the things you want to do up at the right price. A large preserving kettle, a two-quart saucepan, a colander, skimmer and spoon and the necessary jars with rubbers and tops that fit securely. Then the housekeeper is prepared for any emergency.

Selecting Fish

When buying fish remember a fresh fish has bright red gills, the eyes are bright and protruding and the flesh is firm.

To Clean Crusts

Put crushed eggshells and a little water in your vinegar cruet when it is stained and shake well. The stains will completely disappear.

Water Spots on Gloves

For rain or water spots on kid gloves do not let them dry, but, while still damp, keep them on the hands and rub very gently with a damp cloth.

Home-Made Mustard

Mix two tablespoonfuls of mustard flour, a half-teaspoonful of sugar and a pinch of salt; add a little vinegar and enough boiling water to make a paste.

High colored floral decorated walls with dove gray woodwork, tend to keep the breakfast room cool and refreshing. A glass-topped wicker table with chintz covered chairs should be used. A floor of rose tile with apple green cementing adds charm. Drapes of canary yellow tulle with overdrapes of the same covering that is used for the chairs and table may be hung in the French doors.

Charm That Endures

There are just two things that will give an element of charm in wall decoration over a long period of time:

QUALITY in the materials, and HARMONY in their use.

Apply paints, enamels, varnishes or wall paper with an eye to agreeable blendings and contrasts and you create an enduring attractiveness.

It is the function of Mathews Paint Company not only to furnish you materials of finest quality, but to co-operate with you in securing the most attractive results.

The color scheme above calls for the following Mathews specialties:

Imported Wall Paper of floral design.

Permolite Enamel.

Cement Floor Coating.

FLASHES

TO POINT THE WAY

WILLIAM SEITER WILL DIRECT HELEN EDDY

By Grace Kingsley

Now we're going to have a chance to see what frail woman can really do when it comes to competing in the picture production field with great, rude men.

Ray Carroll begins the first of her Ray Carroll productions, starring Helen Eddy, at the Robertson-Cole studio, on Monday, and the palpitating question as to who should direct the first of these productions was laid at rest yesterday when it was settled that William A. Seiter is the man for the job. Mr. Seiter has just completed the series of Doris May features for Robertson-Cole, and before that he made several pictures for Thomas H. Ince, including one or two starring Douglas MacLean.

The first series of Ray Carroll productions in which Miss Eddy will appear will be called "Love's Coming of Age," and it is to be photographed, edited and cut by the same organization of experts who have been associated with Mr. Seiter in all his recent screen successes. Included in the personnel of the staff are Joseph A. Dubray, cameraman, Al Irving, assistant, Ralph Waters, assistant director, and Ray H. Lesk, production manager.

In order that Miss Eddy may fully realize that she is now a real star with a hand-painted dressing-room and everything, a special suite of rooms is being set aside for her use at the studio, and a whole New England street is being built for her picture.

The cast who will support Miss Eddy is being assembled and will be announced later.

Clyde Cook Weds

Is Clyde Cook, the Fox comedian, a benedict? That's what all his friends are asking. A marriage license was issued to one, Clyde Cook, and Florence Miller, on Tuesday. When Mr. Cook was asked concerning the matter at the studio he didn't reply, but blushed to the roots of his hair and dashed out, hopped into his car and was gone. In applying for his marriage license Clyde Cook did not state his occupation. But as a Florence Miller is known to have registered for pictures, it looks as though circumstantial evidence were strong in favor of Cook's being a blushing bridegroom.

Screen Folk Abroad

Traveling abroad is the thing, now-a-days, for players and film magnates. Albert E. Smith, president of the Vitagraph company, and Mrs. Smith, known to the screen as Jean Paige, have sailed for an extended trip through England and France, according to word just received.

Screen Revivals

Stage revivals are difficult and arduous, not to say ticklish things to accomplish. But not so on the screen. All you have to do to revive an old film play is to take it off the shelf and dust it off, and there's your old original cast and everything fresh and bright as ever.

Now it's William Fox who will release his film version of "Salome," made several years ago with Theda Bara in the title role. It is anticipated that complications may result, inasmuch as Nazimova has just completed an elaborate version of the same story, which she has placed on the market.

When D. W. Griffith released his version of "The Two Orphans" Mr. Fox unfortunately had an old film production or story of the same name. However, this matter was settled when Griffith paid Fox $85,000.

Aimee Torrianni in It

Aimee Torrianni, who has been appearing in pictures, following a stage career, yesterday played the leading role in a sketch presented at the Hillstreet Orpheum, acquitting herself so cleverly that it seems likely the sketch will be booked for a tour over one or other of the vaudeville circuits.

Film Folk on Stage

George Sherwood and Ethel Shannon, who have been supporting Willard Mack in his vaudeville tour, have contracted with Leslie T. Peacocke to appear in vaudeville in a playlet of Peacocke's, entitled "The Dupe."

Here and There

"Home-Made Movies" will be the title of the next Ben Turpin two-reel special being produced by Mack Sennett Comedies for First National release. Phyllis Haver is leading woman opposite the screen hero with the aimless eyes.

William Wallace Reid, son of Wallace Reid, Paramount star, has just had another birthday. Having attained to the mature age of 6 years, Bill's father has presented him with a .32-caliber Smith & Wesson shootin' iron and a cartridge belt.

Lew Cody has learned to swear in Eskimo and Indian while mushing a dog team during the making of "Valley of Silent Men."

Julia Crawford Ivers, well-known scenario writer, has returned to the Lasky studio after a trip to Honolulu and a rest of several months' duration.

COMEDY REVIVED

"Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" at Pasadena

"The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," one of the staple comedies of the past decade, is being revived by the Pasadena Community Players. This Anne Warner comedy makes excelelnt warm weather dramatic fare and the Crown City players are distinguishing themselves in it.

Mrs. Arthur H. Palmer is playing Aunt Mary, which role was originally created by May Robson. It is a part that seems to have been made for Mrs. Palmer. She is ably supported by George Bratt, Walter Ogier, Jr., Howard Stanton, George Frost, Ellen Rowena Elliot, Alice Houseman, Frances Bartlett and a group of other players.

This is the final production of the current season of the Pasadena Community Players. "Aunt Mary" is on show every evening this week and two Saturday matinees. Gilmore Brown directs the production.

PLAYDOM

ROBIN HOOD SPEEDING

COMPLETE CAMERA WORK ON FEATURE IN JULY

By Edwin Schallert

Early fall release of Douglas Fairbanks's production of "Robin Hood" is now assured. The picture will be completed the end of July, according to present indications, and the cutting, titling and editing will be done in August. Early in September, it is expected, the feature will be ready for shipment.

Mr. Fairbanks has been on location on the Verdugo Woodland estate, making some of the outdoor love scenes of the story. He is arranging shortly to go on a more distant location for the Sherwood forest scenes.

There remain to be shot some of the most difficult episodes in the picture, like the battle between the forces of Richard Coeur de Lion and Robin Hood's band, and those of Prince John and Guy of Gisborne, which form the climax of the picture. Also the final shots in the tournament where Guy of Gisborne is unhorsed by the Earl of Huntington (Robin Hood) are yet to be photographed. Most of the tournament scenes were shot early in the filming, but it was decided not to take the risky part of the combat until the completion of the picture, because of the danger of an accident.

Tourneur Returning

Having stirred up excitement in Trafalgar Square and startled the natives of the Isle of Man, the Goldwyn picture unit directed by Maurice Tourneur is returning to this country. Mr. Tourneur and his staff, besides the leading players, Richard Dix and Mae Busch, will sail for America June 21. They have been securing exteriors for "The Christian" in the actual settings of the story.

One thousand extras were used in the Trafalgar Square scenes in London, according to a telegram from Mr. Tourneur. The scene shows John Storm (played by Dix,) a clergyman, being mobbed by a crowd to whom he had devoted his life. Bullies with caps over their eyes and with broken noses, accompanied by East End women arrayed in cheap finery, took part, while the director and his numerous assistants called instructions.

Thousands of persons stood outside the scene in a downpour of rain, looking on all night at the making of the pictures.

Stage Star in "Gimme"

Florence Roberts, prominent stage actress, is to have a role in "Gimme," the next Rupert Hughes picture. The story for this was written by Mr. and Mrs. Hughes in collaboration. Helene Chadwick is playing the leading feminine role.

"Clarence" to Start

"Clarence" will be under way next week. This is William De Mille's next picture for Paramount. In the cast are Wallace Reid, Agnes Ayres, Theodore Roberts, May McAvoy and Kathlyn Williams.

Miss Williams, who in private life is Mrs. Charles Eyton, has just returned from a vacation trip to China with her husband, Mr. Eyton is general manager of Lasky studio.

"Manslaughter" Finished

"Manslaughter," Cecil B. De Mille's picture, has been completed. One of the notable features will be the Roman revelt, in which hundreds of people were used in a massive settling.

Al Christie in Gotham

Al Christie is on the way home. He arrived in New York yesterday on the Olympic. He has ordered sets on his new picture to be ready by July 1.

Mr. Christie spent about six weeks in Europe.

Mabel Normand Abroad

Which reminds us that Mabel Normand is about landing in Liverpool. She intends to spend a month or six weeks abroad, and return to the Sennett studio September 1.

Jane Novak's New One

Marie Corelli's "Thelma" and a story based on the hymn "Rock of Ages" have been obtained as future starring vehicles for Jane Novak, Robertson-Cole star, whose productions are directed by Chester Bennett. Eva Novak, Jane's sister, will appear with the star in the latter production.

Claire Windsor Contract

Claire Windsor has been placed under contract by the Goldwyn Picture Corporation. The company were so pleased with her work in "Grand Larceny," "Brothers Under Their Skins," recently completed, and "Broken Chains," in which she is now appearing, that they decided they wanted her permanently.

Miss Windsor has "arrived" in the short space of three years. Contrary to the experience of most girls, she got work the first day she applied to a studio. She has progressed steadily.

Among the pictures in which she has appeared are "To Please One Woman," "What's Worth While," "Too Wise Wives," "The Riot," "What Do Men Want?" and "Fools First."

Glass in Hughes Film

Gaston Glass will play the leading male role in "Gimme," by Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Hughes, which Mr. Hughes is even now directing at the Goldwyn studio. Mr. Glass will be the cinematic husband of Helene Chadwick, and he will make her ask him for every cent that she gets. That's how the picture gets its name.

Opening Play Elsewhere

"Abie's Irish Rose" seems to be wall on its way to the hall of theatrical fame. Next Sunday the Irish-Hebrew mirthquake will enter its seventeenth week at the Morosco Theater here and July 2 San Francisco will be given its first glimpse of this widely-talked about comedy. Road company No. 1 after a highly successful tour of the Coast and Western States will open at the Morosco Theater in the northern city.

Shortly following this Morosco will open his second San Francisco house, the Morosco Casino, with "So Long Letty."

According to late word from New York "Abie's Irish Rose" is going over at the Fulton Theater and seems to have taken a certain class of playgoers by storm. An indefinite run for the New York show is freely predicted.

RAIL STRIKE POSSIBILITIES

Analysis Shows Individuals May Sue for Damages

Union Labor Man Declares Walkout Certain

Senator Says Order Will Not be Issued

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, June 22.—If the threatened railroad strike is called and there are organized labor leaders here who challenge the opinion of Senator Cummins, Iowa, that the strike order never will be issued, the recent decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the Coronada coal case may have an important bearing on the efforts of the government to prevent a paralysis of transportation and may be utilized by individuals or corporations whose business might suffer from such a strike to get redress from the organized strikers.

INDIVIDUALS MAY SUE

Officials of the National Association of Manufacturers, who have been studying the decision, which holds that labor organizations are suable as such under sections of the Sherman antitrust law, hold that it can be applied by individuals as well as the government, who have suffered damages in the existing coal strike and that it will afford a means of relief for the public if the railroad strike occurs.

"It appears not unreasonable to conclude," saws an analysis of the decision prepared by the National Association of Manufacturers, "in view of these opinions (assertions of the court in the Coronada decision) that the present coal strike, aclled and supported, as it is, by the organization of mine workers and restraining, as it does, a tremendous percentage volume of interstate commerce in coal, presents a situation applicable under the provisions of section sixteen of the Clayton Antitrust Act.

"'Any person, firm, corporation or association shal be entitled to sue for and have injunctive relief in any court of the United States having jurisdiction over the parties against threatened loss or damage by violation of the antitrust laws.'"

The association officials further hold that the decision in the case of a railroad strike could be applied, with even greater force.

W. Jett Lauck, representative of the railroad labor unions, who returned to Washington today from a conference with labor leaders at the American Federation of Labor convention in Cincinnati, insists that the railroad strike threat is not a bluff.

"There will undoubtedly be a railroad strike," he said. "superimposed on the coal strike. It was natural for those who followed the railroad labor situation during the last two years to believe that the present difficulties with the labor board, as in the case of other recent controversies, will be a flash in the pan, and that a strike will not occur. This reasoning does not follow and is unsound.

"The railroad employees cannot accept the decisions of the labor board even if they should wish to do so, because of the fundamental principle involved.

"The board has violated the intent of the Transportation Act which provides that the lowest paid employees, such as section men, should receive 'a just and reasonable wage.' By ignoring this principle the labor board has been able to reduce below a subsistence basis the wages of the lowest grade employees, and with this as a starting point to reduce the higher grade employees in similar proportions."

DINE WITH "THE KID"

Visiting Exhibitors Guests of Small Picture Star

Guests of the Cocoanut Grove at the Ambassador Hotel had an unexpected treat one evening last week when Jackie Coogan walked into the dining-room with eighteen dinner guests.

Among those who sat at Jackie's table were the nine "dollar-a-week" exhibitors who earned a free trip to Los Angeles by putting over First National Week best in their respective territories. Others who sat in at Jackie's feast were: Sol Lesser, John McCormick, Edward deB Newman, and Jack Coogan, Senior.

The visiting film men were guests during their coast tour of Associated First National Producers and all claimed they had the time of their lives during the week spent in this city.

PROPERTY CUSTODIAN ACCUSED

Mismanagement is Charged to Executives of Department by Woodruff

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Demand for a Congressional investigation of the office of the Alien Property Custodian was made in the House tonight by Representative Woodruff, Republican, Michigan, who charged that the aggregate value of the properties held by the custodian, as shown by his latest report, was "nearly a quarter of a billion dollars less than we might reasonably expect to find there."

Only an impartial investigation, the Michigan Representative declared, would disclose "how much of this shrinkage is due to depreciation through maladministration, how much to sale of properties below their reasonable value, how much to practical gifts to officials, friends and favorites of the custodian's office."

Mr. Woodruff introduced a resolution for an investigation declaring that charges of maladministration, discrimination between alien enemies and American citizens whose property was seized and payment of excessive fees to attorneys "have been so frequent as to create a condition which cannot be ignored without grave injury to the good name of our country."

Neilan back; Blanche Sweet to Follow

Marshall Neilan, prominent motion-picture producer, returned to Los Angeles yesterday afternoon, culminating an eleven weeks' absence during which time he married Blanche Sweet in Chicago, toured Europe and signed a new motion-picture contract.

Mr. Neilan was accompanied by Frank Urson, director, and David Kesson, chief cinematographer, who made the trip abroad with the producer. Mrs. Neilan remained on in New York for another week to wind up some business affairs, now that she is to settle here with "Mickey," and to do some shopping. She will be here next week. Meantime the bridegroom has made all arrangements for their new home which will be complete on Mrs. Neilan's arrival.

Mr. Neilan's new contract is with Goldwyn Pictures and calls for a series of big productions staged at the Goldwyn studios in Culver City and places at the director's disposal the vast facilities of that plant. In accordance with the terms of this contract Mr. Neilan starts work here on the initial production immediately.

While abroad, the producer photographed various scenes in the Alps and other internationally famous beauty spots, which will be included in his initial Goldwyn production. Among the places visited by the party were Paris, London, Berlin, Rome, Monte Carlo and Dublin.

At the Santa Fe station Mr. Neilan was greeted by his mother, who has been quietly overseeing the preparation of the home for the newlyweds. Abraham Lehr, general manager of the Goldwyn studios; Alfred Wright and a host of friends.

WILLIAM FOX TO VISIT

News was received in Los Angeles motion-picture circles yesterday that William Fox, producer and owner of a string of theaters, will soon take a trip to his California studio, a trip which will be in the nature of a short vacation. With the premier here of two of his 1922 productions, "Monte Cristo," and the new version of "A Fool There Was," now showing at the Mission Theater, more than the usual interest of the producer has been drawn towards the Western need of his operations. With the New York Fox studios running on all six and the Los Angeles plant adding more and more companies from week to week, and with the latest of his productions being given world premieres in this city, it is but natural that Mr. Fox will want to pay the West a visit.

Investigation Clears Mystery Points in Life of Reform Leader Now Held as Bi

EX-MINISTER SAYS HE CAN'T PICK LEGAL WIFE

Laughingly Tells Police of Marital Past, But Admits He Forgets Order of Spouses

"To whom am I legally married? That is a question I cannot answer myself. I don't know. I do know that before my first wife, Mrs. Browne, obtained a divorce I married one woman, and after she had obtained her divorce there were marriage ceremonies performed between two other women and myself."

Such was the statement made by Donald Duncan Stewart, ex-minister and social reformer, in the City Jail yesterday, where he is waiting extradition to Boston on charges of bigamy, polygamy and conspiracy. And this in the face of the assertion made by Mrs. Mary Mitchell in Chicago, that she is his legal wife.

Stewart readily admitted that he had been married to the four women named in the charges brought against him by the Pinkerton Detective Agency in their nation-wide investigation of his activities since the revokation of his commission as a minister in California in 1915. He also conceded the statement by Mrs. Mitchell that a child was born to their union.

HIS COMMENT

Commenting upon the bigamy charge against him, however, the ex-reformer laughingly asserted he was ready to go to Boston to answer it, stating that in his belief it was not Mrs. Ethel Turner Osbaldeston, who had the indictment returned against him as charged by the detective agency, but Mrs. Norma Ehrenseller, to whom he said he was married in Boston.

"I don't know how they are going to straighten it out," he said. "It is all a jumble to me. But I do not see how the charge can stand until it is proved whether my first wife obtained a divorce before I married Mrs. Ehrenseller. The truth of the matter is this. After my trouble in Oakland when I was kicked out of the church I went all to pieces. That may sound like a whine, but that's all the excuse I can give. I never did become a drug addict as it is said I was. I am not one now.

TRIED TO WORK

"I tried to work my way along in other walks of life, but for some reason some one always found out who I was, a disrobed minister, and so I was fired," he continued. "And that's the way it went until I went East. There I first married Mrs. Mitchell, then Mrs. Osbaldeston, and then Mrs. Ehrenseller. But whether I was ever legally married to any one of them I don't know.

"Last April Mrs. Osbaldeston and I came out here and we were living in a quiet hotel near Sierra Madre when we were arrested."

According to the Pinkerton agency Stewart was married to a fourth woman, Miss Bertha Ellen Grannis, in Indianapolis.

FRAUD CHARGED

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

DETROIT, June 22.—A charge of conspiracy to defraud may be brought against Donald D. Stewart, held in Los Angeles on a fugitive warrant, but authorities of Massachusetts, New York or Indiana will probably have first claim to the prisoner, a private detective agency announced here today. The conspiracy charge is contemplated, it was said, by Bruce Grannis, who claims Stewart defrauded him of $1200 in a stock deal in 1920.

Grannis's sister, Bertha Ellen Grannis, was one of the four women to whom Stewart is alleged to have been married within the past four years. His lawful wife, Mary Barbara James Mitchell, also resides here, as does Miss Gertrude Van Lopik to whom Stewart was engaged to be married, but who broke with him after several of her relatives indorsed alleged worthless checks issued by the former minister.

FORGAVE HIM

Mrs. Mitchell was aware of her husband's relations with other women, she said today, but forgave him several times after he had deserted her, then sought to return. She bears him no ill will now, she asserted, and sympathizes with him in his predicament.

Mrs. Mitchell said she was sure Stewart did not marry her for her money "as was the case in his other marriages."

"He always told me he loved me best of them all," she added.

Her baby, 15 months old, Margaret, Mrs. Mitchell said, is the daughter of Stewart.

"She is the image of her father and I hope she has his brilliant mind and that I can train it in the right channels," said the mother.

FILLED POCKETS

During Stewart's alleged conquest of hearts and purses he held pastorates at Dundee Lake, N. Y.; Paterson, N. J.; Douglas, Ariz., and finally Chico, Cal., according to information in the hands of detectives here.

His first wife, who divorced him, is said to live in Dundee Lake.

Stewart was known in Boston, according to the detectives, as Donald Allan McGregor. In that city he is alleged to have been married in September, 1921, to Miss Norma Ehrenseller. The officers declare he obtained $1000 from Miss Ehrenseller and $1500 from her mother before deserting her.

Stewart's real name, the detectives stated, was Robert Allan McLaren Browne.

fill at loss of my home and general lonesomeness—that D. takes me down for license and we are married at 8:30 same eve. by Mr. Thomas of All Angels Church, 81 St. West End Ave., N. Y.

MARRIAGE KEPT SECRET

MONTH MARCH—D. D. S. visits me at my position. We keep marriage secret at his request for business reasons.

MONTH APRIL—I am nervous and broken down with position and general worry over things. D. consents to my leaving and coming to Orange to live—We spend week April 12 to April 19 at my sister's home in E. O., then April 19 take room at 516 Central Ave.

D. D. S. gives up work at Shepard Auto Co. and starts some chemical work with Ashworth.

APRIL 20—he sells my furniture to a Mr. Richard Bogstall—for $80.

APRIL 20—Pawns camera H.T.H. loaned him for $10.50. New Loan Co. Pawnbrokers, Ticket 87789—201 Springfield Ave. Newark, N. J.

Sold to Richard Bogstall, April 20—1 clock, 4 bronze ornaments, 1 typewriter (Oliver,) 1 chair, 1 medicine closet, 1 bed spring and mattress, 1 oak table, 1 desk with chair, bureau.

APRIL 24—I discovered in D.D.S. bag a letter from Mary as follows—P.O. marked Middletown, Pa., April 21, 4 p.m., 105 Market St. Wilmington, Del.

"My Dear Don,

"No doubt you will be surprised to know I am in Delaware again. Well, I came here to consult my lawyer, and find I have plenty of evidence to sue Mrs. ——— for damages. After you defending and upholding her the way you did it certainly wasn't to advantage in my estimation. While in New York I called on her and found she was not just as square as you supposed. I was willing to drop out of your life if she showed any inclination to do what was right. However, I learned enough from her to know she is anything but your friend. So I feel justified in taking this stand. You know needly must go West for my health and some one must pay for this.

"Now Don I fully intend starting proceedings regardless of what you say,

"As ever wife,

"MARY.

"P.S. Remember I have one A-1 lawyer. M."

APRIL 27—I accused D. of not being my husband. He said M. signed that way for fun and that not he, but Mary's husband Billy (Don's brother) was the man in question. Swore that I was the only wife he ever had and was willing to have M. sign a statement that she never was his wife—nor had any claim on him.

APRIL 29.—D. and I quieted down from this excitement. He has convinced me all is O. K. Takes me to N. Y. at 2 p.m. Telephones me at 599 W. E. "Will meet me at 7 for dinner — at Centl. Pk. W. and 86 St. as he in Bronx at 135 St." He goes down to see H.T.H. and tells him to meet me at 9 p.m. after patient—wait both times for him—he does not show up. H. goes to his home to look for phone message—I go back to Jersey 11:13 Jersey Central line—arrive at house 12 p.m. Find D.D.S. has taken his trunk, my large one, and Mary's. Left a note saying:

"Be not deceived

God is not mocked for what man (or woman) soweth that shall he also reap.

(Be careful.

Goodbye, Don.)

APRIL 29.—Mr. J. C. Costelloe, ice dealer, brought some things up from 194 Centl. Ave. at 1 o'clock—before D. and I left for N. Y. D returned about at about 4 and packed trunks. Costello took them to Penn. Station, Newark, at about 5:30. D. said he was to meet his "sister" at station to take her baggage to her. He carried his tan bag and black raincoat.

Mrs. Miller says he told her there was a mix-up in trunks (something to do with his "sister-in-law.")

REPORTED TO POLICE

Reported case at police station, Main street, at 2:30 a.m. Was told to return at 8:30 and swear out warrant.

APRIL 30, 1920—Saw Chief O'Neill, E. Orange police at 9 o'clock—see him 2 p.m. and gave details.

MAY 1, 1920—Call on Mrs. ——. She tells me that D. D. S. boarded with her. He frequently secured large sums of money from her. She pawned her diamonds and had to sell her good mahogany furniture to get them out. In June, 1919, Mary appeared with marriage certificate, D. D. S. and M. B. S. place of marrige either Wilmington, Del., or Philadelphia, Pa.—date about Nov. 9, 1918, as far as Mrs. —— can recall. Says Donald saw her recently for a few minutes only each time. Told her of Mary's threats to sue, etc. He brought Mary on from Phila. April 26, to talk to Mrs. ——. The final arrangements took place in the Penn Hotel at 8 p.m., April 29—where Mrs. —— gave them $1090 cash in return for receipt signed by D. D. S., as witness, and M. B. D., as having cleared Mrs. M. of all blame.

Mrs. M. says Mary told her Don deserted her while she was in hospital in Wilmington one month after she was married to him.

They carried with them for baggage, one large Taylor theatrical trunk (mine,) one large brown fiber and tin suit case, one small brown fiber and tin trunk (Mary's,) one yellow collapsible suit case, one yellow hand bag.

MAY 25—Saw Bergstahl. Made arrangements to rebuy furniture.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Bergstahl were told by D.D.S. on the only occasion that he visited their home that he was not married. Conversation was brought up by D.D.S. talking about B.'s children.

MAY 26—Saw Mrs. Roth at her home—about her returning my things left around the house. She says Mary used to tell her how much Don cared for Mrs. R., and how M. tried to make Mrs. R. reciprocate D.'s affections. Mrs. R. says she told M. several times to remember that she was married and the mother of grown-up sons.

Mrs. R. says she remembers now in many ways how M. worked around her for information, etc. Says she would love to lay hands on M.

KNEW TRAINED NURSE

MAY 29—Called at 11 Washington street. Saw D.'s landlady and her mother. They say D. was an example of a nice young man while there. Told me of a trained nurse he knew and always took pictures of—in Brooklyn or Staten Island—will look up name of nurse.

Told me that D. said his brother's widow was coming from Scotland in November, 1918. He wanted rooms near her, but not with her, and she was to go to work. They saw M. on several occasions when she called for laundry bag and mail for her "brother-in-law."

They said a package of clothes addressed to a Mr. Johnson came from Wilmington. D. claimed it as property of a man who had worked for him there and could not afford to redeem clothes for himself. (I think unpaid bill or something.)

JUNE 1—Go to Wilmington Del. (Tanner and Fiske) see record of license at City Hall (Copy on page of this book). Then go to Justice of Peace Broman's office to see original which he issued—find signature—in D. D. S.'s handwriting—(He also wrote Mary's name.)

See Rev. Alban Richie—Rector St. John's Church, 2015 Market St.—rectory, 2300 Boulevard. Wait until 10:30 p.m. to see Rev. Richard W. Trapnell, rector St. Andrews—1409 Van Buren—church at 8 and Shipley.

He now distinctly remembers D. D. S. Says he saw both day license was issued and when he married them. Remembers Mary by her mouth and peculiar teeth principally. Satisfactory interview.

Mr. Ford—curate of St. Andrews, seems to have heard of D. D. S. as man who was badly injured at the Dupont Works—Will look up record further.

BAD WOMEN IN ROOM

JUNE 3—Find that address given by D. D. S. on license (807 French St., Wil., Del.) is the Hotel Flodette—a cheap little rooming hotel in a garage and colored neighborhood. Saw the proprietoress—who remembers him as the young man who had women in his room at night. Said they were his wife—until M. showed up as the real one. Heard them quarreling (Mary and Don.)

NOVEMBER 29, 1920—Arrived Wilmington, Del. See Mr. Bildwin (Dupont) Chief of Police George Black and Chief Detective Bureau Mr. Benson. In evening called on Mrs. Whittaker. Tells me Mt. Carmel, Pa. is Mary's former home. Father and mother living. Sisters, Anna May Farrell, Jennie. Brothers, one in Philadelphia, one in New York, one at home with parents. Father and young brother work in coal mine.

Mrs. W. tells me of Mary's marriage and that she does not like D., who has lived an awful life (so he boasts) and is a known liar. Mary deserted while in the hospital and later in Philadelphia. Returns later and persuades M. to go to Dupont Hotel with him. Says D. was nothing but a bum when he first knew of him at the Beth Loading Company. Says D. and M. lived for a while after married in Newcastle, Del. Tells me of Mary's friend, Laura Donohue, seeing her sometime in June in Middleton, Del. But when inquiries were made, Mary had left suddenly. (Mary was stopping at Mrs. B. Thornton's for two weeks when D. came for her suddenly.)

NOVEMBER 30, 1920. — Saw Mr. J. J. Northrup at Newcastle, Del. Beth. Steel—He tells me D. was a good workman, Etc. Bought a $1000 Liberty Bond. (Mrs. W. told me he started to buy one.) Can give no further information.

DECEMBER 2, Baltimore, Md. See Jessie Little—who is a prim little school-teacher style woman. She says D. lived at her house in 1918 for about two months in Feb. March, April? He told her he was interested in the excavation of steel filings which were to be used in war work. Says he acted quite respectable and cannot understand his real record. Was shocked when I told her his intentions of swindling and understood only by my explanation the real meaning of his last correspondence with her.

Saw Jessie Utley—a dirty little thing in a house that looked like a bad den. She disclaimed all knowledge of D. never heard of such a man or recognized his picture. She certainly must have known him as he had her name and address in his address book.

NOVEMBER, 1921 — Agnes Browne told me when I called on her that she and D. were married in (Novak or Norivck or Norwalk, Conn.) by Revi Rankin—name Robert Allen MacD. Browne. Three boys, Robert, David and John. Says when he was a minister he used to run around with women and pass bad checks—played similar game to present one. Liked to lie in a dark room all alone. Was using drugs all the time she was with him.

GENERAL REMARKS

MISCELLANEOUS REMARKS AND FACTS ABOUT D. D. S. and M. B. S.

I found a slip of paper in Jan. at my home on sewing machine in her handwriting—as follows:

Mary married April, 17, 1913.
Killed—April 3, 1915.

Possibly this was a memo. for her to memorize dates about her husband? William Stewart, which she was to publish as facts.

Donald says he had three brothers named David, Hugh and Billy all killed in the war.

His only sister Jean—married a Captain Smith and died of childbirth in St. Johns, New Brunswick.

Father's name David Stewart (real father named Duncan.)

Mother's name Harriet Sugden Stewart.

Mary had towels etc in her trunk with various names of people and hotels on, also all kinds of silk underware and stockings.

D. D. S. linen all marked W. M. S. in indelible ink until I changed it to D. D. S. after we were married and I took charge of his clothes some pieces marked D. D. Mitchell.

D. D. S. mentioned having been in El Paso Texas, as ranch man also in Seattle, India, South Africa, Quebec, Montreal, Rochester, Boston, Wilmington N. Y., Canadagua, N. Y. All principal cities along the coast, Leith, Scotland, San Francisco, Oakland, Berkeley, Chicago, Cleveland, and various cities in Connecticut.

D. D. S. told me he owned a house in Berkeley Cal., near Stadium—which is rented. He is to collect annual rent in September.

Told me that Mary and Billy lived in this house rent free for their care of his comfort and assistance in entertainment of friends.

Says that Brother Billy was employed as a clerk in the office of Lindley, Garruch & Stewart and that he (Don) made Billy marry Mary.

Mary's lawyers in Wilmington Del., are Martin and Glasmger.

Mary worked in Kennebunkport Maine, probably as a domestic in Summer of either 1918 or 1919.

Mary worked in "Tetrol" works in Wil., Del., Donald secured position for her perhaps in 1918 as forewoman.

Donald says he was invalided home from war. Says he had to take position as night foreman in Wil., Del., under doctors advice as he was so nervous from shock he could not sleep nights.

Joined the 42nd., Highlanders in Canada and was transferred to another regiment on arrival in Scotland or France. Says when he left army he ranked as sergeant.

Says he has three widow sister-in-laws, one Mary and two in Scotland one of them maiden name Jennie Gibson I think. (Six nephews and nieces.)

MRS. OSBALDESTON DESCRIBES SECOND WIFE OF STEWART

Near the end of her amazing diary Mrs. Turner Osbaldeston Stewart in a few brief lines describes Mary Barbara James Stewart, second wife of Donald D. Stewart, and the woman from whom she learned that her marriage was bigamous.

The description follows:

About 5 feet, 4 or 5 inches.

Gray eyes.

Light or medium brown straight hair.

Good teeth, but very prominent.

Not much education—can work only as a domestic (cook,) factory hand or waitress.

Shrewd in manner.

Age 29 or 30 years. Date of birth Nov. 16, (?).

Operated on in February at Presbyterian Hospital, Newark, N. J. (Abdominal scar.)

Dresses neatly, and usually wears tailor-made suit.

Baby Margaret Harriett, born April 8, 1921, Detroit, Mich., under name Mrs. Mary and D. D. Mitchell.

Boy and Woman Known to Jailed Ex-Minister

month Jan 1920
D.D.S. stops work at Central Dye Works Plum Lane (see Dr Yeiter) - sometime during this month. We become engaged. and on account of quarrel mostly leaves during end of month & first goes to Rodeo for a few days then back to Wilmington Del

Apl. 27 - I accused D of not being my husband. he said M signed letter way for fun & that not he, but Mary husband Billy (Don brother) was the man in question. Swore that I was the only wife he ever had & was willing to have M sign a statement that she never was his wife — nor had any claim on him.

Agnes Brown told me. Nov. 1920 when I called on her that she & D. were married in Novak. or Norwich or Norwalk Del. by Rev. Rankin. name Robert Alan macl Browne — Three boys, Robert - David and John Says when he was a minister he used to run around with women and passed bad checks - played similar game to present one - Liked to lie in dark rooms all alone - was using drugs all the time she was with him

DRY CRUSADER DRINKS ALL HE CAN GET, WIFE WRITES

A character analysis of Donald D. Stewart, former pastor, reformer and temperance advocate set down in her diary by his last wife, Mrs. Ethel Turner Osbaldeston Stewart who claims "that in all the world I know him best," follows:

Personal description of D. D. S.:

About 5 feet 6 or 7 inches tall.

Lean and wiry—very strong, muscularly.

Black, curly hair streaked with white. No teeth in either upper or lower jaw. Wears top set of false teeth all the time. Has a lower set, but does not wear them at all.

Age 39 years, says he was born in India—an illegitimate child of a man named Duncan (surname,) his mother at the time being married to David Stewart of Leith, Scotland. Mother's maiden name, Harriet Suyden. Date of birth Nov. 17, 1880.

Has lower jaw broken—scars on left side of jaw bone and in neck—scars on leg (right) from knee to middle of shin bone. Scar on left foot, instep just above toes.

Says that the jaw was broken in fight in tea house in Shanghai, China—teeth knocked out at same time. Says wounds in leg and foot were caused by shrapnel and shot in World War.

Has birthmark on left hip—several brown spots quite large.

Has tattoo marks which look like ink stains on right hand.

Smokes Camel brand cigarettes incessantly.

Drinks all he can get, but does not show effects very much. Can drink almost a quart of whisky without showing it.

Has decidedly Scotch accent.

Prominent lower jaw bone. Brown eyes which change from gray-brown to deep brown with his moods.

Swears and uses filthy, bad, language at all times.

Can pass as a man of education and culture both in dress and manners as well as a tramp or laboring man.

Clean shaven—if he grows a mustache it is very curly—a beard only grows in patches.

Has strange ideas about women and is extremely fascinating to them. Calls himself a "he man," "a cave man" and "a beast man."

Collars, size 15; shoes, size 8.

Has bad wound from appendix removal.

Wears eye glasses with narrow tortoise shell rims, or spectacles—no rims.

sold some furniture to recover the diamonds.

A few days following this episode Mrs. Osbaldeston was instructed to meet Stewart, but he failed to appear. When she returned to their humble home he had vanished, taking one of her trunks. A brief note left by him and copied into her diary told the story:

"Be not deceived.

"God is not mocked for what man (or woman) soweth that shall he also reap. Be careful.

"Goodbye, Don."

MET FIRST WIFE

It was the finding of this note that induced Mrs. Osbaldeston to appeal to the police and to swear to an affidavit that Stewart was a bigamist. She visited all his friends and everybody who knew him, traveled through many States to gather evidence against him, visited other wives of his and talked with them.

She called on his first wife, Agnes Browne, and his three boys, Mrs. Browne told her, the diary asserts, "their father while he was a minister used to run around with women and pass bad checks" and that he "was using drugs all the time."

Mrs. Osbaldeston has stated repeatedly she knows Stewart better than any other person. As a character analyst, for in her diary she has revealed all his traits, habits and characteristics, she has proven it.

He had repeatedly told her and other women that he was a "he-man, a cave man, a beast man."

She states in her diary that, though at one time he was a most reverent person, he smoked cigarettes incessantly, that "he could drink a quart of whisky without showing it, that he swears and uses filthy language, has strange ideas about women, but above all these things he can pass as a man of education and culture."

KNEW OF OTHER WIVES

She never insisted on his arrest as a bigamist, despite the filing of her affidavit accusing him as such. She knew he had other wives, knew he was wanted in Boston, New York, Chicago and Indianapolis on charges including bigamy and embezzlement—for he is believed to have swindled many women and their families out of do not believe she can be conlarge sums through bigamous mar-victed.

riages—yet she still loves him devotedly.

Why?

She explained as best she could yesterday.

"I met Donald, married him and loved him long before I became aware of his past," she stated. "For some time during our married life I was entirely unaware of his relations with other women. With the coming of Mary Barbara James into our lives I learned for the first time that all was not as he had led me to believe.

SWORE TO COMPLAINT

"Then, after taking my money, my clothes and even my trunk, Don deserted me. In a fit of woman's rage I swore out a complaint charging him with bigamy after I had checked up on his escapades.

"Some weeks later my husband returned to me. He confessed to me that he was a drug addict. He told me of the fight that he was having against his craving for liquor. He told me that when he was in the grip of drugs or whisky he was not responsible for his actions and that his escapades always had been the outcome of a debauch.

"Donald told me that I was the only woman he really loved, that if I would help him in his fight against slipping to the bottom he would be able to straighten out his bigamous marriages and with my help could again become a man.

"I was unable to quash the warrant which I had caused to be issued, so Donald and I fled from New York State and believing he would keep his promises I went to work in other cities to assist him in his battle to redeem himself.

STILL BELIEVES IN HIM

"This is what we were doing in Sierra Madre when the detectives came out and arrested us.

"I believe in my husband. I believe he can yet be a man—the same kind of a man I thought I was marrying. We are going to fight this thing together and if Donald must go to the penitentiary I will be waiting for him when he comes out."

Pinkerton detectives believe Mrs. Osbaldeston's story and declared that they have been unable to connect her directly with any of Stewart's swindles or bigamous marriages.

Though she will be extradited to an eastern city for trial with Stewart the authorities state they will not prosecute her.

Says that Brother Billy was employed as a clerk in the office of Lindley, Garruch & Stewart and that he (Don) made Billy marry Mary.

Mary's lawyers in Wilmington Del., are Martin and Glasmger.

Mary worked in Kennebunkport Maine, probably as a domestic in Summer of either 1918 or 1919.

Forest Fires in County Are Now Under Control

Burning over widespread areas two forest fires yesterday threatened grave damage to property in the vicinity of Los Angeles. While not completely extinguished, the fires were reported to be under control at 5 p.m. last evening by County Forester Flintham.

The county official stated that the fires had been started through carelessness. He added that he expected some of his men to arrest those responsible.

One of the fires on the Big Jumbo, at the south end of the San Rafael range, endangered the Annandale Country Club. This fire burned in the vicinity of Pasadena, over an area of fifty acres. Its progress was checked by men sent out by the county forester and by members of the Pasadena fire department. Though the fire is not entirely extinguished, it is under control. The property of the Annandale Club is no longer thought to be in danger.

The second fire burned in Live Oak Canyon, north of Claremont. It was discovered about noon yesterday. This fire was held in check after a battle lasting the greater part of yesterday afternoon.

MRS. BALDRIDGE WILL BE BURIED IN EAST

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, June 22.—Funeral services for Mrs. Louise Baldridge, wife of Homer A. Baldridge, who died on a train near Redlands on route to this city, were held today at the funeral parlors of C. F. Lamb & Sons, with a large attendance. F. G. Novis, reader of the Christian Science church, was in charge.

Mrs. Baldridge's body will be shipped Tuesday to Chicago, her former home, for burial. Mrs. Baldridge was 55 years old and had made Pasadena and vicinity her home for 30 years, the last few of which she spent at their country place, La Crescenta. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Frank Ohrmund of Pasadena and Mrs. Gordon Blackwood of Glendora, four grandchildren, three brothers and two sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Baldridge left Pasadena a month ago for an automobile trip to the north. She was taken ill in Oregon.

WILLS BOUT IS ALMOST CERTAINTY

Everything Settled for the Match With Dempsey Except Time and Place

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, June 22.—Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills are just about as good as matched to fight for the heavyweight championship of the world. The only thing left to settle is the time and place.

The obstacle of the exorbitant demands of Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, have been practically removed. The reluctance of Promoter Tex Rickard to tackle such a proposition as a mixed bout for the championship has been removed.

Kearns and Rickard were together this afternoon for two hours, and these difficulties were threshed out. Rickard is ready to promote the fight and Dempsey is ready to fight. Harry Wills has been ready for a long time.

So far, the New York State Boxing Commission has been silent on sanctioning such a battle for this State. It has accepted Wills's challenge to Dempsey, and his forfeit money, and has notified Dempsey of the challenge. Chairman Muldoon of the commission declined to say whether the fight would be sanctioned. He stated that when the matter came before the commission in the regular way, it would act. There seems to be little chance that the commission will sanction it. In that case the fight must be held outside New York State.

THE VALUE IS THERE

PIERCE-ARROW owners have driven their cars two hundred thousand miles. Even without motorists this means a good many miles. These car owners are men who buy a new car every year without scrimping if they like. Their loyalty to their old Pierce-Arrows is their tribute to a piece of machinery that has served them well and earned their confidence. To those just about to buy a new car this matter of durability is worth thinking about, even without looking forward to ten years' satisfactory service with the same car. It comes to the point of doing. This potential value is there whether you use it or sell and buy again.

SALAS WINS IN GENTLE SCRAP

Outpoints Manuel Martinez in Main Go at L.A.A.C.

Gotto Gets Judges' Decision Over Garcia

Grube Outslugs Grella in Extra Round

After playing crack-the-whip and squat tags for two rounds Joe Salas put over a few that landed with more or less enthusiasm on Manuel Martinez's jaw, and the judges awarded Salas a decision over the Pacific Coast amateur champ last night in the main event of the L.A.A.C.'s monthly smoker.

Salas took the first two rounds by locating Martinez for a few solid socks while he kept well out of the way of his opponent's mitts. In the final round Martinez started in a determined manner to put Salas away, but was unable to make the grade.

August Gotto succeeded in gaining a verdict over Henry Garcia in the semi-wind-up, although the latter's left gave him considerable trouble. Gotto took plenty, but gave more, winning an obvious decision.

UNEXPECTED

Referee Ernie Clark earned the everlasting disapproval of Sailor Moser when he awarded a technical knockout to Al Leonard. Leonard hit the canvas twice in the first round for the count of nine after connecting with Moser's right, but dazed the seafaring person in the early part of the second round with a jolt to the jaw, and Clark held up his mitt.

Paul Grube started like a lamb and finished like a lion in his affair with John Grella, acknowledging the receipt of every known variety of wallop in the early stages, but battering his adversary around unmercifully in the last two rounds, scoring a technical knockout.

Murray Miller won a very unpopular decision over Sam Elsman, Jack Fields gamely outpointed Eudie Reco, John Thomas won from Harry Graham, much to the fans' disgust; Dominick Virgo won handily from Ben Berger, Ed Gleason trimmed Ned Golden and Benny Marks outfought Mike Narujo.

Gene Cline and Sailor Larrie, 155 pounders, will also appear as will Joe Layman and Frankie Jerome. Three bouts are yet to be selected.

TEAMS AFTER "BUZZ" ARLETT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OAKLAND, June 22.—Almost every club in the two major leagues is after the services of Buzz Arlett, the right-handed pitching ace of the Oakland Pacific Coast League team, according to Del Howard, one of the local owners.

Howard says he is more interested in securing players in exchange for Arlett than he is in getting a big cash price. Players, he thinks, would be worth more to Oakland in the long run.

Arlett himself wants to go to one of the St. Louis or New York teams. "I think New York and St. Louis have the best teams in both leagues," he said. "It is easier to get by if you have a good team behind you."

BENGALS BOOT DUCKS AROUND

Shot-to-Pieces Portland is Easy for Vernon

Ping Bodie Busts Old Apple Into Main Street

Jakie May is Back in Good Form Once More

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS

Booting the Beavers around, king of outdoor sports, was continued for the third consecutive day, Vernon copping as usual, or approximately so, by a count of 7 to 2.

Ping Bodie scattered some timely batting, including a homer, behind some excellent pitching by Jakie May, whereas Walter Leverenz had little support with the bat. Jakie's split finger seemed sound again, and he pitched without tire tape, employing only his naked digits in putting stuff on the ball.

ARE UNDER DOG

Crowd seemed to feel considerable sympathy for the Beavers, who apparently are regarded as a species of under dog. That's the way it is in the scheme of things canine. Dog forming the upper stratum of society doesn't get the deserved moral support, on the theory that it doesn't need it. Bugs reserve their affection for under dog and hot dog.

Two male guys appeared at ballyard in yellow straw hats. Not a pale white or a brown as is often seen, but lids of a real canary yellow. Wise birds, these boys. Buy your straw hats white in the early summer and by fall they have faded to a yellow. But yellow fades out white, and these bonnets will look new and white in the fall. At the start the yellow sun bonnet may resemble last season's straw stack, but it will look like it has just been dragged out of a band box after being exposed to the weather for three months. The saffron lid will just be beginning to look white and new when all else is in the sere and yellow, and the remainder of us are coming home on the rim.

LOSES OWNERS

Much has happened to the Beavers this season. Since the hopeful days of spring, the club has lost its owners, its president, vice-president and manager, and now three members of its hired help are on the suspended list. Thus the club presents a pathetic spectacle as it tries to take the high hurdles along life's rocky road. This explains why Suds Sutherland was in right field yesterday. The team has no right fielder now available, and it was a ten-to-one shot that Suds couldn't be any worse than Sam Ross. So Tom Turner, only surviving manager, took a gamble and placed Suds where he could do the least possible harm.

FIRST TO SCORE

First in the league race, Vernon also was first to score, counting its first run in the first inning on the first double, the first single and the first sacrifice of the day. The double belonged to J. Carlisle Smith, first up. Schneider singled in field, and Bodie boosted to Wolfer, Smith conning in on his freckled blood hounds after the catch.

Portland pushed to the front with a two-run rumpus in the second. Jakie May was feeling mellow and passed Emmett McCann. Sutherland jammed the tall boy into a forceout at second. Kilhullen knocked a bad one down to short, beating it out in spite of a flossy play by French. Leverenz grounded out at first. Wolfer then walloped for two bases, counting two. Sargent out.

Ping Bodie tied the score single handed at start of Vernon half in fourth, when he busted a home run of rare power and beauty over the fence just inside the flag pole. Ping showed good judgment in missing the pole. Won't stand for long range firing at our flag poles. However, the act didn't look so bad as the Los Angeles pennant isn't flying from the pole when the Angels are traveling. Vernon once won three pennants in a row, and these made the halyard on the flag pole look like a clothes line on Monday.

FOLLOWS PING

Dal Locker followed Bodie with a single, was wild pitched to second, counting on a single by Sawyer, which placed the Tigers one run in front. Bodie and Sawyer

CHANEY IN DEBUT AT HOLLYWOOD

New Orleans Boxer to Meet Vierra in Feature of Legion Card Tonight

With sixteen victories to his credit, four of which were scored via the knockout route, Chris Chaney of New Orleans will make his debut in the West tonight when he stacks up against Benny Vierra of Oakland at the American Legion Hollywood arena. Vierra has emerged triumphant in the many battles in which he has participated of late and has whipped every 128-pounder of consequence on the Coast. In the southerner Vierra meets the slashing type of boxer, who is in so much demand in these parts. This bout should prove to be one of the best main events ever pulled off at the Hollywood arena.

On the same card tonight Bud Soules and Jimmy Marcus, 142 pounders of great promise, will mingle in the semi-wind-up. Marcus has been getting the number of all of the boxers he has met thus far, but Matchmaker Frank Crowley believes that he has selected a tough one for him for tonight.

Young Sumner and George Lavigne, another pair of classy 142-pounders, are scheduled to mix in the feature preliminary event of the evening. The popular light-heavyweights, Jimmy Dime and Soldier Burke, are down for a prominent place on the Hollywood Legion bill. Burt Tribbey and Frankie Murphy, 158 pounders, will start for the first time at the foothill stadium tonight. The former, who hails from Oakland, has been a main-event performer in the north, while the latter has been a big attraction in New Orleans.

Eddie Roberts and Sailor Dempsey, 145 pounders, will meet in the second bout of the evening. Bud Omar and Harry Gray are lined up for the curtain raiser. George Blake will referee.

TO SCRAP FOR COAST TITLE

Men's Doubles Laurels Up for Competition

North and South to Vie for Laurels Next Month

Dope Favors Billie Johnston and Peck Griffin

Next on the program for the tennis bugs to get all excited about is the annual Pacific Coast men's doubles championship tournament, which is to be committed on the courts of the Los Angeles Tennis Club in four installments, commencing Saturday afternoon, July 1, and winding up with the finals on the Glorious Fourth. Several strong teams from the San Francisco region will be on hand, according to Nat Browne, president of the L. A. T. C., and the best available local talent will attempt to bring the title back to the South.

The north will be represented by the Kinsey brothers, present Coast title holders, Griffin and Johnston, former national champs, and Davis and Casey, who have cut quite a swathe in the tennis world this season. Against this formidable array of court performers the South will send McLoughlin and Alexander both of whom have held the national title on numerous occasions, Snodgrass and Ferrandini, Browne and Barker, Henry and Lowry, Dickenson and Berry, Stiles and Darsie, and several other duets of verve and vigor.

The caliber of the entry list presages a number of wild matches before the finals are reached and to pick the finalists is a risky business. However, Old Man Dope seems to smile on Peck Griffin and Billie Johnston, who trimmed Tilden and Richards, national champs, twice within the past six weeks. Their opposition is uncertain, the Kinsey family and the McLoughlin-Alexander duo looking the most dangerous.

Nat Browne is trying to arrange an exhibition match between Miss Helen Wills, national junior champ, and Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, many times holder of the national singles title, to be played preliminary to the finals in the doubles. Miss Wills, who resides in San Francisco, is planning to go east very shortly, and may not be able to play here. It is to be hoped that the match can be arranged, Miss Wills and Mrs. Bundy being two of the best players of their sex in the world today.

Yale, Harvard Rowers to Mix

DOPE FAVORS NEITHER CREW

Spectacular Race Takes Place at New London

Rival Eights Primed for Test of the Season

Today's Regatta Settles Tie for Shell Supremacy

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW LONDON (Ct.) June 21.—Tradition that has come down through the years will slip into the old Thames tomorrow alongside the crews of Yale and Harvard, the bitterest of gentle foes, as they lift their shells into the stream whose ripples will hum to the Atlantic tomorrow night the praise of the victor in the fifty-fifth intervarsity regatta championship of the eight-oared crews.

As compelling and majestic as their yearly football game is the annual regatta of Yale and Harvard, made so by the full hearts that strain with as much verve ashore as under the tanned breasts at the oars. As exhilarating as the daring and shrieking yells that the frosty winds of autumn whisk across the gridiron is the screeching of whistles and the clang of bells on the variety of craft that is jumbled together somehow tonight along the lanes the crews will traverse on the morrow.

In place of the battered quarterbacks barking cryptic signals behind the living hedge formed by the linesmen will be miniature men seated in the sterns of the feather-like shells, pleading to eight sun-browned, sinewy forms, sliding to and fro while their long sweeps dip into the water, respond to the tug, and the shell shoots forward another rod. Tradition says that the only answer to the coxswain's pleas is a tighter clenching of the jaws of the oarsmen—and sometimes a little more speed.

TOWN COLORFUL

Tonight New London, as grim usually as any New England habitat of small folk, is gay with the forerunners of regatta throngs that will pour in all day in automobiles, on trains, trolleys and pleasure craft, made welcome by the natives of the old seaport, who apparently take as much joy in listening to the rumble as the visitors take in making it. The crews, segregated from their admirers, are priming their nerves for the test that comes only to the few.

The Yale-Harvard regatta has been an annual affair, with periodic intermissions, since 1852, and so determinedly have the crews of both institutions fought in it that both have won twenty-seven varsity races, alternately the last four times, following the period of supremacy that the Crimson enjoyed in the early years of this century. Yale won last year, and Harvard the year before.

The result cannot be forecast by resorting to the performance of either varsity crew this year, and prognosticating is made doubly difficult by the change in rowing methods that Yale sensationally made a month ago, deposing the head coach, Jim Corderry, teacher of the English style, and replacing him with his brother, George Corderry, mentor of the American style, who was the tutor of the freshman crew.

DOPE EVEN

Both Yale and Harvard have been defeated this year by the University of Pennsylvania and Princeton in either dual or triangular regattas. Tonight the critics are pointing to the victory of Princeton over Harvard in the race won by the Navy, May 6, in which the Crimson came in eight lengths behind the winner, and two lengths aft the stern of the Tiger. Princeton also finished second in a three-cornered race, May 20, at Derby, in which Yale was third; the regatta was won by Cornell. These races, however, were two miles or less in distance.

Tomorrow's program, subject to the weather, consists of two morning races, and the main event in the afternoon. The freshman crews will slip away from Bartlett's Cove to the Navy Yard at 10 a.m., followed within a half hour by the junior varsity. At 5:30 p.m. the four-mile varsity contest, to be rowed upstream this year, will start at the railroad bridge and end at Bartlett's Cove.

STATE CADETS DOWN MONTEBELLO'S NINE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WHITTIER, June 22.—Coach Quickel's State School players defeated the fast Montebello High School nine at Montebello yesterday by the score of 10 to 3.

The game was a part of the sport program which was presented at Montebello's big street fair and celebration. Whittier State School entered in only two events and won in both. Davis, a 17-year-old youth, won the 100 yards in 10 flat.

WILLARD TO START GRIND

Jess Confident of Rounding Into Form for Return Bout With Champion

Jess Willard will begin training the first of next week. He feels that in about four months he can get himself into excellent fighting shape. Gene Doyle has had a talk with Roy Marshall and Frank Crowley of the Hollywood boxing stadium and they have promised him to have everything in readiness for Willard next Monday or Tuesday afternoon so that he can step into the traces immediately.

Contrary to reports in New York that Jess's talk is all bluff, the big fellow is going right ahead with his training and thus show the public that he is sincere. He will continue his grind even though Dempsey signs up with Wills. At present the ex-champion heavyweight tips the beam at 240 pounds, but he will point himself for something like 240, a heft at which he thinks he can mill at his best. He weighed 235 pounds when he was defeated at Toledo, O. At that time he put in only four weeks at the prepping stuff—a mistake he declares he will always rue.

Willard adds that if at the end of four months he finds that he is not in grand fettle he will immediately step down and out. He is out with a defi to take on any white man living at his training quarters, and if he can't dispose of him, he will boost him along by showing his willingness to bet that his camp conqueror can stop the present champion.

Willard will also gladly pay Georges Carpentier's expenses to come to Los Angeles to his training quarters just simply to show that he could easily dispose of the Frenchman at his camp. He is firm in the belief that he could wallop Georges as easily as did Dempsey.

SMARR TO BATTLE AT L. A. HIGH NEXT WEEK

Matchmaker Glenn Whittle of Los Angeles High School already has made plans for next week's card, in which Smarr, the lightweight champ, is to go against Cotesworth or Pregman. Levinson and Blakemore having been seeking a bout so the coach has scheduled the two for next week after the report cards are given out.

Lizer also is a candidate for the ring. Lizer, who weighs 143 pounds, has been doing some practicing outside and is ready for battle. The term's fights will wind up next Wednesday.

place in the tournament with three others, including J. Gassait of Chantilly, France, with 153. Roger Wethered's score this afternoon, a 78, gave him an aggregate of 154 and places the spectacular amateur in ninth position. Boomer, the French open champion, is tied for eleventh place with 155 strokes, with Joe Kirkwood, the Australian champion, who, like Hagen, played better golf in the afternoon than in the morning. Edward Ray's card now reads 166, while that of Abe Mitchell aggregates 158. With Mitchell are tied William I. Hunter and Harry Vardon, six times open champion.

VARDON FAILS ON RETURN

Hutchison's second round today was as follows:

Out	5	4	3	4	4	4	5	5	38
In	3	4	4	5	4	4	5	5	36—74

Kirkwood's second round was:

Out	4	4	4	4	5	4	5	6	37

The afternoon card of Jim Barnes was:

Out	4	5	5	4	4	5	5	5	37
In	5	4	5	5	4	4	5	5	42—79

Harry Vardon also failed on the homeward journey, actually taking eight at the fifteenth, where he missed two shots.

DENTIST A BUSHER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SIOUX FALLS (S. D.) June 22. Dr. E. T. Juel, dentist of Garretson, S. D., who, Sunday pitched a perfect game of baseball for the Ellsworth (Minn.) team against the Linsmore (Minn.) aggregation, has been playing semiprofessional baseball in this section for the past six years. Dr. Juel sent Linsmore down to defeat by striking out eighteen men in succession. Not a man on the Linsmore team reached first base.

Football Rules, that publication of gridiron records and achievements corresponding somewhat to the Record Book and Guide in baseball, will engage in something of a departure this year.

In addition to the customary all-star teams, it will contain a list of names, eleven from each college, of football players who have made good in other departments of human endeavor. This is an interesting departure and should have a tendency to lessen much of the criticism which has been directed at football by those with only a reading acquaintance with these identified with the game and having only superficial knowledge of some of the benefits which it confers.

Announcement of the innovation was made by Elmer Henderson, coach of the University of Southern California, in a talk made before the Electric Club. Several hundred were there seeking light on the inside of sports.

This means a new sort of all-star football team—those who have won positions in life. I frankly believe that the percentage of former football players who have subsequently made good in other departments of activity is high, possibly as high or higher, as would be found among an equal number selected from any other department of college life. Every football player of my acquaintance, and I have known hundreds, has developed into an average good citizen. Eight out of ten of them have become successful as average success is measured.

Former football players are numbered among the lawyers and doctors and other professional men; they are found engaged in business and occupying public office. The game under proper restrictions is favored by a majority of college presidents, at least in the West. Too often arguments against wholesome sports go unanswered, and particularly by those most vitally interested. Publication of the lists turned in by the various colleges should prove an answer largely unanswerable and designed to take most of the rebuttal out of this controversy.

Inherent weakness of the proposed return match between Georges Carpentier and Jack Dempsey and its largely artificial nature are demonstrated by the Frenchman's refusal to meet Harry Greb during the present summer. This match, like its predecessor, is being erected with painstaking care designed to give it an apparent touch of nature.

Carpentier, as a prelude to this, met and defeated the ancient Ted (Kid) Lewis, welterweight, who in turn had been built up for the Frenchman. Other numbers on the program of the grand rehearsal are matches with the impossible Beckett in London and Nilles, whoever he is, in France. Over here Dempsey will again meet and defeat the faithful and ever-convenient Bill Brennan, one of the surest meal tickets along the champion's route; there will be heated talk of a return meeting with Willard, which, if concluded, probably will be for a date subsequent to the Carpentier affair, and spirited managerial sparring leading up to a match with Wills at some time, somewhere, or perchance nearly leading up to such a match. In short, while Carp was pushing over set-ups in England and France the fans were to be regaled with one cinch affair over here and allowed to occupy their minds with entertaining conjectures as to whether Dempsey will or will not tackle Willard and Wills.

In short, Jack Kearns, shrewdest manager in ring history, was charting the course of the championship caravan with his customary skill when old Tex Rickard popped to the surface like a shark and rocked the boat by unceremoniously offering Carpentier $150,000 for a fight this summer with Harry Greb on this side of the pond.

M. Descamps answered this discreetly and diplomatically and with true Old World politeness, but mainly evading the main point. It seemed to grieve M. Descamps more than words could portray to inform Mr. Rickard that it would be impossible for him to accept the offer, as Carpentier is already engaged to meet Messrs. Beckett and Nilles. But M. Descamps didn't explain in what way these could interfere with a summer meeting with Greb, as the Beckett and Nilles affairs are scheduled for September and October. Only possible interference would be for Greb to whip Carpentier, which he probably would, thereby spoiling that return engagement over yonder, if, indeed, it has not already fermented.

Nothing before has happened to so ruthlessly expose the unsoundness of a return match between Dempsey and Carpentier as a sporting proposition. In fact, I am not sure that this and increasing insistence of the public for genuine competition hasn't about sounded the death knell of that carefully planned affair. At least, heroic methods of resuscitation will be necessary.

But in the light of past events we have a hunch that something like this will happen. Interest in the Brennan match will be rapidly worked up to a point where it will occupy the public mind, together with talk of a return meeting with Willard, with the result that matters of real importance in the boxing world will be forgotten and more serious business sidetracked. Then Carp.

Young's Shoes for Men

Two New Grid Coaches for Cub Eleven

Harry Trotter, who holds sway as athletic director at the U. C. Southern Branch, has just signed up two assistants for the coming gridiron season, the same being Capt. Leigh Bell, former Iowa star, and Jimmy Cline, late of California. Bell was All Big Ten tackle in 1910, stands six feet one, and tips 'em at 210. He coached the Iowa freshmen one season, and later had charge of the Iowa 'varsity line. He will specialize on the Cub linemen, according to Trotter.

Jimmy Cline will be boxing and wrestling instructor at S.B.U.C., and will help coach the backs.

There was a good crowd for Thursday, with numerous squirrels in the stand to take a look at Brazil. It is rumored that the Portland infield will be rebuilt around Brazil next season. Filbert is slated for short, with Pecan at third, while Hazel of the Boston bloomer girls has been highly recommended for first. This would be a hard defense for the opposition to crack. Also P. Nut is slated for the job of double-jointed mascot, who is expected to be especially efficacious in double-headers.

GO BLOOIE

Things went blooie for the Beavers in the eighth. P. Samson Schneider doubled with one down, scoring on a single by Bodie. Locker safefied to center, meaning singled. Sawyer sent Bodie across with a two-bagger, and Locker counted when Gressett tossed wild to third. Sawyer took that base on the error, and was trapped on an attempted squeeze that was devoid of forcepa. The score:

...Ontario Boxing Commission in a Timely Hint

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TORONTO (Ont.) June 22.—The Ontario Athletic Commission has advised that it indorses the action of the New York State Athletic Commission in depriving Johnny Kilbane and Johnny Wilson of their titles of featherweight and middleweight pugilistic champions. This telegram was sent to the New York State commission:

"Statement that Canada backs action of New York State commission in depriving Wilson and Kilbane of their championships is not correct. Ontario commission is quite satisfied that some such action should be taken, but it is of the opinion that it should be done, not by one State commission, but through a national association representing many States."

CUTSHAW THERE

DETROIT, June 22.—Cutshaw's triple, followed by Rigney's single, ended an eleven-inning pitching duel between Ehmke and Pruett here today and allowed Detroit to beat St. Louis, 3 to 2, in the opening game of a series of four. The league leaders held a two-run advantage until the sixth inning, when Pruett weakened momentarily, allowing the Tigers to tie the score. Both pitchers received effective backing, Pruett particularly getting air-tight support in the pinches. The score:

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 22.—Reuther Brooklyn's star left-hander, won his twelfth victory of the season here today, defeating New York in a fast, hard-fought game, 3 to 2. While New York outhit Brooklyn, Reuther always had the game in hand. Ryan was knocked out in the fourth inning, hits by Mitchell, Brooklyn's substitute first baseman, being largely responsible for the two scored on Ryan. A diving catch by Outfielder Meyers featured the game. The score:

SIWASHES LOSE TO OAKLAND IN TENTH

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OAKLAND, June 22.—Brown's single, Cather's infield tap and Brubaker's double in the tenth frame decided today's match in favor of Oakland, 5 to 4, for its third straight win over Seattle. Both Arlett and Burger were hit hard. The Indians had a good chance to put the game away in the eighth, when they scored three runs and went one in the lead, but Crane hit into a double play with the bases loaded.

VOTES FOR RETURN BOUT

France Favors Another Fight Between Carpentier and Dempsey; Greb Is Sidestepped

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, June 22.—Public sentiment in France is in favor of a return match between Georges Carpentier and Jack Dempsey, according to a vote taken by the sports newspaper L'Auto. In this pool 15,788 voted yes and 5227 no to the query, "Is a Carpentier-Dempsey return match desirable?"

Carpentier's plan for other bouts do not take Harry Greb, the American light-heavyweight, into consideration. In fact he displays an unexplained annoyance when the Pittsburg fighter's name is mentioned.

SOFT BOUTS

Carpentier's manager, Descampa, is arranging matches with the prehistoric second-rater, Dick Smith of England, with Joe Beckett, and with the winner of the Battling Siki-Marcel Nilles contest, scheduled for tomorrow.

Battling Siki is a Senegalese who was discovered by Al Lippe and Jeff Smith, while the former boxing stable was here two years. Lippe hired Siki as a rubber and trial horse for his boxers, but the Senegalese soon commenced bowling over Lippe's men with the exception of Jeff Smith. Since then he has defeated Breitenstatter of Germany, Erminio Spalla of Italy, and the heavyweight champions of Belgium and Holland, and has not met with defeat.

Nilles is a clean-cut two-handed fighter, and probably the best man in his class in Europe with the exception of Carpentier.

Gardena High Has Good Year in Athletics

Athletics at Gardena High School in the Bay League have assumed a rosy hue. Gardena squads won the basketball and baseball league championships last semester, the first titles ever won by a Gardena school.

Gardena's chances of winning two more titles next year are very bright as only one man is lost from the championship baseball and basketball teams. The Cardinals also have a good chance of winning the football title as only four men are lost by graduation from last year's eleven. At an aud call held recently the following men were awarded baseball letters: Storti, Hubbell, Jessup, Fields, Ducazan, G. Edwards, J. Edwards, Girardin, McLeod and Girard.

The coaching of "Tiny" Leonard has been responsible for the recent successes.

Fine Field to Face Barrier in Kentucky Special at Latoria

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CINCINNATI, June 22.—Arrival at Latonia today of the Harry Payne Whitney horse completed the roundup of the $1,000,000 field of thoroughbreds that will face the barrier in the $50,000 Kentucky special race Saturday. All the entrants have been given tryouts that were satisfactory to their trainers.

After Morvich had worked an easy mile and an eighth in 1:54 yesterday, his owner, Ben Block, said:

"We liked Morvich's work very much. He did it with all his old-time willingness. There was no need to go faster. He has his speed, and when he goes to the post on Saturday, he will be ready to do his best."

Olympus and Whiskaway were given final workouts yesterday before being shipped and probably will be breezed only short distances Friday to put them on edge. Jockey Penman will ride Whiskaway Saturday; Morriss will be on Olympus and Miller on Hillory. R. T. Wilson's Preakness, winner, Deadlock, the Shannon LaFourne stable representative, is said to be pounds better than when he went on the Ten Broeck handicap, and Trainer Shannon believes he has a surprise in store for the eastern fans.

TUNA ARE ABUNDANT AT CATALINA ISLAND

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

AVALON, June 22. — Barracuda and tuna are still running strong off the coast of Catalina Island today. Dustin Farnum, noted film star and sportsman, landed four large blue fins. Large schools of barracuda are in evidence and many are being caught daily.

CAPONI DUE TODAY

Tony Caponi, "the walloping wop," declared by those who keep clase tabs on ring doings to be one of the best 130-pound boys in the country, will arrive in Los Angeles today to be present at the ringside of the Vierra-Chany set-to tonight. Tony has been spending a two weeks' vacation at Coronado and hopes to meet Vierra for the Coast title in the near future.
